WILL DEMAND PAY FOR USE OF STEAM

Company Puts City on Notice It Will Refuse Payment, But Bill Will Be Sent All the Same.

Following testimony given by three officials of the Atlanta Gas Light company and one of their former employees concerning the alleged use of steam from the city crematory by the gas company, the probe hearing came to an end Friday afternoon and the special committee of the board of health, composed of Mayor Key, D. J. Baker and Dr. P. L. Moon, who conducted the investigation, decided to send a bill to the gas company requesting payment for the crematory steam its plant is alleged to have consumed.

Richard C. Congdon, secretary and general manager of the gas company, put the committee on notice that the company would flatly refuse to pay anything for the steam, since they claimed an arrangement had been made by which they furnished coke to the crematory in exchange for the steam they obtained.

Value of the Steam.

The commercial value of the steam will have to be partially estimated. Investigation of the matter disclosed the information that no record of its volume has been kept by either the crematory or gas plant officials, and from the testimony its use appears to have been intermittent. Mayor Key estimated that the gas company is indebted to the city in a sum not less than $6,000.

What basis the committee will employ in determining how much is due the city will be worked out at a future meeting and the value of the steam as computed by its members will be submitted to the board of health, which meets again on July 3. Approved by the members of the board a bill will then be presented to the gas company.

Testimony of the witnesses was brief. Allen D. Whittaker, general superintendent of the company, was first on the stand. In reply to questions from Mayor Key he explained the various purposes for which the steam was used, such as pumping tar and oil, melting naphtha and keeping some vital parts of the machinery warm during cold weather, all of which had been brought out at previous hearings. He would place no estimate on its commercial value.

His testimony was corroborated by Mr. Congdon, who was the next witness. He was examined more at length than Mr. Whittaker. Mayor Key pressed him for some record of how much of the city's steam his company had obtained. Mr. Congdon replied by explaining a method by which the city engineer could arrive at the amount. "I don't think it is the city's place to do this, I think it is up to you," said the mayor. "I don't think so," was the opinion of Mr. Congdon.

"You wouldn't object to the city sending you a bill for $5 a day for the steam during the time you used it, would you?" asked the mayor.

"I don't object to you sending the bill, but we won't pay it," answered Mr. Congdon. In retort the mayor told him that his company would get a bill, anyway.

Differ on the Date.

C. O. Johnson, former engineer at the gas plant, sprang a mild surprise when on the stand by dating the installation of the pipe between the crematory and the gas plant six years ago. Other witnesses during the hearing had testified that it was installed two years ago.

His testimony also conflicted with that of Charles D. Thomason, night foreman at the gas plant, who was called to the stand as the last witness. According to Mr. Thomason, who assumed responsibility for putting in the pipe, it was only about two years ago, and followed a sort of reciprocal arrangement between him and the superintendent of the crematory by which he furnished coke for steam. At various times, he said, he had sent over at least 55 bushels.

The first day of the hearing was last Saturday and three sessions have been held since.

MEN SWAP WIVES: ONE HUSBAND GIVES WHISKY TO BOOT

Smithfield, N. C., June 13.—That he had traded wives with another man and had given a half-pint of whisky and 25 cents to boot was admitted on witness stand in court here today by Iredell Wheeler, a white man, testifying in a case in which four other white men are charged with conspiracy to kill.

CLUBMAN IS SENT TO ATLANTA PRISON FOR MAKING BOOZE

Chattanooga, June 13.—Kelso Hailey, former prominent society and clubman who pleaded guilty to operating a distillery in the basement of a fashionable apartment house here, and was sentenced to a year and a day in prison in United States court this morning, was taken to the Atlanta federal penitentiary tonight by Deputy Marshal Fred W. Hill.

J. H. Green Is at Grady Hospital in Dying Condition, His Wife Has Injured Hand, and Bailiff Luther Williams, Although Wounded, Escapes.

WIFE SHOT IN TRYING TO PROTECT HUSBAND

She Says That Husband Did Not Shoot Until Bailiff Had Fired First and Bullet Had Gone Through Her Hand.

With a bullet wound near the heart, John Henry Green, an aged truck farmer, is dying, his wife is suffering from a bullet wound in the right hand and Luther Williams, a bailiff in Cook's district, who is charged with the shooting, and who was slightly wounded by the farmer is being sought by the county police.

The shooting occurred about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the residence of Green, on the Huff road, a short distance outside the city limits, when Williams, it is said, went to the house to execute an attachment for several pieces of furniture which Green had bought from a store on Marietta street.

The affair, however, was not reported to the county police until after 7 o'clock Friday evening, when one of the neighbors called at the house of Lieutenant Carroll, who rushed to the scene, and, seeing that Green was in a dying condition, phoned the Grady hospital. A record run was made by the ambulance and Green was placed on the operating table, but soon afterwards physicians asserted he would die within a few hours.

Several Shots Fired.

In discussing the shooting, Lieutenant Carroll said that, from the appearance of the front room of the residence of Green, many shots were fired, several places in the walls being pierced by bullets.

"I made every effort to avoid trouble," said Mrs. Green. "When I saw that the bailiff was going to shoot my husband I threw myself between them. I told Williams to shoot, if he dared. I had hardly spoken before he drew his revolver from his pocket and pulled the trigger. The bullet struck me in the right hand.

"I immediately tried to stop the flow of blood, and Mr. Green became aroused and got his rifle, which was leaning up against the wall. Williams opened fire again. The first shot went through the wall. By this time my husband had his gun to his shoulder and he discharged the weapon, slightly wounding Williams, who fired one more shot and my husband fell unconscious to the floor."

Lieutenant Carroll said that Williams drove up in a truck belonging to the furniture company, but got out of it a short distance from the house and told the driver to wait for him.

Asked for a Match.

He went to the dwelling, it is said, and tried to open the door and, upon finding it locked, rang the bell. When Mrs. Green came to the door she asked who it was, and Williams is said to have asked her for a match.

As soon as Mrs. Green opened the door Williams, it is stated, pushed her aside and declared that he was going to get certain pieces of furniture in the house. The row, according to the Greens, started when Williams cursed in the presence of the woman.

Green, who is 60 years old, was unable to make any statement of the shooting at the hospital because of his critical condition. His wife is about 55 years old.

Although every effort is being made by the county police to learn the whereabouts of Williams, so far his address has not been learned.

GREAT FIRE IS RAGING IN HEART OF NORFOLK

Norfolk, Va., June 14.—The main offices of the American Railway Express company in the heart of the downtown district are ablaze at 1:30 this morning and the entire section is threatened. The expless building is doomed. All available fire-fighting apparatus in the city has rushed to the scene. Several explosions have occurred.

Enemy Aliens Released.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 13.—Twenty-one enemy aliens arrested in the Panama canal zone and interned at Fort Oglethorpe during the war, have been released and left here today in a special car and under guard for New Orleans, from which point they will sail.

RAILWAY KEYMEN TO QUIT HANDLING TRADE MESSAGES

Order Issued by Union of Railway Telegraphers in Effect at 23,000 Points This Morning.

CLAIMS CONFLICTING IN REGARD TO STRIKE

Union Leaders Assert Strike Is Spreading, But the Wire Companies Insist Conditions Are Rapidly Becoming Normal.

Chicago, June 13.—The second stage of the Commercial Telegraphers' strike will be reached tomorrow morning when railroad operators at 23,000 points in America are to discontinue handling commercial messages under an order issued by the Order of Railway Telegraphers.

Such action, strike leaders declared tonight, will tie up all commercial telegraph business except between the larger cities in which the Western Union and Postal companies maintain their own offices. Officials of the Postal said that company would not be affected by the order as little Postal business is handled through railroad stations.

Western Union officials while expressing belief that the order would be rescinded, predicted that its effect would not have serious results.

They estimated that the 23,000 points handling commercial business over railroad wires do not average more than five messages each day.

Claim Strike Is Spreading.

Meanwhile, officers of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America continued to receive reports indicating that the strike is spreading. S. J. Konenkamp, international president of the union, said the number of strikers had reached 22,000; that the strike of electrical workers set for next Monday would add 130,000 workers to the list of those idle, and that by early next week telephone service in many cities and towns will be greatly impaired through a walk-out of telephone operators.

Practically all union telephone operators are members of the Electrical Workers' union. Committees set to work in many cities today picketing among telephone operators who are being urged to join the strikers.

The brokers' division of the Telegraphers' union has been asked to take action. Meetings were to be held tonight and tomorrow at which it will be decided whether to strike in sympathy. Strike leaders said a walk-out of brokers' operators would block transmission of financial business to such extent that business on Wall street would be greatly hampered.

Claims of strike leaders that the walk-out is rapidly spreading were refuted by officials of commercial companies who said they were accepting business without restrictions and that conditions were practically normal.

Postal officials likewise stated that conditions were improving and that the Chicago office, which was hard hit on the first day of the strike, is operating "about 70 per cent normal."

Conditions to Postal.

A committee representing the strikers submitted to the Postal conditions upon which a settlement could be reached. They provided that the company agree to wage adjustments after the government has released control of the company. The conditions were forwarded to New York.

The union men charged that Postmaster General Burleson had in a sense "tied the hands of the commercial companies by prohibiting the signing of wage contracts."

The number of Chicago strikers was placed at 800 by strike leaders. The Western Union said only fifty-one persons were absent from the operating department, and the Postal announced that of the 350 operators, 70 per cent were at work.

The messengers of both companies still are on strike.

NOT NEGOTIATING, ASSERTS POSTAL.

New York, June 13.—The Postal Telegraph company has entered into no negotiations whatever with its striking operators, and has received no communication from them at any time except through the public press, it was stated here today by Edward Reynolds, general manager of the Postal system. Mr. Reynolds added that the company looked on the strike as virtually at an end.

Mr. Reynolds said the company had virtually a normal force of op-

British Hold Ellis Prisoner In Egypt And Ban Dispatches

Correspondent of The Constitution and New York Herald Has Been Detained for About 17 Days.

AMERICAN OFFICIALS BLAMED BY DR. ELLIS

He Says They Have Connived at Acts of British. Ellis Asserts His Only Offense Has Been to Present Both Sides of Egyptian Trouble.

Dr. William T. Ellis, staff correspondent of The Atlanta Constitution and New York Herald, and the only American newspaper man in the Near East, is being held practically a prisoner in Cairo, Egypt, according to delayed cable dispatches received by The Constitution and Herald.

By William T. Ellis.

Cairo, June 2.—(Delayed.)—Out here where the east and the west impinge, the old, old question of the freedom of the press is raised anew. Not the ligerty of the Egyptian press, which is non-existent, but of the American press. By this condition the facts concerning international problems are not public property in the face of the censorship. If an American jouralist dares follow the commonest rules of his craft, sees both sides of a question and gets all the facts, he quickly finds himself in a position where he is prevented traveling in lands where acute problems exist, and to which Americans look for a partial solution of great problems.

The league of nations principles concerning pitiless publicity, apparently are for home consumption. Because I saw for myself the national soviet at El Azhar—the British military authorities complained to Hampton Gary, American diplomatic agent, specifying these points. This is the same Gary who, after frequent dinners at the residency, shipwrecked extraordinary American prestige in Egypt by counselling recognition of the British protectorate at the very moment Egyptian delegates were in Paris, and when international recognition was but a matter of a few days. It was not fair to America that she alone would kick in the face a trustful suitor at her feet.

Need of Plain U. S. Loyalty.

There is serious need of the infusion of plain American loyalty in the official staff at Cairo. Military Attache Brewster (sic) a standard oil man from Syria, publicly echoed British attacks upon President Wilson and upon natives. Because I protested he boasted that he used influence with the British to hinder my movement. The nearest military authorities offered me permits to go anywhere except as the American agency forbids them. Meanwhile they are in close understanding with the agency which is being run by the young vice Counsul Bernard Gotlieb, who is interested more concerning his career than in upholding American rights. Just how the process of bottling up The Constitution-Herald correspondent by orders from Washington was operated, save by the compliance of Gary and the hostility of Brewster, I do not know. The consulate refuses me information, although it is avowedly co-operating with the British. The essential fact is that my military permit to go to Palestine, Syria and the interior of Turkey is withdrawn. There has been no charge that I have made any inaccurate statements, or any other charge against me. It was simply stated that independent investigators were not wanted in this part of the world, which is regarded as a British preserve, fenced by the censorship and military restrictions, wherein British traditions are inoperative.

So for seventeen days I have been detained in Cairo by mysterous orders of my own government. For ten days I was denied access to Washington through the consulate. Then I was granted only a brief inquiry. I have received no replies to my open telegrams to The Constitution-Herald. Government officials, apparently through the censorship, are preventing the transmission or delaying the delivery of my letters. Introductions from Washington and London are availing nothing.

Denied Basic Rights.

I am practically a prisoner and denied basic constitutional rights. Doubtless some day I will be per-

TESTIMONY ENDS IN M'DONALD CASE

Defendant Takes the Stand to State That He Struck Fatal Blow in Self-Defense.

Testimony in the trial of J. M. McDonald, prominent Mississippian, who is charged with slaying Joe Jung, a Chinaman, at the Southeastern fair grounds in the fall of 1917, was concluded late Friday afternoon and it was agreed by counsel for both sides that the arguments would consume five hours, two and a half hours each.

The first address for the prosecution was made by Harvie Hill and at its close court was adjourned until this morning. The case will probably go to the jury about noon.

The trial which is being held before Judge Render Terrell, in the emergency division of Fulton superior court, has consumed two days. Just before the argument began the defendant took the witness stand in his own defense.

McDonald could not make himself heard, so with the consent of Judge Terrell and the attorneys for the defense, Attorney Robert Jones, counsel for the defendant read his statement to the jury.

The defendant claimed that he struck the Chinaman in self defense after the victim had advanced upon him. Mr. McDonald was superintendent of concessions at the fair grounds and had ordered Jung to move his stand to another site. This the Chinaman refused to do, according to the defendant and an argument ensued, which ended in the death of the Chinaman.

DEMOCRATS PLAN TO UPHOLD TREATY

Hard Fight Will Be Made Against Divorce Resolution of Knox—Hitchcock Says Resolution Will Be Beaten.

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service, Copyright, 1919)

Washington, June 13.—The democratic members of the senate in caucus today perfected plans for conducting a filibuster against the Knox resolution when the measure to separate the league of nations covenant from the peace terms in the treaty with Germany comes before the senate, in the hope of delaying a vote until late in the week.

The democratic leaders in the senate expect the treaty to be signed before the end of next week, and they laid their plans today for a filibuster that will continue for only four or five days. At the end of that time, they said, they will permit a vote to be taken.

"The conference was very informal," said Senator Hitchcock, acting minority leader of the senate, after the causus. "It was held to discuss ways and means for submitting the resolution to a very thorough discussion on the floor of the senate when it comes up. We discussed how the time will be divided and who will make the speeches."

After making this blunt announcement of the democratic plans, Senator Hitchcock said that he wanted to make it clear that the democrats have no intention of filibustering. He said that he will make an announcement on the floor of the senate when the discussion of the resolution opens; that the minority senators will not filibuster.

Bound to Call for Debate.

"Such a thing as the Knox resolution cannot be permitted to go through without a thorough discussion, however," he added. "It is bound to call for just a little debate."

Senator Hitchcock denied that he had received any word from President Wilson or that the white house is advising the democratic senators in any way in regard to the Knox measure. He said that it is strictly

SAILORS MUTINY IN FRENCH NAVY; RED FLAG RAISED

Account of the Trouble in French Black Sea Fleet Related to Parliament by Socialist Deputy.

SAILORS OBJECTED TO WAR ON RUSSIANS

Machine Gun Used on French Sailors and Soldiers for Fraternizing With Russians—Admiral Promised Not to Punish Mutineers.

Paris, June 13.—An account of the mutiny of seamen of the French Black sea fleet at Odessa in April was told in the chamber of deputies last night by Deputy Emile Goude, a socialist. During the trouble a red flag had been run up on the battleship France.

On April 20 a zealous young officer ordered a machine gun fired against French soldiers and sailors fraternizing with the Russians and several persons were killed and wounded. After negotiations the demands of the sailors were met and it was agreed that they should not be punished.

Clear for Action.

"The signal to clear for action was given on the morning of April 19," the deputy said. "The men gathered in crowds on the deck and refused to disperse when ordered. Then from the battleship France arose the strains of the international revolutionary hymn.

"The men gathered in groups on the ship and the captain tried to discuss the matter with the sailors, who appointed delegates to explain why the internationale had been sung. One of the delegates said:

"'The war we are being forced to make against the Russians is unconstitutional. The minister has not the right to use us for a war parliament has not voted.'

"The captain informed the admiral in command of the situation. The men listened to the attempts of the admiral to parley. They were respectful in their attitude to France. The internationale was again was sung in the evening and sailors on other ships took up the singing.

Red Flag On Ships.

"The red flag was run up on Easter morning besides the tri-color. The work on the ships was carried out regularly and the officers had full liberty.

"When the men were going ashore on April 20 a young ensign, seeing the sailors and French soldiers fraternizing with Russian men and women, ordered a machine gun fired. A naval lieutenant rushed up, placed himself in front of the men and stopped the firing. However, some were killed and wounded.

"After four days of negotiations, the admiral granted the demands of the delegates that the ships should return to France and that no punishment should be exacted from the men after the return."

Threat By Sailors.

Deputy Goude here asked M. Leygues, the minister of marine, if he intended to respect the pledged word of the admiral, but the minister did not answer. The deputy continued:

"The sailors will not abandon their delegates. Attempts are being made to make the delegates appear as leaders of the trouble. Four hundred sailors met at Toulon recently and told Admiral Lacase that their comrades must not be touched or they would strike."

MUTINY OF MARINES REPORTED AT TOULON.

By Dr. E. J. Dillon.

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service, Copyright, 1919)

Paris, June 12.—(Special Cable Dispatch.)—News has been received here of a mutiny of marines at Toulon, which is an additional symptom of the widely diffused spirit of insubordination. The marines demanded immediate demobilization and on refusal proceeded to imprison their chiefs and to turn their guns toward the city.

Debates in the chamber of deputies concerning the evacuation of Odessa are being followed with intense curiosity. Statements are being made to demonstrate the lack of wisdom in sending troops to Odessa; and unskilfullness in dealing with the situation there; the suicidal policy of denying them reinforcements and, having refused reinforcements, compelling them to postpone their withdrawal until finally they retreated, sacrificing enormous quantities of munitions and arms, motor lorries and heavy guns being hurled into the sea.

Orators, putting questions to the chamber, stigmatize as a crime a government action placing the French flag and the French army in that position. Mutiny of the mili-

PEACE TREATY WITH GERMANY BEING REDRAWN

HOLLAND OPPOSES GERMAN BLOCKADE

Dutch Government Will Not Join Allies in Event Germany Refuses to Sign Peace Treaty.

Paris, June 13.—Holland has notified the peace conference that the government will not participate in a blockade against Germany in the event of the refusal of Germany to sign the peace treaty.

While Unchanged in Principle, Virtually a New Document Will Be Presented to Germans by Allied Powers.

TEXT AS PUBLISHED RENDERED OBSOLETE

New Treaty Will Be Made Public as Soon as Delivered to Germans. Reply Likely to Be Made Monday.

Main Points in Reply Of the Allied Powers To German Proposals

Paris, June 13.—(Special Dispatch.)—According to all indications the reply to the German proposals will contain the following main points:

First—The allies will refuse to fix the amount of the indemnity, but the reparations commission will do so within a few months.

Second—The question of upper Silesia to be resolved by a plebiscite.

Third—Germany will be admitted to the league of nations after the payment of her first installment, and the determination of the total indebtedness.

Fourth—The period of allied occupation of the Rhine territory depends upon the fulfillment of the preceding conditions.

Fifth—Germany must signify her intention to sign or refuse to sign within five days.

Paris, June 13.—The peace treaty with Germany will be entirely rewritten and reprinted, for the incorporation textually of the explanations and clarifications contained in the allied reply to the German counter proposals.

While unchanged in principle, virtually a new document will be presented to the Germans.

It is understood that the new treaty will be made public on the day of its delivery or the day after.

Renders Old Text Obsolete.

Hence the decision to rewrite the document. It was commented in peace conference circles today that this action renders obsolete the text published in the United States.

The reply of the allied powers to the German counter proposals to the peace terms is likely to be

Friday, the 13th, Unluckiest of All Days on Calendar

That's the Opinion of Al Harris, Who Believes Man Would Be Safer in Argonne Forest Than Here on Hoodoo Date.

By Al Harris.

Back in the days when engraving stones were the fad, rather than typewriters, some poor nut chiseled out the immortal line: "There is nothing new under the sun." It is now an axiom, save to city editors and other statuary.

The boss called me into his cell Friday afternoon and said: "This is Friday, the 13th. We want a story—something different. They have been written since the year one, but snap into it and grind out a new angle."

Going down the elevator a pulley slipped and the car fel la couple of stories, and in the commotion a bulky gentleman stepped on my corn. On the bottom floor I met a friend who made application for a four-bitloan.

A Straw Hat Ruined.

I then entered a restaurant, planked my pocketbook on the marble and ordered a plank steak, a glass of water and a coroner. In the front end of the building hung one of these instructive calendars which flared the announcement, "June—Friday—13," and I remembered that I hadn't made my will. Then the waiter came dashing from the culinary section, twirling the order on two fingers, like a child playing with a volley ball; he saw forthefirst time that calendar, faltered,andthe meat andgravy fell in a cataclysm of non-Hooverism on my new straw hat, and in passing out, as I discovered later, I had forgotten the pocketbook.

On the street I met a bill collector that I knew in the days before democracy was endangered, and in shaking the tenacious human, accidentally mentioned my real address. He borrowed my pencil to write it down and failed to return the instrument.

And His Girl Passes.

I entered a telephone booth to call my girl, and after waiting the better half of an hour on central to answer, learned that she was not at home. Coming out I saw her pass on the other side of the street, with a fellow who used to be a second lieutenant in my company.

On the viaduct I stopped to watch the baseball returns. Twenty-two innings and the score tied! "Bet you a dollar that Chattanooga wins," I said to the man on my left.

"Take you!" he replied.

The game was called in the twenty-third inning, score still tied, which forced me to pass over the buck.

"Thanks," said the stranger. "Lucky I won. I haven't got a cent. Just had a hunch."

Depressed, blue, disgusted, I turned my steps back to the office. Then I remembered the story on my assignment sheet. "Oh, I'll make up one!" I thought. Which I did.

An Impassioned Appeal From a Great Soul in Despair

Herman Bernstein, foremost newspaper man in touch with Russia and the situation today in that unhappy country, has secured for publication in America copies of two great human documents. The first, written by Paul N. Miliukov, distinguished historian and editor, formerly Minister of Foreign Affairs, is in the form of an introduction. It explains and clarifies the situation in Russia as it is now and serves as the proper foreword for the second article. The second is written by Leonid Andreyev, Russia's foremost writer. In it, the writer sends out an S. O. S. call to the peoples of the Allied countries. It is the outcry of a great soul in despair, full of disillusionments and bitterness. The first of these two great articles will be published in next Sunday's Constitution, and the second on the Sunday following.

In addition to this great feature, there will be many unique and fascinating articles and stories from the pens of the most brilliant writers now living. Personal experiences, comment on current affairs, political forecasts, fiction, fashions, sports, business and art are all included in the wonderful list of features which make The Sunday Constitution the greatest publication of its kind in the Southern States.

NAVY COMMANDEERS QUANTITIES OF COAL

Washington, June 13.—To keep troop transports at sea and at work returning soldiers, it has become necessary for the navy department virtually to commandeer large quantities of fuel, it was announced tonight. Supplies offered to the government by competitive bids have been entirely inadequate. Orders issued today call for enough coal to keep ships moving for the next six weeks, including the battleships as wess as the transports.

COTTON CONFERENCE AND FOREIGN NATIONS

Washington, June 13.—A resolution by Representative Dupre, democrat, Louisiana, authorizing President Wilson to invite foreign nations to send representatives to the world cotton conference at New Orleans, October 13 to 16, was favorably reported today by the house foreign affairs committee.

"There are many precedents for this resolution, which was drawn in consultation with the state department," said the committee report. "The importance of a conference on the subject of cotton, following the war, will be recognized and understood. A committee of representative citizens from all parts of this country is now in Europe, inviting the European nations to send representatives to such a conference. It is believed that official recognition of this gathering, such as is contemplated by this resolution, will be extremely helpful to this committee, because it gives a formal and official status to the conference. The grower, the ginners, the manufacturers, the exchanges will participate in the conference; in other words, the conference will be truly representative of the great cotton industry, in all its phases and ramifications."

BACK FROM OVERSEAS, LIEUT. CORNETT DIES

Talladega, Ala., June 13.—Lieutenant Joseph C. Cornett, only son of Sheriff and Mrs. J. C. Cornett, of Talladega, died this morning at the military hospital at Fort Banks, Winthrop, Mass., as a result of pneumonia. Lieutenant Cornett arrived at Boston last Sunday ill at the time of landing. His mother was with him.

Lieutenant Cornett entered the Alabama national guard as a private at the time of the Mexican border trouble. He was made a lieutenant in France in reward for his service as a soldier. The body is now en route to Talladega. He will be given a military funeral.

BRITISH WARSHIPS SHELL KRONSTADT

Bolshevik Batteries Not Replying to British Fire. Reported Bolsheviki Are Trying to Evacuate Kronstadt.

Stockholm, June 13.—A British squadron is bombarding the Bolshevik base at Kronstadt with heavy guns, according to a report published in The Aftonbladt today.

The Bolshevik batterics, however, are not replying to the British fire. The Bolsheviki have placed floating mines in the nearby waters.

EXCLUSION IS ASKED OF RUSS SOVIET AGENTS

Washington, June 13.—Deportation of L. C. A. K. Martens and other representatives of the Russian soviet bureau in New York was requested in letters sent today by Senator King, of Utah, to Attorney General Palmer and Secretary Wilson.

"It is time," Senator King wrote, "that these disturbers of our peace and enemies of our country and civilization should be driven from this land,, whose hospitality they have so grievously abused.

"There are thousands of Russian aliens in the United States who are enemies to our government and give support to the Bolshevist autocracy. They are intriguing in every way possible against this government and seek its overthrow. Certainly the representatives of Lenine and Trotsky, who come here avowing their connection with the Bolshevist organization should be deported from the United States. As a matter of fact, if the officials of our government have done their duty they would not, in my opinion, have been admitted to our shores."

Senator King called attention to laws excluding from the United States of alien anarchists and said: "There is no question but that the representatives of the Lenine-Trotsky organization come within one or more of the classes defined in the statute."

GORDON GENERAL REVIEWS TECH SOLDIERS

A big feature of the Georgia Tech commencement was the review of the R. O. T. C. of the institution. Major General Sturgis, commanding general of Camp Gordon, and his staff, in spected the young soldiers and then they passed in review before the general. The upper picture shows the troops pass ing in review. On the right General Sturgis and his aid, Captain Merrill, are saluting the colors as they pass. Lower p icture: General Sturgis, his staff, Colonel Bailey, recruiting officer for Atlanta, and officers from Camp Jessup at the rev iewing stand.

Tech's first competitive drill and review of reserve officers' training corps forces, over three hundred strong, was held Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock on Grant field before a large crowd of interested spectators, composed mostly of military notables and friends of the school.

The sight was an impressive one, and the future young officers were applauded enthusiastically by those who looked on, the generals and colonels in the audience being just as emphatic in their approval as were the civilians.

The drill was held on the football field before the concrete stands, where the majority of the audience were seated, and they made a fine picture as they marched by with all the precision of seasoned veterans. In fact, numbered among their officers were several men who have been through the grueling tests of the war, some in overseas service, and others in the training camps on this side.

The six companies vied with each other for the possession of the newly-offered Steele Military trophy, a silver cup, presented by A. B. Steele, an alumnus, in memory of Tech men fallen in France. Company B, under the command of Cadet Captain Dan B. Sanford, was awarded the honor of first possessing the trophy, after a lengthy conference by the judges, although several other companies made such excellent showings that it took close figuring to arrive at a final decision.

Individual Contest.

The individual contest, among thirty picked men, was very closely contested. Three officers of the regular army gave them everything in the manual, and they dropped slowly and with reluctance as some mistake was made. Finally, only three remained from the three squads into which they had been divided, and as the tests became more difficult, finally, only T. D. House, of the freshman class, remained to claim the gold medal offered by A. G. Allen, of Tech.

In presenting the trophy to Company B, and the medal to Mr. House, Major General Sturgis, commander of Camp Gordon, expressed his hearty approval of the competitive drills, which have been inaugurated, stating that in this friendly rivalry, the proper morale and esprit de corps is established. He complimented the winning company and individual very highly on their honors.

General Sturgis and his staff, among whom were Colonel Fitz Hugh Lee, chief of staff, and Captain Hugh Murrill, aide, led the corps on the field to begin the exercises and after inspecting the companies, the entire corps passed in review before him and the high army officers who were before the grandstand.

Major R. P. Cook, commandant, was in charge of the corps, with Cadet Colonel Albert B. Hill in command. Cadet Major Tom W. Colley was in command of the first battalion, and Cadet Major S. S. Wallace, Jr., in command of the second battalion. Each of these officers holds commissions in the national army, as does also Cadet Captain Dan B. Sanford, commander of the winning company.

Thank Officers.

The faculty of Tech extended to these students who held army commissions and contributed their services without remuneration towards the training of the corps a vote of thanks at the last faculty meeting. The men were inspired only by a spirit of loyalty and patriotism in continuing their military duties after having been discharged from the army.

The present R. O. T. C., organized shortly after the beginning of the college year, is composed of freshmen and sophomores. The course takes four years to complete, and at the end of that time, second lieutenants' commissions are awarded to those who desire them in the regular army, the remainder being placed on the reserve list.

As this is the first year of the corps, no commissions will be awarded this year.

Following the drill, Dr. K. G. Matheson, president of Tech, held a reception at his home to members of the graduating class, alumni and members of the faculty, which was largely attended. The senior banquet was held in the evening.

1,000 Seventh Grade Children Stage Splendid Concert Friday

One thousand little girls and boys, members of the seventh grades of Atlanta's public schools, last night staged a splendid musical concert at the Auditorium-Armory, Miss Kate Lee Harralson conducting the various vocal numbers.

The city's musical prodigies occupied a section of seats extending entirely across the big Auditorium building directly in front of the stage.

The youthful songsters were flanked on all sides by parents and friends, and each number was received with enthusiastic applause. The children sang beautifully and evenly, their youthful voices blending softly in the folk songs and patriotic airs which featured the evening's program. Many in the audience stated after the program that they have never been more delightfully entertained, and the best part of the affairs was that the kiddies seemed to enjoy themselves immensely.

The program of the evening consisted of five parts and an organ number by City Organist Charles A. Sheldon, Jr. In detail it was as follows:

"Star-Spangled Banner;" "Santa Lucia," Italian folk song; "Green Far Mountain Side," folk song.

"Snow Flakes," "Kellar's American Hymn," "America."

"Community Songs," "Good-Night."

BILLIONS NEEDED IN EXPORT TRADE

About $3,600,000,000 Must Soon Be Provided by Private Initiative If U. S. Trade Is to Stay at the Present Level.

Washington, June 13.—More than $3,000,000,000 of new funds must be provided by private initiative in the next few months, if the United States is to continue its export trade at the present high level, it was estimated today by the federal reserve board in the June issue of the federal reserve bulletin.

Cognizance was taken of the doubt expressed by some experts that the existing level can be maintained without serious financial strain. With the supply of capital short of world requirements, additional long-term credits to Europe would deprive this country of needed money, while failure to extend credit might result in shortened industry and lessened demand for labor at home, also retarding Europe's economic recovery which is regarded as necessary to the re-establishment of normal conditions everywhere.

One essential in the solution yet to be worked out is believed to be continued saving by the American people to increase available capital.

Europe will owe the United States this year a balance of trade of at least $3,000,000,000. Interest and other returns on American holdings of foreign securities were estimated by the federal reserve board to be not much below $600,000,000 annually, while the foreign obligations maturing this year will amount to between $600,000,000 and $750,000,000. The treasury's advances to foreign countries have been limited to $10,000,000,000, of which $9,500,000,000 has been expended and most of the remaining $500,000,000 allocated. An export credit of $1,000,000,000 may be made available through the war finance corporation, the director of which, Eugene Meyer, Jr., is now in Europe studying the economic situation.

Accordingly it was estimated that means must be found to finance about $3,600,000,000 of new obligations and to renew perhaps $600,000,000 of old ones—"a gigantic, probably an unprecedented, financial problem," the board remarked, "but one expected to be solved."

Effect of Advances.

"It remains to be seen how far the credit of $1,000,000,000 placed within reach of the war finance corporation can be availed of in practice," the board said. "Whatever may be determined on this score, it is not desirable that government direction of private industry should be continued longer than is absolutely essential."

Government advances to other governments for the purchase of goods in this country naturally result, it was said, in a tendency to indiscriminate consumption and a more or less uneconomic use of funds, until the time arrives when the continuance of such a policy means the increase of an indebtedness which is "passing beyond the power of the debtors to liquidate."

Private advances, on the other hand, if attempted at a rate greater than the rate of saving, would mean further inflation reflected in still greater increases in the "cost of living." The natural tendency of the present time was said to be to try to accomplish too much in a short time, with the situation rendered more difficult by the fact that American investors are so little used to absorbing foreign securities.

Confidence was expressed by the board that the American banking organization was capable of protecting the country against undue diversion of capital to foreign development.

"It is understood that the problem is now fully under consideration," the board added, "and reasonable provision for the needs of the future may accordingly be expected."

AGRICULTURE TEMPLE GIVEN NEW IMPETUS

By J. A. Hollomon.
(By Constitution Leased Wire)

Washington, June 13.—Plans for the building of a temple of agriculture in Washington received impetus today by word from Spokane, Wash., that delegates from farmers' organizations of Washington, Oregon and Idaho, in session there, subscribed $20,000 toward the project. President Charles S. Barrett, of Georgia, is one of the prime movers in this undertaking.

The temple plan is sponsored by the national board of farm organizations, and tentative plans call for a magnificent building in which could be placed all national offices of farm and agricultural organizations, as well as a permanent agricultural exhibit.

BOY SCOUT DRIVE FACING FAILURE

Atlanta Must Do Much Better Today Than in Any Day Past in Order to Raise Quota.

Declaring that the "Atlanta Spirit" is not running true to form in the boy scout drive, leaders of the movement say that the people of the city will have to wake up during the last day of the campaign in order to prevent one of the smallest quotas ever asked of the Atlanta people for a good cause from failing.

In addition to the women of various organizations who have been pushing the Scout week campaign since its opening Monday afternoon, the young ladies of the Inman Park Girls' club will enter the drive today, taking an active part in the work on the uptown streets and endeavoring to save Atlanta from a threatened failure.

No report of the number of memberships was rendered Friday, as the customary luncheon and business meeting was omitted, but it is said that the number is yet far behind the quota. The number of memberships needed to make up Atlanta's quota is 2,394, and it is beslieved that not more than half of these have been secured—and there is only one more day of the drive.

Scout Dirtector Jameson, and E. H. Goodhart and Mel Wilkinson, leaders in the drive, held a council Friday afternoon and, as a result, the campaign will assume a more intensive and thoruogh aepect today. The men in the city who are said to be able to subscribe for many memberships, it is declared, will be canvassed, and it is thought that good results will come from appeals that will be made to them to aid in putting over the campaign.

"We can't afford to fail," said Mr. Goodhart. "Atlanta's good name is at stake. Atlanta has been reminded of an obligation she owes the boy scouts, and Atlanta must discharge it. Today is National Flag day, and as this day was set aside for the closing of the campaign, because it was thought to be a fitting day for closing such a drive, the people of this city should respond with patriotism to the calls that are being made for the boy scouts."

During the day there will be many scouts on the streets, entertaining the people with their stunts, showing the useful accomplishments that have been taught them.

Giving their hearty indorsement to the boy scout movement, and enclosing a check for $50 to pay for fifty memberships, Manget Bros., cotton dealers of the city, sent the following letter to E. H. Goodhart, chairman of the campaign:

My Dear Mr. Goodhart: You certainly are doing a wonderfully fine thing in this Boy Scout work and I am sure that everyone interested in boys appreciates your efforts.

Enclosed please find check for $50 which you may apply as seems best for the campaign. If you do not get up the quota it will be all right to let it pay for fifty memberships, but if the quota is secured, then let it pay for ten with the $4 on each to apply on the camp. In the event you use it all for memberships, later on I will help the boys on the expense for the camp.

I am deeply interested in all troops, but particularly so in Troop 2, Trinity church, and would appreciate it if you so apply my subscription.

Thanking you for your splendid and faithful work, and with kind personal regards, I am, yours sincerely,

HOLD CONFERENCE ON MONDELL ACT

Development Leaders Will Formulate Uniform Plan by which Georgia May Profit by Soldier Settlement Plan.

With a view of formulating a uniform plan to be presented to the legislatures of the various states for action in regard to the Mondell Soldier Fund settlement act, a number of the leading men in the development of the agricultural resources of the south opened a two-day conference at the Piedmont hotel Friday morning. The gathering was called by Clement S. Ucker, vice-president of the Southern Settlement and Development organization, whose headquarters are in Baltimore, Md.

Although no definite action was taken at the conference Friday F. H. Abbott, secretary of the Georgia Landowners' association, said that resolutions endorsing a uniform plan would be passed before the meeting comes to a close Saturday evening.

Will Reclaim Land.

"Reclamation of large tracts of lands, especially in the coastal plains of the south by community settlements of soldiers is the principal topic of discussion," said Mr. Abbott.

"Following a conference with Governor Dorsey and other prominent men of Georgia, it was learned some time ago that a bill would be introduced at the opening of the next session of the legislature in an effort to create a soldiers' land settlement board and given a charter to enable it to apply immediately for $10,000,000 from the government. The money will be expended on projects already surveyed by the engineers of the national reclamation service for homes for the service men of Georgia and other states who wish to settle here.

"The first purpose will be to improve the lands by drainage with the labor of discharged soldiers, who will be given good wages for their work. The next step will be to sell the lands to the former service men on long terms and low rates of interest. The soldier who has served and saved his country is to be the sole beneficiary of the proposed legislation.

Other States Act.

"Nearly every other state has already taken action to cooperate with the government. At this conference a uniform plan will be figured out so that the legislatures of the various southern states can cooperate with the government in the same manner."

Other persons attending the conference are H. E. Blakeslee, director general of the Mississippi Centennial exposition; W. A. McGurt, president of the North Carolina Landowners' association; Dr. W. F. Blackman, president of the Florida Live Stock association; A. G. T. Moore, manager of the cut-over land department, Southern Pine association, and others.

COST WILL NOT BE EXCESSIVE.

By J. A. Hollomon.
(By Constitution Leased Wire)

Washington, June 13.—(Special.) Charges that under the Mondell bill for soldiers' settlements, the cost of reclaimed farm lands would be excessive both to the government and to the soldier-farmer, were repudiated today by Director A. P. Davis, of the reclamation service at today's hearing before the house committee on public lands. Hr. Davis said that the average cost of cutover, wet and unused lands reclaimed under the cat in the south and east will be considerably less than $60 per acre, which he estimated is the average cost of reclaiming arid lands in the west. Some cutover lands can be cleared with a large tractor plow, Dr. Davis said.

Secretary of War Baker has arranged to appear before the public lands committee on the Mondell bill Saturday morning.

Great interest is being shown here in the meeting of southern settlement and development officials now in progress in Atlanta.

Important Problems.

Among the south-swide questions that are scheduled for discussion in addition to the soldier settlement program, is that of pasturage or forage. Expert information is to the effect that proper forage grasses will make the cut-over timber lands of the south one of the best regions of the United States for carrying on the live stock industry. The elimination of the cattle tick in large areas of the southern states through the co-operation of the department of agriculture and progressive southern states and organizations has helped to bring about this condition. The tick is now being hunted to its lair in relatively small parts of a few states, with the aid of the Florida cattle tick eradication committee and other organizations.

The Atlanta meeting will also take up the construction of good roads, betterment of the public health, improvement of rural schools and the enactment of state laws to provide for the control of dogfis in the interest of sheep raising and otherwise to encourage the live stock industry and other matters that will be consdered.

In line with lans to encourage stock-raising in the south, George M. Rommel, chief animal husbandman of the United States department of agriculture, is receiving the co-operation and support of various organizatioons interested in the development of the south. One of these plans is to amend the laws in certain states in order to prevent an unscrupulous owner of live stock from disposing of it after having borrowed money under a chattle mortgage on it.

Mr. Rommel has been invited to address the meeting of the South Carolina Bankers' association at Tybee Island, Georgia, June 18, on this subject, which will be considere don that occasion. It is pointed out that if bankers had sufficient protection under state laws for their capital loaned on live stock, the cattle industry in the southern states naturaly would be financed more extensively, thus helping to build it up.

Statesmen, economists and government officials and experts in the national capital have begun to realize something of the possibilities of the south.

Ucker's Opinion.

"I think it is fair to say that the south Atlantic and gulf coastal plain presents the greatst body of unused and idle lands remaining in continental United States," said Clement Ucker, vice president of the Southern Settlement and Development organization, just before leaving for the Atlanta meeting. "I thnk it is fair to say that with proper, constructive, fundamental development, it offers the greatest opportunities in continental United States, and I believe that when the day shall come when it shall be fully developed, it will be the richest, most prosperous, highly productive section of our country.

"I am quite certain, from personal knowledge and investigation, that southern California had no greater natural advanages in the beginning than have the south Atlantics and gulf states, and yet California, by the judicious expenditure of a reasonably large sum of money each year, has accomplished wonders. She has created a wonderful psychology that will last for a hundred years."

Interior department experts who have investigated land possibilities for soldiers' settlements in the southern states estimate that the average price of land to be acquired by the government for this purpose in that section will be less than $10 an acre, and that the average cost of reclamation work on such lands in the south will be below $40 an acre.

Negroes Are Urged To Bring to Justice All Law Violators

The second day's session of the Allen Endeavor League convention of the Atlanta conference at St. Peter's A. M. E. church, was featured by an address by Bishop J. S. Flipper, head of the A. M. E. church, in Georgia. The bishop discussed the necessity of training the young people of the church in the doctrines of the league and the great principles for which it stands.

Rev. W. A. McClendon, chairman of the finance committee, made a report of the financial and moral conditions of the leagues in the conference, which showed that the membership had increased one-third.

Revs. J. A. Lindsay, R. H. Singleton, L. A. Townsley, C. G. Gray and Horace Williams spoke on the progress of the race along Christian lines. Rev. J. H. McFarlin, conference president, declared in delivering his annual address that the success of the league will depend upon the pastors and workers in the Sunday schol and church.

Rev. B. R. Holmes, president of the Holmes institute, in delivering the welcome address, said: "No greater problem confronts the American negro than to teach the race self-respect and to obey the laws of the city and state and bring before the bar of justice members of the race who violate the law."

Rev. W. A. McClendon delivered the annual sermon at the evening session.

Rev. H. D. Canday, presiding elder of the Atlanta district, will deliver the closing address today.

TOO MUCH ALCOHOL IN JAMAICA GINGER, STATE DETECTIVES

Charged with having a quantity of Jamaica ginger in his possession, which, it was alleged, he sold for beverage purposes, N. H. Nicholson, who operates a soft drink stand at 275 Whitehall street, was bound over by Recorder Johnson on a bond of $200 Friday morning. City detectives alleged they found 25 bottles of the liquid in the establishment, which contained 93 per cent alcohol.

FIGHT IS PLANNED ON TAX CHANGES

Committee Is Named to Oppose the Amendment Which Will Be Introduced When Legislature Meets.

At a called meeting of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce Thursday afternoon, the merits and demerits of the proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Georgia, which, if adopted, will alter the entire system of taxation in the state, were discussed at length. This amendment will be brought before the state legislature which convenes this month.

Some of the most influential business men of the city were present and the advantages and disadvantages of the proposed amendment were considered. The general opinion of those present was that its enactment would be injurious and dangerous to the taxpayers of Georgia.

Former Governor John M. Slaton discussed the proposed amendment and stated that passage of the measure would be disastrous to the people of the state; that it would encourage lobbying and special favor.

"I believe that if the measure is put squarely before the people it will be defeated," said Wilmer Moore.

"It is a piece of vicious legislation," said Alex W. Smith. "It is taxation without representation of the most fragrant kind. It is contrary to the principle of our government, and if explained to the public will be overwhelmingly crushed by public opinion."

The proposed amendment is as follows: "All taxes shall be levied and collected under general laws for public purposes only. The general assembly shall have the power to classify property for taxation and to adopt different rates and methods for different classes of property, and to segregate different classes of property for state and local taxation. But all taxation shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax. Taxes may be levied advalorem upon any given class of property without regard to the method used in levying taxes on any other class of property. Taxes may also be imposed upon income, inheritance, privileges and occupations, which with classes of taxes, may be graduated, and when levied may contain provisions for reasonable exemptions."

A committee of members, which consists of the following prominent citizens, was appointed to start a publicity campaign, which, according to the statements of the speakers, would defeat the bill: J. R. Smith, Wilmer Moore, W. D. Manley, J. P. Allen and Alex Smith.

ON OUR NATION'S ROLL OF HONOR

The names of three Georgians are mentioned in today's official casualty list, which contains a total of 228 names. Of this number 27 more deaths are reported, while 201 are listed as wounded.

Special Division Arranges Programs For Celebration

For the purpose of arranging programs and securing speakers for the various days of the Methodist centenary celebration, Columbus, Ohio, June 20 to July 13, a division to be known as "special days and events" has just been created with Fred B. Fisher, of New York, chairman; Alonzo E. Wilson, Chicago, as director, and E. C. Hickman, of Chicago, director in charge of events. Mr. Wilson and Dr. Hickman have opened headquarters at the Columbus office.

Mr. Wilson is just back from a trip to the Pacific coast, where he conferred with the officers of the San Francisco exposition, and was given a complete file of their records and data worth thousands of dollars and containing a complete history of that exposition. They are now negotiating for the services of some of the men who helped make the San Francisco exposition the big success it was.

Mr. Wilson, who is a former Chicago newspaper man and at present is identified with chautauqua activities, has been active in the Methodist campaign for several months, during which time he has visited 39 states in organizing work. He has been a member of the Illinois legislature and identified with Illinois politics for a number of years. He has always been active in the temperance work of the country and is at present time senior member of the temperance committee of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

SMITH ESTATE FIGHT WILL TEST NEW LAW

According to state officials the suit which has been instituted by the state against the James M. Smith estate to force payment of taxes which it is claimed are due for the past seven years, and out of which has grown the injunction proceedings brought this week against the tax receiver of Oglethorpe county, E. J. Bray, is the first started under the authority vested in the state by the Davidson bill passed by the last legislature.

This measure made it possible for the authorities if they questioned the correctness of returns made by a taxpayer to not only have an assessment made and other taxes imposed, but to go back and collect those previously unpaid as well. The first investigation started after the passage of the bill was that of the Smith estate.

Counsel in the case was James E. Davidson, of Greensboro, originator of the bill, and W. H. Burwell, of Sparta, ex-speaker of the house. These men were appointees of the governor.

Although Comptroller General Wright said an income tax was paid on $2,000,000 when this became due taxes for many years previous had been returned on only $175,000. That is why so large a sum is involved, back taxes for seven years being claimed, a part of this time being during the lifetime of the testator.

The recent injunction brought by L. K. Smith, and the other administrators, although directed against the tax receiver of Oglethorpe county, was filed in the United States district court and is intended to attack the constitutionality of the law as it applies to an estate where there are non-resident heirs. The hearing in the federal court on June 20 will decide whether the litigation can be carried on in the state courts.

HERMANCE ELECTED

Assistance Treasurer of the Woolworth Company.

Harry Hermance, district manager of the F. W. Woolworth company, and one of the best known business men in Atlanta, has been elected one of the eleven assistant treasurers of the Woolworth company, according to announcement in the columns of "Women's Wear," retailers' newspaper.

Mr. Hermance has been prominent in a number of civic movements, and his many friends in Atlanta and throughout the state of Georgia will be interested to hear of the honor that has been paid him by the extensive concern of which he is an official.

Gideons Meeting.

The Gideons are now holding regular evangelical meetings in the pine room at the Ansley hotel every Sunday at 3:30 p. m.

At the meeting next Sunday delegates for the national convention at Cleveland will be chosen.

GEORGIA SOLDIERS MAY GET BONUS

To give every Georgian who served in the army, navy or marines three months' base pay is the object of a measure which will be introduced into the coming legislature by Representative Harper Hamilton, of Floyd county, who takes his place in the general assembly for the first time.

It is Mr. Hamilton's purpose to include as beneficiaries of the appropriation only those men who are discharged by the time that the president announces demobilization to have been completed. The money will serve as an income during a possible period of waiting for the salary of a new job to begin and will express the appreciation of the state for the unforgettable service rendered, as well.

The claim is made by Mr. Hamilton that Floyd county sent more volunteers into the service on a pro rata basis than any other county in the United States, with the one exception of a county in Kentucky. He states that several states through their legislatures have granted their soldiers the three months' base pay which he advocates.

G. N. I. ALUMNAE REPLY TO CARD OF JUDGE GOBER

The following reply to the recent card of Judge G. F. Gober has been received by The Constitution from Mrs. H. E. McAuliffe, president of the alumnae association of the Georgia Normal and Industrial college:

Editor The Atlanta Constitution: We would thank you to give us sufficient space to make a statement in response to Judge Gober's article which appeared in the public press.

The members of the alumnae association are educated women. We feel fully capable of our own thoughts and of expressing our own ideas and convictions without dictation from any outside party. The resolutions originated within our own association, where there are some deep convictions as to what is right and proper and just.

The signers of the resolutions were not mere girls, as suggested. One of them is a mother, whose husband is an alumnus of the University of Georgia: the second, who graduated under the presidency of Dr. Chappell, is now an extension worker in the state of Alabama; the third is a mother who came to witness her own daughter's graduation at this commencement.

The charges of Judge Gober are untrue and unfair to the Alumnae association of the G. N. & I. college. The alumnae, of their own accord, prepared their own resolutions and voiced their own sentiments when they asked for the changes in the control of the G. N. & I. college by the elimination of the ex-officio members appointed by the university board. It was not a "parcel of girls" who did this.

Instead of having unfriendly outside members on the college board of directors, the college ought to have more of its own graduates or friends as directors. We have a right to ask for democratic representation without being held up to ridicule as a "parcel of girls." Such treatment of us will not help Judge Gober's cause.

(Signed) MRS. H. E. M'AULIFFE,
President Alumnae Association, Georgia Normal and Industrial College.

ORGAN CONCERT

Special Program at Auditorium-Armory Sunday.

A pleasing program of variety numbers has been arranged by City Organist Charles A. Sheldon for his concert at the Auditorium-Armory Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, to which the general public is cordially invited. One of the features of the program will be "My Country," dedicated to the Eighty-second division, words by Mrs. M. S. Wolf and music by George F. Linder.

Other numbers included on the afternoon's bil are "Cornelius March," Mendelssohn; "Reverie Triste," G. Farrate; "Le Cygne" (The Swan), C. Saint-Saens; "Caprice" (The Brook), Gaston M. Dethier; "Moonlight," J. Frank Feysinger; "Siciliano," Henry S. Frye; "Gavotte," Padre G. B. Martini; "Finale," in D minor, H. Alexander Matthews

Watkins Will Handle Claims for Soldiers Without Any Charge

For the benefit of discharged soldiers, Homer Watkins, Atlanta attorney, with offices in the Fourth National Bank building, has announced that he will handle all allotment claims and other claims against the government free of charge.

Mr. Watkins served with the Eighty-second division in France with the rank of major, and naturally is well versed in military affairs.

"This service," stated Mr. Watkins, "is just one soldier offering a helping hand to another. I happen to be in position to do this for the boys, and will take great pleasure in being of service to them."

TO THOSE WHO DO THEIR OWN THINKING:

This is an advertisement addressed to the public for their information by and in defense of the Association Western Union Employees.

It is paid for and backed up by 585 men and women of Atlanta. They make up the active membership of a live labor organization, a body that represents ninety (90) per cent of all adult employees in all departments of the Western Union Telegraph Company in Atlanta. This organization is made up of practically the same percentage of Western Union employees throughout the United States and Canada and they are all on the job today to see that continuity in the telegraph service to the public is not broken.

Our organization has a membership today of 40,000 Western Union employees in the United States and Canada.

Here in Atlanta there are 777 persons on the Western Union pay rolls, including the General Manager and all the officials who are disqualified for membership in the Association. Of that number, 125 are not eligible for Association membership.

The Association is composed of and officered by Western Union employees. No employee of the company having authority to hire or discharge employees is eligible for membership. Other employees are eligible only after three months' service.

Contrary to what others would have you believe, this Association was originated in Chicago by two veteran telegraphers in the Spring of 1918, and had a membership of 1,200 before any Western Union official ever heard of it. President Carlton of the Western Union was petitioned for recognition of an Association composed of, and officered by, Western Union employees.

Mr. Carlton agreed to this and a convention was called and the Constitution and By-Laws were drawn up by delegates to that Convention, elected by the employees in every company division.

A formal agreement was entered into between the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Association, the company recognizing the right of collective bargaining in the adjustment through arbitration, of grievances as to wages and working conditions.

The Arbitration Feature

Most all strikes finally end in arbitration except those that "just fizzle out," no matter how they start. But, arbitration usually comes after somebody has gone hungry, a lot of money lost and the public seriously inconvenienced.

The Association takes the short cut — Arbitration.

Any member of the Association can file a complaint with the Local's Grievance Committee. The Committee puts the complaint before the proper company official.

If that official does not act favorably on the grievance, the committee can appeal to the Division Committee which puts the grievance before higher officials of the company and finally, if for the adjustment of the grievance to the Association's satisfaction, it is necessary to go beyond the president of the company for settlement, an Arbitration Committee of three members is appointed—one by the Association, one by the company and the third member of the committee is selected by the two members already appointed. If they cannot agree upon the selection of the third member, then the Judge of the United States District Court in the district in which the committee meets, will be requested to name the third member of the Arbitration Committee.

The decision of this Arbitration Committee is final in the adjustment of the grievance.

Can you beat this method of adjusting grievances? Is it not fair both to employee and employer alike?

The Association's Local Grievance Committee has, to date, received twenty-two grievances. Twenty-one of these have been decided favorably to the employees and the other one was returned by the committee because it lacked merit.

Why Should We Strike?

(1) We have an eight-hour day.
(2) We get time and a half for over-time work.
(3) We get two weeks' vacation each year with full pay.
(4) We receive very liberal sick and death benefits, equal in its liberality, in our judgment, to any sick and death benefit plan now in use by any firm or corporation.
(5) We get a square deal. Therefore, what reason have we to strike? NONE!

Ninety per cent of the Western Union employees are sticking and will continue to stick to their jobs.

The public is assured of efficient telegraph service, as a trial of that service now will prove.

Sincerely,

ASSOCIATION WESTERN UNION EMPLOYEES

STRIKE OPPOSED TO AID MOONEY

Secretary of Labor Wilson Urges American Federation Not to Countenance Strike—No Fear of Bolshevism.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 13.—Secretary of Labor Wilson, speaking before the convention of the American Federation of Labor today, urged organized labor to refuse to support the nation-wide strike which has been proposed as a protest against the conviction of Thomas J. Mooney. Mr. Wilson told the delegates that the government was investigating the claim that new evidence justified a new trial, and that he himself was devoting much time to the case.

The secretary declared that, so far, the government's inquiry had shown that the judge and jury before whom Mooney was tried had conducted themselves properly, and that on the evidence the jury had to convict. He admitted that the new evidence might develop which would alter the situation.

"But," he continued, "for organized labor to participate in such a strike as is proposed would simply mean that labor was trying Mooney, without the benefit of evidence. Very few of us are familiar with all the evidence, yet every working man is asked to make himself a juror. Justice cannot be obtained in that way."

Secretary Wilson then turned his attention to Bolshevism, and was heartily cheered when he asserted that no element of American labor would stand for Bolshevism for a moment when the true meaning of the movement was understood.

No Fear of Revolution.

"Closely allied to the work of the Industrial Workers of the World during the past year," he said, "there has been more or less Bolshevism agitation in the United States which san ot been to any great extent manifest among the real wage workers of the country, but which has existed principally among the parlor coal diggers of our country.

"We have no fear of a political revolution in the United States. It may be possible that these parlorites maybe misguiding a sufficient number of the laboring people to cause local disturbances that will be annoying, but no one in the ranks of labor—whether he is classed as an extreme radical or an extreme conservative or in all the elements between those two—will stand for Bolshevism for a minute when he knows what Bolshevism itself stands for.

"The American working man wants nothing of the political, social or economic conditions that have existed, and still exist in Russia. We have worked out our scheme far beyond that stage and we are going to continue to work it out to the achievement of higher ideals, and by the will of no advance guard, no matter how just or right their position might be, but by the will of the majority themselves."

Secretary Wilson pointed out that the conditions in eastern Europe and the United States were entirely different now and always had been. "Force in Europe may have been necessary," he declared. "Force to overthrow a monarchy may be great patriotism, but force in overthrowing a democracy, as some people are advocating, is high treason against the masses of the people. In this country we can settle things by evolution. There is no necessity for revolution."

Gompers Attacks Blanton.

President Gompers, after a roar of applause for Secretary Wilson had subsided, said that workers everywhere realized the truth of the secertary's statements. He then took occasion to refer to Representative Blanton, of Texas, as "bleating Blanton," for remarks the congressman made recently about labor.

"As time goes on," said Mr. Gompers, "Blanton will be eliminated or left at home as others of his stamp have been." He then sketched the history of the department of labor, and added:

"There seems to be a policy to starve this department out of existence or deny it money to the point where its efficiency and value to the working people of the country will be materially reduced. Let me tell you that outside the government departments which had to do with ships and soldiers during the war, the department of labor did more toward winning it than any other. We hope soon that the world will sway from military to industrial activity. I predict that the war and navy departments will become less and less potent and that functions of the labor department will become more vital to the nation. Let me announce, too, that the American Federation of Labor will fight any and all efforts to curb, weaken or destroy the department."

President Gompers announced that a committee consisting of C. L. Baine, of the boot and shoe makers; Martin F. Ryan, of the car workers, and D. H. McCarthy had been appointed to co-operate with the electrical workers' committee in negotiation with Postmaster General Burleson in an effort to ward off the electrical and telephone strike called for Monday.

Resolutions giving support to ladies' garment workers of Cleveland, and authorizing the granting of a charter by the federation to organizations of city policemen were adopted.

To Organize Negroes.

Resolutions dealing with petitions of negro representatives were then presented. The committee recommended that it did not concur with the request of the negroes for a separate international charter, but that it recommended the convention adopt a resolution providing for the organization of colored laborers and that, where they could not obtain admission to unions already existing, special charters for colored unions be issued by the federation.

The recommendation of the committee reporting on the negro resolutions was adopted with one dissenting vote after a lengthy debate. The convention then adjourned until Monday. Tomorrow most of the delegates will go to Washington by special train to participate in the demonstration there in protest against war-time prohibition.

WHISKY SMUGGLERS HAVING LITTLE LUCK

Washington, June 13.—Smugglers who have attempted to run the blockade of war prohibition laws to bring liquor into the country have met with small luck and officials of the customs service believe similar attempts under national prohibition will not be more productive.

Several thousand gallons of intoxicating drinks and a number of automobiles confiscated from international "bootleggers" testify to the effectiveness of the customs inspection. The automobiles can be disposed of by the government at any time, but the liquor is providing a difficult problem, as it must be sold before midnight of June 30. Auctions have been ordered in an effort to get rid of the property. Liquor captured in dry territory will be taken to a nearby port of entry in a state where it can be sold.

The Canadian and Mexican borders and Florida apparently attract more liquor smugglers than any other part of the country.

On the Canadian border there have been numerous attempts by smugglers operating in automobiles to run whisky across into dry states. Always the effort has been fruitless, resulting in confiscation of the contraband and the vehicle, and conviction of those responsible for the attempt. The customs inspectors and army patrol along the Rio Grande have been similarly effective there.

The nearness of Cuba and the West Indies to the Florida coast has offered temptation to small sailing vessels to try to beat the law by bringing in valuable cargoes of rum and other intoxicants, but apparently few have succeeded.

ARMY ORDERS

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service, Copyright. 1919)

Washington, June 13.—Captain John P. Reinhardt, infantry, now at United States army general hospital No. 6, Fort McPherson, Ga., will, when he is able to travel, proceed to Camp Jackson, Columbia, S. C., and report to the commanding general of that camp for temporary duty pertaining to the closing of his accounts.

Captain John Buffum, coast artillery corps, will proceed from Camp Gordon, Ga., to Charleston, S. C., and report to the commanding general southeastern department for insurance duty.

Captain Joseph A. Logan, Jr., transportation corps, will on or before the expiration of his present leave of absence report to the commanding general, Camp Gordon, Ga., for discharge on or before July 9.

Captain Floyd Wilcox McRae, Jr., medical corps, is relieved from duty at Camp Gordon, Atlanta, Ga., and will proceed to Fort McPherson, Ga., and report to the commanding officer United States army general hospital No. 6, that post, for duty.

First Lieutenant Max Harrison, medical corps, is relieved from duty at United States army general hospital No. 6, Fort McPherson, Ga., upon the arrival of First Lieutenant Frederic Benjamin Mooers Cady, medical corps, and will proceed for Fox Hills, Staten Island, N. Y., and report to the commanding officer United States general hospital No. 41, that place, for duty.

Captain Samuel N. Goodman, quartermaster corps, is relieved from further duty at Camp Benning, Ga., and will proceed to Atlanta, Ga., and report to the zone supply officer for assignment to duty.

Colonel Gideon McDonald Van Poole, medical corps, is relieved from station, Camp Dix, upon expiration of his present leave of absence and will proceed to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and report to the commanding general that post for duty.

RIDER FOR THE REPEAL OF DAYLIGHT SAVING

Washington, June 13.—With a legislative rider for repeal of the daylight saving act, effective next October, the agricultural appropriation bill was ordered favorably reported today by the senate agricultural committee. Chairman Gronna plans to call it up early next week.

Amendments to the house bill adopted by the committee included one requiring the net weight of meat products to be printed on the wrapper. This is designed to prevent packers charging for the wrappings and the committee estimated it would have consumers 1 cent a pound on ham and one-half a cent on other products.

COURTS OF U. S. ARMY DEFENDED AND RAPPED

Chicago, June 13.—Court-martial theories based on experiences ranging from that of the private in France to the city prosecutor of Manila, P. I., were heard today at the last open session of the committee which is investigating military justice and courts-martial procedure for the American bar association. The suggestions were as varied as the experiences of the witnesses except that all seemed agreed that trained law officers should be available as counsel for accused men.

After the hearings closed the committee through Chairman S. S. Gregory, of Chicago, announced that there would be several executive sessions while he and his associates were preparing their report. This report, he said, would be made to the executive committee of the bar association, but he personally hoped that all the evidence collected by the committee here and in the east would be made available for congressional use by being printed as a public document.

Major Taylor Defends System.

Major Orville J. Taylor, Jr., who was assistant judge advocate of the Eighty-sixth division both at Camp Grant and abroad, and who later held the same post for the district of Paris, started the day's proceedings by unqualified endorsement of the present system. He said his experiences with regular army officers had convinced him that trained line officers were superior to legally minded men as dispensers of military justice inasmuch as they understood the men better.

Edward H. White, a Chicago lawyer, who served as a captain in the Spanish war, the Philippine insurrection and whose commanding officers in the islands were Major General (then Lieutenant Colonel Crowder and Captain (now Brigadier General) Edward A. Krueger, did not agree with Major Taylor nor with his former commanders. White told the committee that he had been city prosecutor of Manila for a year, had sat on military commissions and special and general courts, and of late years had frequently served as a civilian counsel for accused soldiers.

He said the courts inclined toward harshness and that a judge advocate should have power to pass finally upon the legal sufficiency of charges. He maintained that this would not impair discipline, but would rather aid it in that it would save commanders many mistakes and thus increase the morale of units. The system of appointing counsel for the defense was all right in theory, he said, but as carried out is a joke. Competent counsel should be available for defendants at all times, he asserted, and if enlisted men could not afford to pay for civilian counsel, the government should undertake the expense.

Private Gives His Views.

Charles E. Dougherty, who was a private in the headquarters company of the first army, thought only officers trained in military law should be detailed to summary courts and that company commanders should send fewer cases to those courts.

John E. Hughes, who claimed a double viewpoint as private and later a commissioner officer in the aviation section, had several definite recommendations to offer the committee. He said penalties for given offenses should be definite within reasonable limits instead of being "such punishment as the court-martial may direct."

John B. Bodie, an assistant United States district attorney here and a former captain in the aviation corps, did not favor enlisted men as members of courts. He also said that counsel for defense was generally incompetent.

The last witness was Joseph Wheless, of St. Louis, who was judge advocate for the central department held the rank of major. He gave a severe indictment of the sentences imposed by courts, and said he had personally reviewed some 600 "examples of the striking incompetency of courts-martial to weigh evidence." He argued for permanent presiding officers, terming military courts "ephemeral and haphazard."

SPENDING U. S. CASH ON MISSISSIPPI ROADS

Washington, June 13.—Secretary Houston was advised today by Comptroller of the Treasury Warwick that the department of agriculture was justified in continuing for the present to make expenditures for road building in co-operation with the state of Mississippi, despite the failure of the legislature to act on the bill giving the state's formal assent. The failure was said to be entirely due to inadvertence, as the senate had gone on record favoring the federal law, and there was no opposition in the house.

Mr. Warwick suggested that Secretary Houston inform the governor of Mississippi that the aid would be terminated if the next regular session of the legislature adjourned without affirmative action.

RATIFICATION URGED OF LEAGUE COVENANT

New York, June 13.—Resolutions urging ratification of the league of nations covenant which is described "as the end for which the youth of the allied nations were laying down their lives," were made public today by the Church Peace union. The signers include former President William H. Taft, Cardinal Gibbons, Bishop Luther B. Wilson and Dr. John R. Mott. The resolutions were sent to the senate.

FORCES OF VILLA AT DOOR OF JUAREZ

Attack on Mexican City Expected This Morning. Angeles Says He Can Take Juarez in Three Hours.

El Paso, Texas, June 13.—A courier who arrived tonight from the rebel headquarters near Zaragosa, less than 13 miles from Juarez, reports the rebels have 4,400 men, all armed with rifles and each man supplied with 300 rounds of ammunition.

Two field guns and eight machine guns are included in the rebel fighting equipment.

At the time the courier left the camp the intention was to attack Juarez before daylight tomorrow morning.

Juarez, Mexico, June 13.— Askirmish occurred between federals and advanced forces of General Angeles at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Several are reported killed on the federal side.

ANGELES SAYS HE WILL WIN.

Headquarters of General Felipe Angeles, Mexico, June 13.—General Felipe Angeles, commander of the rebel forces in the vicinity of Juarez, granted a four-hour interview to a correspondent of the Associated Press this afternoon. With General Angeles at his headquarters is Martin Lopez, next in command; Ramon Vega and General Holguin.

General Angeles is in the best of spirits, and says he is confident of his cause. The forces of General Angeles are well equipped, his cavalry horses are the best seen below the border, and equal those of American cavalry.

General Angeles is well supplied with funds and states he is paying for everything he obtains from the ranch folk.

The most surprising thing in his men—they are not the ordinary run of revolutionists, they are big and strong and when some were asked about Juarez they smiled and said: "We can take Juarez in three hours."

General Felipe Angeles headquarters are in an old house situated on a lane, off the main road about thirteen miles southeast of Juarez.

To reach his headquarters is a difficult task, because his men appear every few yards. Some of his forces are armed with as many as three guns and as many cartridge belts, filled to capacity with shells.

DEMOCRATS PLAN TO UPHOLD TREATY

a political issue to be fought out on the floor of the senate.

"It is not the president's fight," said Senator Hitchcock. "It is a fight to determine whether we shall advertise to the world that this is a government divided against itself.

"We are not afraid to let the resolution come to a vote, and we will let it come to a vote late next week. When it does it will be beaten, as they haven't the votes to put it through the senate."

The democratic leader said that eight or ten republicans will vote against the resolution, while there was "no doubt on the democratic side." Only Senator Reed, of Missouri, will join the republican league opponents and vote for the resolution, he said.

Senator Hitchcock said that he thought it "entirely possible" that Senator Knox will secure the vote of more than one-third of the senators for the resolution. "It will not receive forty votes, however," Senator Hitchcock added.

"When certain republican senators have the proposition put squarely to them, that by voting for the Knox resolution they are voting against any league of nations, the opposition will collapse," Senator Hitchcock said.

Provides for Referendum.

The republican leaders of the senate, on the other hand, are planning to bring pressure to bear upon their "bck-sliding" colleagues by calling attention at length to the fact that the Knox resolution provides for a referendum on the question of the league, and that while the people of the United States are deciding whether they want to join the proposed league the terms of peace can be ratified.

There are apparently four republicans who will vote against the resolution. They are Senators McCumber, North Dakota; Norris, Nebraska; McNary, Oregon, and Colt, Rock Island. Senator Capper, Kansas, also is claimed by the democrats, but today he said he favors the resolution.

Senator Reed has assured the republican leaders that five democratic senators will vote for the Knox measure. One democratic senator who was counted upon to vote for the resolution, has announced that he is opposed to it. He is Senator Chamberlain, of Oregon, and he attended the democratic caucus today.

Senator Hitchcock tonight received first-hand knowledge of the writing of the league of nations covenant. Acting Secretary of State Polk and David Miller, who took an active art in writing the covenant at Versailles, were his guests at his home here. Mr. Miller has just arrived from Europe.

Effect of Senate Vote.

Supporters of the measure have contended that if more than one-third of the senate membership goes on record in its favor, the result will be a warning that the treaty as now framed cannot secure the necessary two-thirds when presented for ratification. If a vote is blocked, it would be no surprise if an effort were made to accomplish this purpose through a round-robin similar to that circulated in the closing hours of the last session.

The first fight over the resolution, when it comes up, is expected to center about the section stricken out in committee, which would have declared it a policy of the American government that it should co-operate in removing any future menace to the peace of Europe. A motion to concur in this committee amendment will meet sharp resistence, and some senators believe the provision will be restored.

Senator Fall, republican, of New Mexico, cast the deciding vote on this question in committee, but reserved the right to support the provision in the senate. Opponents of the resolution generally are expected to favor the section restoration with the hope of weakening the resolution.

The measure's supporters, however, predict that the European section will not be restored. Even if it were, they say, the resolution, because of its other features, it still would have the support of Senators Borah, republican, of Idaho, and Johnson, republican, of California, who led the fight to amend in committee, and of others who are opposed to any participation in European affairs.

GERMAN CITIZENS CALL FOR STRIKE

They Declare the Strike Is Necessary Because of the Incapacity of Present Government.

Berlin, June 13.—A secret session of the citizen's council of Greater Berlin held on Wednesday declared in favor of a citizen's strike, according to the independent socialist newspaper, Die Freiheit. The attendance included a number of leading manufacturers, merchants and professional men, and Colonel Reinhardt, the Prussian minister of war.

The chairman of the meeting is quoted as declaring that a strike was necessary because the present government was incapable of redeeming Germany from chaos.

It was planned, according to the newspaper, to have airplanes distribute leaflets announcing when the strike would begin. All the food industries, including the bakeries, would cease work, according to the plan, this leading to civil war, which, it was held, would help the bourgeoisie attain political power.

Some of the manufacturers and commercial interests, Die Freiheit declares, advanced the utmost severity "as the only means of overcoming the laboring classes." The citizens would be armed and Colonel Reinhardt is reported have said the troops would be entirely on their side.

POSITION OF CABINET MADE STRONGER.

Berlin, June 13.—The position of the German cabinet has been materially strengthened as a result of the speeches of Gustav Noske and Philipp Sceidemann at the Weimar convention of the majority socialist party, according to the view of the non-socialist press and opinion in various political circles in Berlin.

The proceedings of the convention thus far also appear to have demonstrated that the opposition to the members of the cabinet in their own party has been overcome, the lineup of the majority socialists seeming to reveal an unbroken faith.

Zurich, Switzerland, June 13.—Speaking at the majority socialist convention at Weimar, Philipp Scheidemann, the German minister-president, attacked the partisans of the "new revolution," whose object was to substitute soviets for the present government. He declared he would never make a compromise on a question like this, as it was a question of principle where all compromise was impossible.

Herr Scheidemann remarked that while the political situation might be clearly defined the economic situation of the country was very ob-

Four Shows Today.

(At Loew's Grand.)

One of the most artistic dance creations ever presented on the vaudeville stage is featured on the bill at Loew's Grand today. Barabans and Krohs, who offer this innovation, are giving an impressive performance. Four other acts as well as Harold Lockwood in the screen drama, "A Man of Honor," make up an excellent program. The show is continuous, from 1 to 11 p. m., with four vaudeville stars at 2, 4, 7 and 9 p. m.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Lyric.)

Headlined by the celebrated and popular Sorrento Quintette, one of the vaudeville's most famous combinations of singers and instrumentalists, the three shows at Keith's Lyric on Saturday provide exceptionally fine entertainment. Another big feature of the bill is an artistic novelty called the "Musical Hunters." Among the three other standard features is the singing offering of Count Perone, Italian nobleman, and Trix Oliver.

UPSHAW TO DELIVER MAIDEN SPEECH TODAY

By J. A. Hollomon.
(By Constitution Leased Wire)

Washington, June 13.—Congressman W. D. Upshaw, of Georgia, will make his maiden speech during a business meeting of the house of representatives tomorrow in protest against the anti-prohibition demonstration scheduled to be staged on the capitol plaza in the name of organized labor. He will declare it a libel on labor and present numerous telegrams and letters from labor leaders and organizations declaring their opposition to the demonstration.

Business and Professional Women of Georgia Gather For Big Convention Here

The first convention of the business and professional women of Georgia was formally opened last night with a banquet at the chamber of commerce auditorium, when every section of the state was represented, and the speakers included some of the most prominent women in Georgia. There were sixty women in attendance.

Delegates were present from Athens, Savannah, Macon, Augusta, Hawkinsville, Rome, Tugalo and Atlanta, and the New York headquarters of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women sent Mrs. Ida J. Dutton with the message of the national committee to the Georgia women.

Mrs. Nina B. Price, southern organizer for the national committee promoting the federation, which is made up of outstanding business and professional women from all over the country, presided, and among the speakers were Mrs. John K. Ottley, chairman in Georgia of the woman's national democratic committee; Mrs. Samuel Lumpkins, chairman of organization, Woman's Democratic committee in Georgia; Mrs. A. P. Coles, president of the City Federation of Wamen's clubs; Mrs. Archibald Davis, chairman of the board of managers, Y. W. C. A.; Miss Eleanor Raoul, chairman of the Atlanta central committee of women citizens; Miss Florence E. Cain, of the Athens delegation, who spoke for the out-of-town delegates; Miss Mary Phelps and Miss Bessie Young, who spoke for the business and professional women of Atlanta.

The dinner program was opened with singing, led by Warren Kimsey, song leader for the War Camp Community service, who also bespoke the co-operation of the federation when it is organized in the promotion of community singing throughout the state.

Mrs. Armand Carroll played delightfully several piano selections, including MacDowell's "Br'er Rabbit" and "Scotch Poem."

Federation Keynote.

Thet keynote of the federation idea was struck by Mrs. Ottley, the first speaker, when she said that the field of the advanced work of women is new. Therefore, no standards have yet been evolved. The individual business and professional woman who achieves has her standards, else she would not have achieved; but with the newer, younger women coming on so fast and in such great numbers, there is need for the establishment of satndards, a code of ethics as to qualifications, responsibility.

The federation, setting its standards high, making efficiency its watchword, will prepare all women who have energy, ambition for the high places, she said.

Miss Raoul congratulated her audience that she could now address them as "fellow citizens," since they are in Atlanta, after many years of struggles, conceded to be "people," and not just "population."

She urged that all women join in the summer campaign to see that all women register, since the interest of the women of Atlanta in the vote would be obliged to have far-reaching effect in hastening statewide suffrage.

Miss Cain in her brief talk suggested that the federation, when it is effected at the business session Saturday morning, make one of its first formal acts a memorial to the state legislature for prompt passage of the Susan B. Anthony amendment.

Federation Ideals.

The idealistic side of organization was the theme of Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin. Her address, based on the highest conceptions of service, was one of moving deep impressiveness and strength. That the women should use their federation to take advantage, through service and promotion of education, of the wonderful resources at the command of those who are willing to give their endeavor to it, was her plea, and she stressed what women can do through having an ideal and working for it along such lines as the elimination of illiteracy in the state; the betterment of the marriage laws, and the establishment of sentiment for modest dressing and conduct.

Mrs. A. P. Coles called organization and service the watchword of the women of today, and stated as one of the big features of the program of the City Federation of Club Women for this year the establishment of sentiment for keeping young girls longer in school—a motive which the business and professional women have already informally discussed as one of their platform planks.

Mrs. Archibald Davis, in her short, happy address, declared that the federation in their first meeting were making history, and as a woman experienced in organization, she welcomed them into their new field of work.

From Headquarters.

Mrs. Dutton, in her message from the national committee, stated that women have too long talked about their rights without feeling their obligations, but the federation is going to provide them with an opportunity to change. Organization, she said, is good from the standpoint of the strength it can exert, but better from that of the service it can render.

Its most active service may well be in the direction of creating sound public opinion. It must encourage a broader vision among women, but more important it is to teach them self-confidence, encourage directness.

Mrs. Price, in closing the program announced a nominating committee, which will elect officers and report at the business meeting Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the chamber of commerce.

The chairman, Mrs. Julia Lester Dillon, of Augusta, asks that the members of the committee meet a few minutes before 10 in the committee room.

Anti-Dry Parade, 70,000 Strong, By Union Labor

Gompers Will Head March of Protest in Washington Against War-Time Prohibition and for Wine and Beer Under Dry Amendment.

Washington, June 13.—Seventy thousand representatives of organized labor, headed by Samuel W. Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, will participate in a Flag day demonstration to be held on the steps of the capitol tomorrow in favor of repeal of the war-time prohibition law and exemption of beer and light wines under the national prohibition amendment.

President Gompers, who will be accompanied to Washington by 700 delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention now meeting in Atlantic City, will address the labor representatives from a platform to be erected on the top landing of the marble stairway immediately in front of the senate entrance.

Labor delegations from many eastern cities, according to union officials, will be on hand to participate in the demonstration of protest in addition to 50,000 members of local labor unions.

20,000 RAIL SHOPMEN TO STRIKE IN CANADA

Montreal, June 13.—Negotiations undertaken by the Canadian railway war board with the representatives here of division number four of the Railway Shopmen of America in an attempt to prevent 30,000 men from striking for higher wages, were reported today to have failed.

The union delegates declined today to accede to a request of the railway war board to carry on negotiations between now and Wednesday, next, when the shopmen's strike ultimatum goes into effect. They informed the board that it would be a waste of time to negotiate unless it was distinctly understood that the question of wages would be discussed, a question which the board has thus far declined to include.

The strike of the shopmen would endanger operation of Canada's railway system.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, June 13.—A formal statement issued today by executive officers of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, declared that the action of the Winnipeg locals in voting to join the sympathetic strike tonight "was absolutely unauthorized."

The statement was signed by George K. Wark, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and James Murdock, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Despite previous warnings that strike action without permission from the brotherhoods would not be countenanced, the Winnipeg locals held meetings last night and voted to join the sympathetic strike unless certain demands of the local unions involved in the industrial deadlock were met immediately.

HOUSE SPEEDS WORK ON NAVAL MEASURE

Washington, June 13.—Carrying out its plans to speed up legislative programs, the house today dispensed with general debate on the 1920 navy appropriation bill and proceeded to take it up under the five-minute rule with a view of final action before adjournment tomorrow.

An effort was made by Representative Huddleston, democrat, of Alabama, to strike out on a point of order the provision fixing the navy personnel at 241,000 men until October, 191,000 until January and 170,000 until the end of the fiscal year. He declared the paragraph was subject to the point of order inasmuch as it would enable the navy department to retain a larger number of men in the service than the permanent force of 137,000 authorized by law.

The point was opposed by republicans and democrats alike on the ground that the provision decreased the number of men which might be retained by the navy if it so desires, inasmuch as congress had authorized a temporary force of 187,000 men and had given the president authority to increase this number by 50,000 more men if he deemed it necessary. Ruling on the point was postponed until tomorrow.

An unsuccessful effort to amend the bill by increasing from six to nine the number of hydroplane stations to be maintained by the navy department was made by Representative Briggs, democrat, of Texas, who contended that as the bill stood it might eliminate the Galveston stations, which would be of great strategic value in "the event of war with Mexico."

An appropriation of $50,000 for repairing damage caused by a tornado o nthe island of Guam last year was stricken out on the ground that it was new legislation.

GEORGIA MAN HAD QUITE A SIEGE

In Hospital, But Improved Greatly After Taking Ziron Iron Tonic.

In a recent statement, J. H. Martin, of Mount Vernon, Ga., says: "I was in the hospital with stomach trouble and had quite a siege. It seemed I would never get my strength back after I came out. I had been so ill. I ached all over. I was nervous, restless and yet did not feel like getting around. My skin was yellow. My appetite poor. I was in pretty bad shape and began to look around for a tonic. I felt like part of the trouble was lack of Iron in my blood. I was so easily worried, so easily upset. I heard of Ziron and knew it would help me. I began to take it and the improvement was great. It strengthened me, renewed my nerves and toned up my system."

When you feel that you need strength, remember that Ziron is a perfected preparation of iron salts, combined with other strength-giving ingredients. Try Ziron.—ZN 3. (adv.)

Women of Second Ward To Hold Mass Meeting.

Under the auspices of the Central committee of Women Citizens there will be a mass meeting in the second ward to elect a leader, Wednesday afternoon, June 18, at 4 p. m. at the Georgia Avenue Public school.

Mrs. Beaumont Davison, Miss Sallie Fanny Gleaton and Miss Eleonore Raoul will speak. Among those women in the second ward interested in working up the meeting are, Mrs. Henry Bauer, Mrs. W. B. Mann, Mrs. O. H. Williamson, Mrs. J. T. Wilkins.

The purpose of the meeting is to organize the women in the direction of registering promptly that they may vote in the forthcoming white primary.

The registry for women is open every day in the court house from nine in the morning until five in the afternoon, and will be open until August the 6th.

The ward committees are drawn for women of all elements and interests. Many of them are suffragists and anti-suffrgists, but women, strictly church women, and those who belong to no organization.

The Central committee is as surely democratic as the Democratic party itself, and it is to aid women in their new responsibility as citizens that the ward rallies are being held.

Bridge Tea.

Miss Margaret Wilkinson entertained yesterday afternoon at the Driving club in compliment to her guest, Miss Elizabeth Cloud, of Hamlet, N. C.

The prizes included silk stockings, a cutglass powder box and a piece of lingerie for the honor guest.

Following the game which was played in the living room tea was served on the club terrace, the tea table decorated with baskets of coral-colored sweet peas.

Mrs. Mell R. Wilkinson, who assisted her daughter, wore gray Georgette.

Church Entertainment.

The children of St. Luke's Sunday school will entertain this evening at 8 o'clock in the Sunday school auditorium of the church.

Dr. Howard Crenshaw, who has recently returned from oversens, will speak and there will be other features of a short program. Admission 15 cents. The proceeds will go to the organ fund of the church.

At East Lake Club.

The Atlanta Athletic club announces the week-end dance to be held at East Lake Country club this evening at 8 o'clock. There will be several large dinner parties.

Among those entertaining will be Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Massengale, who will entertain a party of ten. Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Sanford will entertain a party of twelve. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Matthews will also entertain a party of twelve. There will be several other large parties.

CHAPTER XVI.

A Wild Surprise.

At 5 o'clock that day the transference of the property was made out and signed by Marcus Mulhausen in Mortimer Collins' office, and the Glanafwyn lands became again the property of the earl of Rochester—"for the sum of five thousand pounds received and herewith acknowledged," said the document.

Needless to say no five thousand pounds passed hands. Collins, mystified, asked no questions in the presence of Mulhausen. When the latter had taken his departure, however, he turned to Jones.

"Did you pay him five thousand?" asked the lawyer.

Junior Prom At East Lake Club.

The junior prom was a bright event of last night, assembling three hundred and fifty members of the college set at East Lake Country club.

Among the guests were many pretty visiting girls who are here for the commencement season.

Camp Parties Enjoyed by Soldiers.

The following parties were at the various camps Friday night and gave special programs for the soldiers, under the auspices of the Woman's committee of the War Camp Community service, of which Mrs. T. T. Stevens is chairman. Miss Avis Thompson, and Mandolin club, Camp Gordon, Knights of Columbus hall; Mrs. R. T. Connolly and Old Glory Girls, Camp Gray, informal musical entertainment, Mrs. T. J. Akridge to Prison "Y," No. 6, accompanied by Miss Veone Rankin, Miss Pauline Bolsius, Miss Conley, Miss Mary Conley, Miss Sampler, Miss May Asbell, Mrs. A. L. Slaton with a miscellaneous musical program entertained at Camp Jesup.

Thursday night Mrs. E. S. Thompson carried out a party to Camp Gordon auditorium including Miss Beatrice Hamlett, Jimmie McGowan, Edward Schank, Mrs. Mueller, Miss Dora Trippe, Miss Emily Walker, Edwin Thompson, Miss Odessa Fuller.

Mrs. B. A. Cole's party went out to Fort McPherson Knights of Columbus.

For Mrs. Morford.

Mrs. Scott Hudson was hostess at a pretty bridge-tea Thursday afternoon at her home at East Lake in compliment to her guest, Mrs. Joseph Morford, of Lexington, Ky.

Quantities of garden flowers decorated the house.

The prizes at bridge were won by Mrs. Robert Davis, Mrs. Howard Beck and Mrs. Wallace Boyd.

There were sixteen guests.

Mrs. Hudson entertained again at bridge yesterday afternoon in compliment to Mrs. Morford, inviting sixteen guests to meet her.

Bridge Club Entertained.

Mrs. Eugene V. Haynes entertained at bridge-tea yesterday at home, her guests including members of her bridge club.

The guests were Misses Madeline McCullough, Georgia Rice, Mary Rice, Elizabeth Hawkins, Mrs. Philip Head, Mrs. Cassels Young, of New York city; Mrs. Howard Helden, Mrs. Cecil Strohbar, Mrs. Harry Woodward, Mrs. Harold Rogers and Mrs. Thomas Joseph Walsh, of New York city.

Informal Dance.

Miss Frances Peabody entertained at a small informal dancing party last night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Peabody, on Peachtree road.

The guests included members of school girl and boy set.

Women Are Asked to Limit Use of Phones to Business

By Isma Dooly

To the Federated Women of Atlanta:

In view of the present condition of the telephone service of Atlanta, and in order as far as possible to facilitate business transactions, I would suggest that each of you confine the use of the telephone to necessary calls and eliminate all social visiting and prolonged conversations. This will release the wires for legitimate business and will help maintain a normal service.

MRS. A. P. COLES,
President of City Federation of Women's Clubs.

In making the above appeal to the women of Atlanta Mrs. Coles plainly states that the appeal is in the interest of public welfare, and for the purpose of impressing the women of the city that through economy of telephone service they will facilitate the more necessary business transactions. "The city federation, which includes all of the women's organizations of the city, has as one of its principal purposes civic usefulness, and aid in any matter or movement which bears upon public welfare," Mrs. Coles stated in an interview yesterday.

"We hold ourselves in readiness to act when we are called upon to back any movement which stands for any phase of work which means civic betterment or prosperity, and we deplore any incident or condition which retards the city's progress in any way. The federation in making this appeal must not be understood to be officious, nor in the attitude of sympathizing with one side or the other in the conditions which have precipitated the limited service of the telephone; nor must we be understood as a body who would attempt to conciliate the status of the troubles which exist, as much as we would like to see conciliation effected.

"I was asked by the head of the Presidents' Club of Atlanta to ask the co-operation of the federated women in modifying the conditions that exist by asking them totransact their business over the phones in as brief a way as possible, especially as that business related to their social interests," further explained Mrs. Coles.

"Many women have to do their marketing over the phone; others have work pertaining to their organizations which they discuss over the phone, while many like to talk to one another over the phone in lieu of visiting. Ordinarily they have a right to use their phones when and how they please, but in the present emergency, when business in a way is being obstructed by the conditions of the telephone service, women can do their part in the interest of public welfare by using their phones as little as possible except on strictly vital and important matters.

"It will be recalled that a similar request was made in Atlanta when the telephone service was crippled by the number of employees who had the flu last fall, and when so many emergency calls had to be made over the phone in the interest of those afflicted.

"I regret that there could not have been a rallying of our membership, that we might have sent the message of the present emergency through the various clubs of the federation, but we will not have a general meeting until fall, and the official organization of this year has not yet been completed or published. New committees are to be created and their personnel named, and I have it in mind to appoint an emergency committee which may act in matters of public welfare which may not be included in the present activities of the federation.

"It was after conference with my advisory committee that I responded to the wishes of the Presidents' Club of Atlanta and decided to make through the three daily papers this request to the federated women, asking their co-operation in modifying conditions which at present confront one of our public utilities, the Southern Bell Telephone company."

"Well, how have you worked the miracle, then?"

Jones told.

"You see how I had been cooper-ed," finished he. "Well, just as I was going to grab the kitty he played the ace of spades, produced an old document he held against me."

"Yes?"

"I pondered for a moment—then I came to a swift conclusion—took the doc from him and ate it."

"You ate the document?"

"Sure.

Jones rubbed his stomach and laughed.

"Well, well," said the solicitor with curious acquiescence and want of astonishment after the first momentary start caused by this surprising statement, "we have the property back, that's the main thing."

"You remember," said Jones, "I talked to you about letting that place."

"Carlton House Terrace?"

"Yes—well, that's off. I've made good. Do you see?"

"M—yes." replied Collins.

"I'll have enough money now to pay off the mortgages and things."

"Undoubtedly," said Collins, "but, now, don't you think it would be a good thing if you were to tie this property up, so that mischance can't touch it. You have no children, it is true, but one never knows. Honestly, I think you would be well advised if you were to take precautions."

"Don't worry," said Jones brightly. "I'll give the whole lot to—my wife—when I can come to terms with her."

"That's good hearing," replied the other. Then Jones took his departure, leaving the precious documents in the hands of the lawyer.

He was elated. He had proved the facts which he had only guessed by instinct up to this, that a rogue is the weakest person in the world before a plain dealer, if the plain dealer has a weapon in his hand The almost instantaneous collapse of Voles and Mulhausen was due to the fact that they stood on rotten foundations. He told himself now as he walked along homeward that he need not have eaten that document. Mulhausen would never have used it. If he had just gone out and called in a policeman, Mulhausen, seeing him in earnest, would have collapsed.

However the thing was eaten and done with and there was no use in troubling any more on the matter. He had other things to think of. He had made good. He had saved the Rochester name and estate, he had recaptured one million, eight thousand pounds, reckoning that the coal bearing lands were worth a million, and, more than that; he was a sane man, able to look after what he had recaptured.

The Rochester family, if they knew, would have no cause to grumble at the interloper and the substitution of new brains and push in the place of decadence, craziness and sloth. The day when he had changed places with Rochester was the best day that had ever dawned for them.

He was thinking this when all of a sudden that horrible, unreal feeling he had suffered from once before, came upon him again. This time it was not a question of losing his identity, it was a shuffle of his own taxed brain between two identities. Rochester — Jones — Jones Rochester. It seemed to him for the space of a couple of seconds that he could not tell which of those two individuals he was, then the feeling passed and he resumed his way, reaching Carlton House Terrace shortly after six.

He gave his hat and cane and gloves to the flunkey who opened the door for him—He had obtained a latch-key from Church that morning but forgot to use it—and was crossing the hall when a strain of music brought him to a halt. The tones of a piano came from a door on the right. Someone was playing Chaminades Valse Tendre and playing it to perfection.

Jones turned to the man-servant.

"Who is that?" he asked.

"It is her ladyship, my Lord, she arrived half an hour ago. Her luggage has gone upstairs."

Her ladyship!

Jones thrown off his balance hesitated for a moment, what ladyship could it be. Not, surely, that awful mother!

He crossed to the door, opened it, found a music-room, and there, seated at a piano, the girl of the Victoria.

She looked over her shoulder at him as he came in, her face wore a half smile, but she did not stop playing. Anything more fascinating that that picture it would be hard to imagine.

As he crossed the room she suddenly ceased playing and twirled round on the music-stool.

"I've come back," said she. "Ju-Ju, I couldn't stand it. You are bad but you are a lot, lot better than your mother—and Venetia. I'm going to try and put up with you a bit longer—Ju-Ju, what makes you look so stiff and funny?"

"I don't know," said Jones, passing his hand across his forehead.

"I've had a hard day." She looked at him curiously for a moment, then pityingly, then kindly.

Then she jumped up, made him sit down on a big couch by the wall, and took her seat beside him.

Then she took his hand.

"Ju-Ju—why will you be such a fool?"

"I don't know," said Jones.

The caress of the little jewelled hand destroyed his mental powers. He dared not look at her, just sat staring before him.

"They told me all about the coal mine," she went on, "at least Venetia did, and how they all bullragged you— Venetia was great on that. Venetia waggled that awful gobbly-Jick head of hers while she was telling me—they're mad over the loss of that coal thing—oh, Ju-Ju, I'm so glad you lost it. It's wicked, I suppose, but I'm glad. That's what made me come back, the way they went on about you. I listened and listened and then I broke out. I said all I've wanted to say for the last six months to Venetia. You know she told me how you came home the other night. I said nothing then, just listened and stored it up. Then, last night, when they all got together about the coal mine I went on listening and storing it up. Blunders was there as well as your mother and Venetia. Blunders said he had called you an ass and that you were. Then I broke out. I said a whole lot of things—well, there it is. So I came back—there were other reasons as well. I don't want to be alone. I want to be cared for—I want to be cared for—when I saw you in Bond Street, yesterday—I—I—I—Ju-Ju, do you care for me?"

"Yes," said Jones.

"I want to confess—I want to tell you something."

"Yes."

"If you didn't care for me—if I felt you didn't, I'd—"

"Yes."

"Kick right over the traces. I would. I couldn't go on as I have been going, lonely, like a lost dog."

She raised his fingers and rubbed them along her lips.

"You will not be lonely," said the unfortunate man in a muted voice. "You need not be afraid of that." The utter inadequacy of the remark came to him like one of those nightmare recognitions encountered as a rule only in Dreamland. Yet she seemed to find it sufficient, her mind perhaps being engaged elsewhere.

"What would you have said if I had run away from you for good?" asked she. "Would you have been sorry?"

"Yes—dreadfully."

"Are you glad I've come back?"

"I am."

"Honestly glad?"

"Yes."

"Really glad?"

"Yes."

"Truthfully, really, honestly glad?"

"Yes."

"Well, so am I," said she. She released his hand.

The position was terrific.

Jones was no Lothario. He was a straight, plain, common-sensical man with a high respect for women, and the position of leading character in a bad French comedy was not for him. Jones would just as soon have thought of kissing another man's wife as of standing on his head in the middle of Broadway.

After Your Baby Is Born

Think Now About the Time to Come Afterwards.

When you hold in your arms your tiny new infant, be sure that you can feel that before its arrival you did all in your power to give to it a happy pre-natal influence.

Scientists say that the thoughts and feelings of the expectant mother greatly affect the health and disposition of the future infant.

For over half a century thousands of women who have used the time-honored remedy, Mother's Friend, say that they entirely escaped nausea, nervousness and that peculiar distressing feeling so usual where nature is unaided. They thus preserved a wonderfully bright and happy disposition, which reflects so markedly upon the unborn child.

By the regular use of Mother's Friend the muscles are made and kept soft and elastic to readily yield to nature's demand for expansion without the usual wrenching strain. The nerves are not drawn upon, and as a consequence the expectant mother is calm and serene and the nights are not disturbed with nervous twitchings, and the crisis is one of joy and happiness.

Write the Bradfield Regulator Company, Dept. K, Lamar Building, Atlanta, Georgia, for their Motherhood Book, of value to every woman, and get a bottle of Mother's Friend from your druggist and begin a treatment that will bring real results. —(adv.)

BLACK-DRAUGHT

Torpid Liver

Constipation is one of the results of a torpid liver and often results in sick, bilious headache, gas, pain and other disagreeable symptoms.

The herbs and roots of which Thedford's Black-Draught is composed act in a natural stimulating manner on the liver and soon help to put it into good working order again.

For upwards of 70 years Black-Draught has been in use for just such troubles and has given constant satisfaction to its thousands of users.

Rev. J. M. Brown, of Blairsville, Ga., writes:

I have used . . . Black-Draught for 30 years . . . with much benefit. Find it good in different stages of colic. Good for torpid liver. Taken at bed time it induces good, restful sleep. I find it fine for indigestion and in generally toning up the system. It pays to keep Black-Draught on hand in cases of emergency. I truly recommend Black-Draught.

IF YOUR BLOOD IS YOUR LIFE

How Necessary Is Pure Blood to Your Good Health.

Pure blood is as necessary to your good health as the air you breathe, the food you eat and the water you drink.

When the blood becomes clogged with impurities, you suffer from constipation, your nerves are weakened, your head aches and you feel generally run-down and exhausted.

The best and quickest way to cleanse the blood of the impurities which cause the trouble is to take the treatment prescribed by a successful physician for his patients.

This liquid treatment, ready prepared, is known as Prescription C-2223. It is taken in small doses because it is concentrated, and being readily absorbed, cleanses the blood of the impurities which cause your ill health. After using Prescription C-2223 for a short time, your skin will have that glow of health, indicating that your body is being nourished by pure red blood.

USE OF ARMY RANK IN BUSINESS LIFE CALLED IMPROPER

It has been officially announced that the war department strongly disapproves the rank of officers being used to advance private ventures. "It is considered that such uses of an officer's title places him in an attitude unfavorable to him as a soldier. Although a record for long and honorable service in the army carries with it security for square dealing, it is not calculated to augment the possessor's judgment of the value of reliability of commercial propositions," the order states.

DOOLY COUNTY FAILS TO PASS BOND ISSUE

Vienna, Ga., June 13.—(Special.) Failure of the good roads bond election held in Dooly county last Tuesday is now blamed on the grassy crops which kept the farmers away from the polls. Only 950 votes were cast out of a registration of 2,100, although of those voting over two-thirds were in favor of the issue. It is believed another election will be called.

FARMER BRANTLEY OUT OF TROUBLE

"I don't believe I would be a well man today if it hadn't been for Tanlac," declared W. F. Brantley, a well known farmer on R. F. D. out of Mayfield, Hancock county, Ga. "It pulled me out of trouble alright and I weigh thirty pounds more than I did before I started taking it.

"Stomach trouble and nervousness pulled me down till I was so weak in the back and knees I could hardly get about. Lots of times I was so run down I couldn't get out of bed without help. I couldn't eat a thing that didn't sour and give me no end of misery. I got so I didn't want to eat a bite and had no strength to go on at all, and kept losing weight all the time.

"A friend told me about Tanlac and I got a bottle and began on it. I hadn't finished the first bottle before I began to pick up and I've been on the mend ever since. My pains have all gone and I am feeling better than I have in many a day. The fact is Tanlac has done wonders for me."

HOME COOKING

By MRS. M. A. WILSON

Queen Victoria's Former Cuisiniere

(Copyright, 1919, for The Constitution.)

To have food well cooked will not require so much skill if the camper is willing to follow directions. The most important food on the menu is the bread—and right here I might say that very few campers have bread that is fit to eat, owing to the fact that they depend on the spider or bannock bread, and this delusive method either produces a burnt, overcooked product or a doughy mess that is anything but palatable. And for this reason alone I would suggest that the camper burden himself with a small Russian iron oven, similiar to that used on an oil or gas stove.

How to Make Biscuits.

Flour, baking powder and salt will all absorb moisture, so that it is very important to have these adjuncts in tin containers for storage. Now fill a quart bowl or dipper with flour, using a spoon to lift with, and place in a bowl and add

Three level tablespoons of baking powder,
Two level tablespoons of sugar,
Two teaspoons of salt.

Rub this between the hands to thoroughly mix and then rub into the prepared flour four tablespoons of shortening and mix to a dough with one and three-quarter cups of water. Knead in the bowl for two minutes to blend and then pat out on a lightly floured table three-quarters of an inch thick. Cut, using either a biscuit cutter or cut into squares with a knife. Brush the top with water and bake for eighteen minutes in a hot oven. This will make from twenty-five to thirty biscuits, depending on the size of the cutter used. A piece of white oilcloth may be used for rolling out biscuits, etc.

Now, these biscuits may be baked on the sheet-iron top for a change; rake the fire and have it burnt to a red glow. Roll or pat the dough one-half inch thick and then lay on the sheet. When one side is nicely browned turn on the other side; allow fifteen minutes for baking.

Keep this in mind, that rapid cooking only sears the surface and leaves the center raw. So the first thing to do is to secure a steady fire. This can best be maintained by using large pieces of firewood, so that the embers or coals will give a steady heat. Loose fires are dangerous, and for this reason the camper should be particular to wall in his fire on three sides and make a provision for rainy weather. Bank the fires with bark, moss or ashes when not in use.

Fried Fish

Scale and cleanse the fish, and then wash and drain. Now have one-half cup of vegetable cooking oil in the frying pan and then, when hot, add the fish. Fry until crisp and brown on both sides, then turn the cut side to fry the center of the fish. Lift to a pie tin and place in an oven while the balance of the fish is cooking. Use vegetable cooking oil in place of lard. This oil can be used to fry other foods, as it does not hold the fish odor,

Coleslaw

Shred a head of cabbage fine and place in salted water for one-half hour. Drain well and then add

Two green peppers, chopped fine,
One cup of mayonnaise,
One tablespoon of salt,
One tablespoon of paprika,
One-quarter cup of vinegar.

Baked Beans With Salt Pork

Soak the beans—one pound—early in the morning and at noon place in an iron kettle and cover with water. Bring to a boil and drain off this water. Cover with water. Bring to a boil and cook for fifteen minutes. Now add

One can of tomatoes,
One cup of chopped onions,
One-half cup of sirup,
One pound of salt pork, cut in pieces,
Two tablespoons of salt,
One tablespoon of paprika,

Mix well and then cover the pot closely and bury in the hot coals or embers until the next day.

Dried Beef

Allow one-half pound of dried beef for six persons, and one quart of cream sauce, made as follows. Place in a saucepan

One-half of a tall can of evaporated milk,
Three cups of water,
Three-quarters cup of flour.

Stir with a fork to dissolve the flour and then bring to a boil and cook slowly for ten minutes and season. Now add the prepared beef. Heat for five minutes and then serve on toasted biscuits.

To prepare beef tear the dried beef into pieces and cover with boiling water for ten minutes. Add to the cream sauce after draining it.

Hash-Brown Potatoes

Cut potatoes that have been cooked in their jackets into dice and dust lightly with flour. Have the fat hot in the frying pan and add the potatoes. Toss gently and fry until nicely browned.

To cook fried fruit, wash and soak overnight in plenty of cold water. Then place on the fire and simmer slowly for a couple of hours. Sweeten to taste.

Corn Fritters

One can of crushed corn,
Two eggs,
One cup of water,
Two teaspoons of salt,
Two teaspoons of paprika,
One grated onion,
Four cups of flour,
Two tablespoons of baking powder.

Beat to mix and then fry in hot fat. Drain. This amount will serve six persons.

Macaroni and Cheese

Cook two packages of macaroni in a large kettle of boiling water for twenty minutes and then drain and pour over the macaroni a pan of cold water. Drain again. Now return to the kettle and add

One can of tomatoes,
Two teaspoons of salt,
One and one-half teaspoons of paprika,
One-half pound of cheese, cut in small pieces,
Eight tablespoons of flour, dissolved in
One cup of water,
Four onions, chopped fine,

Bring to a boil and cook slowly for ten minutes.

Potato Salad

Twelve boiled potatoes, diced,
Three onions, chopped fine,
Two green peppers, chopped fine,

Place in a bowl and mix, then add

One cup of mayonnaise dressing,
One-half cup of vinegar,
One tablespoon of salt,
One tablespoon of paaprika,

Serve.

To Make Mayonnaise Dressing

Break one egg in a bowl and then add

Two tablespoons of vinegar,
One teaspoon of sugar,
One teaspoon of paprika,
One-half teaspoon of mustard.

Beat with dover egg-beater to mix and then have some one pour in slowly one cup of oil while you beat the mixture with a steady motion.

Fish Cakes

Boil fifteen large potatoes and then mash fine and add

One-half pound of prepared shredded codfish,
One egg,
Lump of butter the size of an egg,
One teaspoon of paprika.

Mix thoroughly and then form into balls. Roll in flour and fry until golden brown in hot fat.

Polenta

Place one quart of water in a saucepan, bring to a boil and then add

One and one-half cups of corn meal,
One onion, grated,
Two green peppers, chopped fine,

Stir and cook until very thick mush and then add

One tablespoon of salt,
One teaspoon of paprika,
One-half pound of cheese, cut in small pieces,

Stir until cheese is melted.

Beef Stew

Cut two and one-half pounds of stewing beef in two-inch pieces and then roll in flour and brown in hot fat, then add three pints of boiling water. Bring to a boil and cook slowly for one hour and then place in ao saucepan.

Two cups of flour,
One-half teaspoon of pepper,
One teaspoon of salt,
One tablespoon of baking powder.

Rub between the hands to mix and then add three-quarter cup of cold water to form a dough. Make into balls between the hands and then drop in the stew. Cover closely and boil fast for twelve minutes. Now remove the lid and cook for three minutes longer. Then season and serve.

The cook will need

One tin measuring cup,
Two large forks,
One spatula,
One tablespoon,
One teaspoon,
Two mixing spoons,
One-quart measure,
One cake turner,
Colander,

Next week—using the fireless cooker when camping. All recipes for six persons.

My Dear Mrs. Wilson—I would be very grateful if you would please tell me how to make cinnamon cake, the kind on top of which you pour melted butter before it is baked and cover with cinnamon. Thanking you in advance, I am. Mrs. A. H.

Try this cinnamon cake: Place in a bowl,

One-half cup of sugar,
One egge,
Four tablespoons of shortening,
Two cups of sifted flour,
Four teaspoons of baking powder,
Three-fourths cup of water.

Beat to mix and then pour in prepared pan. Cover with crumbs.

To prepare crumbs—Place in a bowl,

Six tablespoons of flour,
Four tablespoons of sugar,
Two tablespoons of shortening,
One teaspoon of cinnamon,

Rub into fine crumbs between the hands and then spread on the cake. Bake for thirty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

My Dear Mrs. Wilson—I would kindly ask you to advise me how to go on with the silver wedding anniversary.

MOVING PICTURE MACHINE NEEDED FOR OLD SOLDIERS

The Old Soldiers' Home is badly in need of the services of a moving picture machine as a means of providing entertainment for the "vets" of fifty years ago, and the Old Soldiers' home committe of the U. D. C. has taken up the matter of soliciting a machine from any public spirited citizen, organization or concern that may be able to spare one.

Mrs. H. H. Fudge, chairman of the committee, stated Friday that three offers to supply pictures to the home free of charge have been made. Electric facilities and a big hall suitable for the showing of "movies" are at hand, and the only requisite for plenty of amusement for the old soldiers is a "movie" machine.

"The ladies of my committee and the organization are putting on little entertainments for the old soldiers," Mrs. Fudge said, "and are doing the best in their power to provide entertainment at the home. We have no money to buy a machine, and make this appeal in the hope that some public spirited man or firm may donate one."

Any one who is in position to lend or give a machine to the committee should communicate at once with Mrs. Fudge or the superintendent of the home.

INCREASES IN SALARY FOR INSPECTORS URGED

The board of health in session Friday afternoon recommended to the finance committee of council that the salary of inspectors in the sanitary and health departments be increased from $110 to $125 a month. About 29 men would be affected by the proposed raises.

Upon nomination of Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer, the board elected J. W. Head, of 53 Walker street, as milk inspector to succeed Inspector Glass, resigned.

Ignorant Applicant Acquires Education For Foreign Service

A long, lanky, green-looking fellow "from way down in the swamps of Georgy," as he put it, appeared last Monday in the army recruiting office, 203 Transportation building, and made known his desire to enter the army. He said he had just turned 18, "been on the farm all his life, knew all about horses and mules and could plow a furrow with the next 'un."

Despite his desire to see a body of water larger than Sugar creek, it was found that he could neither read nor write. He had only a vague idea of the big war and did not know where France or Germany are. Colonel E. M. Bailey, recruiting officer, at once turned the applicant over to one of his men for a few days of instruction in reading, writing, geography and history.

When three days elapsed he was a new man. He could write his name, his sister's name and address, knew the alphabet and as much about the war as the recruiting men could impart to him. He was accepted and started on his way to France, telling Colonel Bailey he intends to attend government schools in France to further his education He was delighted at the information that, in addition to clothes, board, medical and dental treatment and all necessities, he will be given $33 per month for service, adding that he had never seen as much as $33 at one time in his life.

Plans for Welcoming Georgia Hospital Boys To Be Completed Later

No definite plans for welcoming the Georgia field hospital of Atlanta, known as Camp hospital No. 111, will be made at present, pending receipt of news as to the time of the unit's arrival. A telegram to Mayor Key Friday stated that the war department would forward exact information as soon as it is available.

The last word, according to Washington, was that the unit would leave as soon as possible after June 5. The group was organized in 1916 by Adjutant General Nash and has been steadily in service since that time. In command of the hospital is Major Cornelius Holton, of Atlanta, and the personnel is made up mostly of Atlantans.

4 PER CENT DIVIDEND

Declared by Central Bank and Trust Company.

The usual semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent payable July 1 was on Tuesday declared by the trustees of the Central Bank and Trust company. The bank is capitalized at $1,000,000, the dividend amounting to $40,000. On January 1 another 4 per cent dividend was declared.

The past six months has been an unusually prosperous period for the bank, it was reported, and indications are that the coming six months will be even better for business. The cashier reported an increase in deposits of $1,000,000 for the past thirty days.

Last Day to Enlist.

Next Monday will be the last day marines, army and S. A. T. C. can avail themselves of the opportunity to re-enlist for a period of six months in France, according to orders received at the local marine recruiting office.

For several months orders have been in efefct that those who have seen service in the marine corps could re-enlist for overseas service in France. The terms expire after six months. These orders will be discontinued Monday.

Mr. Lyle was connected with Beck & Gregg Hardware company for about 15 years. Besides his widow, he is survived by one son, Harold Lyle, two sisters, Mrs. W. J. Nalley and Mrs. Marion S. Harper and three brothers, C. B., L. M., and D. R. Lyle.

GENERAL PERSHING AWARDS CITATION TO HOMER WATKINS

Homer Watkins, prominent Atlanta attorney, who recently was discharged from the military service, having served with the rank of major in the 326th infantry, 82d division, has been cited by General John J. Pershing, commander of the American expeditionary forces, for exceptional heroism in action.

When discharged, Mr. Watkins held the rank of lieutenant colonel, and was one of the mostbeloved officers in the all-American division. He graduated from the first officers' training camp at Fort McPherson, with the rank of major.

The citation is as follows: "Major Homer Watkins, 326th infantry, for distinguished and exceptional gallantry at St. Juvin, France, from October 11 to October 14, in the operations of the American expeditionary forces. In testimony thereof, and as an expression of appreciation of his valor, I award him this citation.

"JOHN J. PERSHING,
"Commander-in-Chief."

Elks Will Observe Flag Day With an Attractive Program

Flag day, which this year comes on Saturday, June 14, will be appropriately observed by Atlanta Lodge of the Benevolent and Patriotic Order of Elks, with an attractive program which will be given in the auditorium of Elks' Home on Ellis street, beginning at 8:30 p. m. The program follows:

2,000 Cars of Melons Will Be Distributed Through State Bureau

At least 2000 cars of watermelons will be disposed of this summer by the State Bureau of markets which has established a free service for farmers and buyers with a view to aiding in marketing watermelons. There are 1500 growers who have asked to have their names placed on the list, and some 35 commission houses.

W. J. Lyons, assistant director of the bureau, said Friday that it would tax his force heavily to handle this volume of additional work. "But," he said, "we are here to help the farmer, and are going to do it in every way possible."

AD MEN TO ELECT OFFICERS ON THURSDAY

Annual election of officers of the Advertising Club of Atlanta will be called at a luncheon at the Kimball on Thursday, June 19, at 12:30 o'clock, a full attendance being expected. President, first and second vice-presidents, secretary and treasurer and sergeant at arms will be named.

Under the administration of President Walter C. Hill, the club has enjoyed a particular prosperity for the past year. Among the speakers for the election luncheon will be Arthur Newmeyer, who will speak on the convention of Associated Advertising Clubs of the World in New Orleans on September 21-25. A committee will be named to see that Atlanta is well represented there.

SAILS FROM SAVANNAH WITH COTTON CARGO

Savannah, Ga., June 13.—The American steamship West Compo sailed from Savanah for Havre, France, today with an all-cotton cargo, consisting of 20,665 bales. While this is not a record cargo in point of size, it is one of the largest of the season. The actual purchase value of the cotton is somewhere near $3,000,000, and the gross value, including charges and expenses, would be more than $4,000,000.

TOM COLEMAN BACK FROM SERVICE ABROAD

Tom Coleman, former senior at Georgia Tech and well known in Atlanta, arrived in the city this week, after spending something over a year as a member of the crew of one of Uncle Sam's submarine chasers in foreign waters. He enlisted in the navy shortly after the outbreak of war between America and Germany, leaving Tech in his senior year.

Like all the rest of the fellows who went across the Atlantic in order that Hun submarines and other things might be wiped off an outraged earth, Mr. Coleman doesn't talk very much about his experiences. By subterfuge, it was discovered that the little chaser that he called home for so many months succeeded in sending at least one sub to Davy Jones' locker. This fact came out in a discussion as to the various methods of "crediting" successes in the navy. But all details as to the engagement were carefully sidestepped in the conversation.

An event which sticks in Mr. Coleman's memory occurred one afternoon in Paris. He was dancing with a very pretty little French girl. She couldn't talk English and he couldn't talk French, not noticeably, that is. Due to the accidental collision of this couple with another, the Coleman foot was forcefully implanted full upon the tiny French foot of his partner. He said the girl's face registered pain of the excruciating variety. Young Mr. Coleman thought hard for a minute for the proper French words to express his contrition. Finally he said, "Merci, beaucoup, Madamoiselle." What the young lady thought of a partner who was "much obliged" for the privilege of nearly ruining her foot will forever remain a mystery.

THE "LEAK" FIASCO.

The "leak" through which a copy of the tentative draft of the treaty found its way to Wall street and to Wilson's enemies in the senate, has been found; and, incidentally thereto, Lodge and his obstructionist colleagues are left nursing wounds inflicted by what proved to be a boomerang.

A few days ago Senator Lodge sprung a sensation by informing the senate and the country that he had seen "the treaty!" That it was in the hands of Wall street bankers; that a personal friend of his had shown it to him "in confidence;" that he did not know how it got out of Paris, but his only possible conclusion was, of course, that "Wilson followers" had, presumably for a price, placed it in the hands of New York financiers, etc., etc.

Borah, of course, took up the cry, and said that he, too, had seen the mysterious document; he "me too-ed" most of Lodge's statements and "deductions," and demanded that he be permitted to read the treaty into the record.

That was done—and the "anti" coterie congratulated itself upon a great victory over the man who is over in France lying awake nights in the interests of the human family and throwing his strength and best thought into his efforts to bring about a just and a lasting peace in order that the world may be secure from war in the future, and that our young men who have died in this war for democracy will not have died in vain.

But the senate minority, at the request of President Wilson, proposed an investigation of the Lodge-Borah "leak" charges; and such an investigation was immediately put under way, and quickly concluded.

The result:

As related by our Washington correspondent, Mr. James A. Hollomon, the investigators found that—

"One copy of the peace treaty was brought to this country many days ago by Henry P. Davison, president of the International Red Cross league, and a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. Mr. Davison secured it from Thomas W. Lamont, a fellow member of the same firm, who is also a member of the economic commission, itself a part of the peace conference machinery. Mr. Davison, upon landing, gave his copy to former Senator Elihu Root, one of the unofficial advisers of the American peace commission, who promptly locked it up, showing it to nobody except to Senator Lodge, who happened to visit him."

All of which Lodge, Borah, et al., must have known; no other conclusion is possible.

Former Senator and former Secretary of State Root was Senator Lodge's "confidential friend" who had possession of the paper, and no illegal nor improper use was made of it until it got into the hands of Wilson's enemies in the senate, who must have known the whole truth when, on the floor of the senate, they were insinuating bribery and crookedness upon the part of the president's fellow peace conferees.

Thus the "leak" proved to be a mare's nest and the hullabaloo raised about it nothing more than a tempest in a teapot.

And the administration baiters in the senate come out of it begrimed and spotted, the New York financiers with unstained hands, and Wilson and the rest of the American delegation in Paris with records in connection with it as clean as a wolf's tooth!

THEY GO TOGETHER.

"Good schools go along with the good roads movement," says The Valdosta (Ga.) Times; and the point is stressed that, with better highways in that section, as elsewhere, "there ought to come a great awakening in educational matters."

For such an awakening is invariably in evidence in sections where good highways lead to school doors.

Attention has been attracted to school districts where the pupils themselves keep the roads in repair—where they have even built better highways to facilitate school attendance.

And that's the sort of "educational awakening" that counts big for communities.

When the pupils of county schools are so greatly interested in their maintenance that they are willing to yield their playtime and vacation privileges to become road-builders to the little school houses, it's high time for their elders to "get busy."

That is one reason why our Valdosta contemporary says that every district in southern Georgia ought to have a local tax to supplement the state's appropriation—"a tax which would make possible good schools eight or nine months in the year;" for—

"the country school houses are to be the gauge by which the people of the different districts are measured. A good school house with well kept grounds and a full attendance, ought to indicate the thrift and intelligence of the people."

And that is exactly what it does do, just as the reverse of that "betrays a bad state of affairs in any community."

A county needs no more enlightening advertisement than to say that it is a county of good roads and schools.

OUR HIGH SCHOOLS.

The Atlanta board of education is face to face with the absolute necessity of reorganizing the entire high school system, and the earlier definite action to that end is taken the better.

It is a fact admitting of no controversy that the existing high schools are wholly inadequate.

So far as the buildings are concerned, they are not only woefully insufficient as to seating capacity, but they constitute a positive menace to the health and life of every student attending them.

Especially is this true of the Girls' High school building, which is not only insanitary, poorly lighted and insufficiently ventilated, but would prove a veritable death trap in case of fire.

The situation will be even worse a year from now, when the Commercial High school will be without a building, owing to the recent sale of the rented structure which it now occupies. New quarters will then have to be found or the Commercial High will have to be discontinued.

Atlanta, a city of approximately a quarter of a million population, has built only one high school in its entire history, that being the Boys' High school, which was built about twenty-three years ago at a cost of $50,000.

Since that structure was built—and it is entirely out of date and inadequate to meet present-day demands—the city of Atlanta has expended less than $35,000 in annexations and additions to the buildings it has used for high school purposes.

The Girls' High is partly housed in a building that served as Sherman's headquarters during the civil war!

Tech High occupies rooms that were built for mercantile purposes, the value of which has been spent many times over, perhaps, in rental.

That in a nutshell tells the story of what Atlanta has done toward providing for the housing of its high school boys and girls—a story of which any city of a quarter of Atlanta's size and wealth and pride in other respects should be ashamed!

At the last meeting of the board of education the following resolutions were introduced:

"Whereas, the high school buildings of Atlanta are inadequate, unsuitable and abominable, and

"Whereas, the Commercial High school will be deprived of a building one year hence, because of the sale of the present rented building, be it

"Resolved, That plans be made at once for the reorganization of the entire high school system along the most modern lines, and that to facilitate such a movement, the board send a committee of three, consisting of the superintendent, the principal of the Girls' High school and the principal of the Tech High school, to visit some of the leading cities in the early fall for the purpose of ascertaining the best plan of reorganization, special investigation to be made in regard to cosmopolitan senior high schools, and junior high schools, and an industrial high school for negroes.

"It being understood that Atlanta should plan not for the present, but for the future.

"Resolved further, That the board indorse the proposition to launch a bond issue for schools alone, and that the money be used largely for building junior and senior high schools. In this way relief will be furnished the grammar schools.

The matter of an increase in the teachers' salary scale having temporarily been disposed of, and in a limited measure satisfactorily, the question of building construction is undoubtedly the one of greatest importance now confronting the school administration; and one that demands immediate solution.

Other cities—cities of far less importance, of wealth and numerical population incomparable with ours—can and do utilize their credit by the bonding method as the best, most practicable and least burdensome means of keeping their respective school systems up to standard, and there is no valid reason why Atlanta cannot and should not do the same thing!

The resolutions referred to are now in the hands of a school board committee, to be finally acted upon one way or another later on.

They truthfully and conservatively state the situation that exists here; they point out the most businesslike and most feasible remedy. In every respect they are commendable; and the board of education and the voters of Atlanta can do no greater service to the school system of this city than to act in accordance with their purpose.

A Poet at a Pinch.

The signature of "Little John" appeared recently, in The Excelsior Springs Standard, and "the little 'un" did mighty well, as this bears evidence:

"Uncle John has went to be a delegate;
An' left me home his work to do—an' you to elevate.
The Guv'nor sent him word to go,
about the public health;
He always thinks about them things instead of his own wealth.

"But what's a feller goin' to do, a hole like this to fill,
But hitch up on his galluses an' grab his trusty quill?
Though what I know 'bout meter-rhymes an' all that bloomin' stuff
Would force a poet referee to quickly call my bluff.

"But here I am at last, thank God, just endin' up the job,
An' Uncle will be home next week to quell the angry mob.
Before he goes again this way, believe I'll take a look

I.

"We are the living," and shall shrine
The fields where Heroes died;
Some rest where Verdun's breezes blow,
Or, Marne's blue waters glide.
And graves there be where battles blazed;
Hard by the Channel Main;
And where, in fairest Picardy,
Sleep freedom's battle-slain.

II.

And serried mounds fill Argonne aisles,
Far in the Argonne Wood;
Where nations fought, and Freedom's flag
Told where her Heroes stood.
These herald Freedom's world-crusade,
To crush the thrall of Might;
And token give that Freedom's march
Shall win the World for Right.

III.

No greater deeds have Heroes known,
Or grander triumphs won,
Than those that paid the battle wage
For Man, and Duty done.
Henceforth, shall Nation, Nation greet,
And learn that Freedom's creed
The message bears of Nationhood,
The world at last, shall heed.

Taft Says Steam Roads In Far Better Financial Shape Than Electrics

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service, Copyright, 1919)

Philadelphia, June 12.—In reference to the issue of increased fares for municipal public service corporations, former President William Howard Taft today made the following statement:

"The financial situation of the general steam railroad system of the country is bad enough, but it is far better than that of the electric street and suburban railway systems. There are several reasons for this, the last and perhaps the most influential of which has grown out of the war.

"In the first place, many electric lines were built through territory which did not and could not furnish traffic enough to pay the expenses of operation and at the time of construction, and they have never paid since. Many were built to develop the settlement of subdivisions, in the exploitation and sale of which directors and others were interested. Common councils and other municipal bodies also pressed for their construction and they were undertaken without careful business foresight. An important element now interfering with the business in both city and suburban lines is the use of the automobiles. The jitney business, which for a time threatened destruction to the street railways, has not survived, but the normal use of automobiles has increased so much as to constitute a serious reduction in railway receipts.

City Railways.

"On city railways the fare has generally been 5 cents for all distances, the theory being that the volume of the business would reduce the cost per head of passenger in such a way as to make the fixed single fare profitable. Indeed, in some cities 3 and 4-cent fares have been forced. The public has thus been trained to regard anything more than 5 cents as an infringement upon its rights and privileges and an unjust swelling of the profits of traction capitalists. The feeling has been intensified among the people by the knowledge of the use of sinister and corrupe methods in originally securing franchises. The result is that in every community, however, honest and earnest the present owners may be, they have an inheritance of popular distrust and hostility that works greatly to their detriment when they ask for justice at the hands of the public.

"Five cents under present conditions is generally not reasonable compensation for the service rendered in any city. The great percentage of increase in the cost of every material that enters into maintenance and operation requires, as a mere matter of fairness and equity, that the fares be increased. Coal, wire, rails, oil and cars have gone up with the price of other commodities in the community. Indeed, this condition was coming on before the war. One important element of the cost of operation has long been kept down simply through the necessitous circumstances of the street railways. That was the cost of labor. With their backs to the wall the street railway managers refused to advance wages as wages advanced in other fields of labor.

"The platform men of street railway perform a semi-skilled service. The value of experience in which the companies themselves recognize by wages graded according to years of training. In order that the men should live upon the wages granted them at all, they have generally had to work from ten to twelve hours a day, seven days in the week. The unequal demand for service through the hours of the day and the "peaks" between 6 and 9 o'clock in the morning and 4 and 7 o'clock in the afternoon prevented runs of continuous hours for many of the men and required intervals in their periods of service, so that between the time of the beginning and the end of the daily runs of many fourteen to seventeen hours elapsed. This time was technically known among street railway men as the "spread."

Issue of Wages.

"When the war came on the issue of wages on street railways came within the jurisdiction of the national war labor board because the service of street railways all over the country was necessary to maintain maximum production in the factories where war supplies were made. Without street railways labor could not reach the places where it was employed. The national war labor board was asked to fix the wages of street car men in many cities. Generally the street railway companies, obeying the patriotic impulse, submitted to the arbitration of the board. The slightest examination of the wages paid and the hours employed developed the fact that street railway labor had been underpaid and that the hours were generally too long.

"It was objected that the increase in wages and the reduction of hours would prevent companies from operating at a profit and might lead to bankruptcy. The attitude of the board or of the two joint chairmen who usually sat as arbitrators was that the question of wages in an arbitration like this was not one which could be affected by the question of profit or operation; that it was like fixing the price of coal or of any other element that entered into the cost of operation; that it must be governed by the range of wages for similar services in the same community and by minimum limitation as to the cost of living. The result was that the maximum wages were advanced in most cases from about 33 to 34 cents an hour to 48 cents an hour in the case of large cities, with variation down to 40 cents an hour in cities where the cost of living was less.

Increased Expenditures.

"This increase, of course, added materially to the necessary expenditures of the railway company and the burden of the cost of operation, but it was only one of many elements which cut down dividends and interfered with the payment of the fixed charges on bonds and other securities. The national war labor board did not hesitate to recommend in every case an increase of the fares as only just to the owners of the street railway companies. A number of utility commissions of the various states responded to the recommendation and increased the fares. This action was noteworthy in Massachusetts and in Boston.

"But often the statutes were in such form that state commissions had no jurisdiction to make the increase. The rates were fixed in a municipal franchise and could only be varied by the action of the common council or by a referendum of the people, and such referendums always resulted in a popular vote against the increase of fares beyond 5 cents.

"Another difficulty was that too great increases in fares reduced the number of persons carried and left conditions as bad as before. The result for the companies was the grinding of them between the upper and the nether millstones, and that grinding is going on today, with the inevitable result of bringing the street railway companies and the suburban lines into receiverships and bankruptcy and a permanent injury and loss to a most useful and indispensable public agency of intercommunication.

Choate's Position.

"Joseph K. Choate, in New York, representing a number of electric railways of that state, has asked the state authorities to recommend legislation looking to a relief of this situation. The capital invested in that state, he says, is more than a billion two hundred and fifty millions of dollars. It is to be hoped that Mr. Choate's petition on behalf of his clients will be granted, that the whole subject may have the most thorough investigation and that action be taken by the state legislature, which has the power to ignore franchises and other limitations now in the local laws and to do justice to the companies under existing conditions.

"There are those who believe the situation can only be relieved by municipal ownership. This seems to many and to the writer to be a short-sighted conclusion. Such a change of ownership will not reduce the cost of operation. Instead our experience is that it will greatly increase it if ownership is to include municipal operation. The intervention of politics always increases the cost of operation and leads to unwise business management.

"Many who favor municipal operation admit that the present system cannot be continued by municipal and state governments without a constant loss. They propose that the losses be made up by taxation. The theory is that, as the community is taxed to build roads and bridges and other means of communication, the same principle might easily be extended to actual transportation. But our experience in public control of that kind of activity and complicated business management has not been fortunate. It foreshadows such lack of economy and increase of cost of operation as to make the change most unwise. It is far better that we should pay as we go. It is far better that we should measure the cost by a system of service at cost with close public supervision and an increase of fares as the actual operations demand it, and with a small reasonable compensation for the use of capital, than that we should turn over to political control the conduct of such business enterprises which need the best talent for their economical management.

"But whatever the remedy to be undertaken, the condition of investment now reaching at least five billions in the country so serious that public attention should be aroused to the necessity of devising ways and means to meet the crisis.

Health Talks---By William Brady, M.D.

A QUESTION FOR UNCLE SAM.

Dear Doctor Brady:

In the Health Talks written by you I read that "The Rod Is a Good Remedy." Now, I wish to state the manner in which I came to smoke cigarettes.

I am a boy of 16 and have recently been discharged from the United States marine corps—honorably. I enlisted at the age of 15, but, of course, had to secure my parents' permission. I was sent to the music school to learn to blow a trumpet. While in training none of the boys, who were between the ages of 15 and 18, were allowed to smoke. Now, as soon as a boy became rated or could blow a trumpet perfectly he was allowed to smoke. Also congress has passed a bill allowing boys who are rated Trumpeters of the U. S. M. C. to smoke.

The very day I became rated the sergeant congratulated me and handed me a big cigar. From then on I became a smoker.

Now, Dr. Brady, can you blame me, a boy of 16, for smoking? And do you think you could not trust me because I smoke cigarettes? The government encouraged me to do so, and even the Red Cross distributed cigarettes to boys from 15 to 18 years of age who were rated Trumpeters of the U. S. Marines. Why?

Yours truly,

Let Uncle Sam explain why boys are encouraged to smoke. Let the Red Cross explain why cigarettes are thrust upon boys under 18.

The Red Cross right now plans a great movement for improving the health of the civil population in peace time. Will the cigarette habit be encouraged among young boys in civil life?

This boy writes a manly, straightforward and businesslike letter. He may possibly get along in life in spite of the great handicap which has been thrust upon him. Yet, if he were my boy, Trumpeter or no Trumpeter, he would drop the cigarette habit in a hurry. That is, he would unless he were a better man with his dukes than I. And of course a cigarette smoker of 16 years wouldn't last long in a hard scrap.

The sergeant no doubt meant well when he handed the 16-year-old boy a big cigar. But I'd keep an eye on the sergeant with such notions of manhood. In fact, if it were printable, I have a letter right on my desk now from another boy, this one in the Canadian army, who was encouraged in a serious misstep by his sergeant.

So far as I know, the use of tobacco by grown men often seems to be harmless. But any doctor knows that the use of tobacco by immature youths is sure to do harm.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Spring and the Liver.

Is the spring tonic of one-third sulphur and two-thirds cream of tartar mixed with molasses good for one to take, or is it an old-fashioned theory? Also, when one has not the opportunity to do much walking, is there any special exercise one can take at home to keep the liver in good condition? I am 24 years old, and have been quite sallow of late, which makes me think my liver is out of condition. (Mrs. W. L. G.)

ANSWER—Sulphur is a laxative. Cream of tartar is a mild diuretic (increases flow of urine). Molasses is a good food. Sallow complexion is not due to any liver trouble. That is an old over-worked almanac idea. Take six rolls before breakfast every morning and six more at bedtime. For keeping in good physical condition the year round a regular scheduled of room exercises should be followed before dressing mornings and after undressing nights. Send S. A. E. for detailed description of such exercises.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is inclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care The Constitution.

A conference of republican leaders of California has been called to assemble in San Francisco today to discuss campaign plans in behalf of Senator Hiram W. Johnson as a candidate for the republican presidential nomination.

A great parade and demonstration, participated in by delegations from visiting cities, is planned to be held today before the national capitol in Washington in protest against wartime prohibition as applied to light wines and beer.

"In the Day's News"

Hiram W. Johnson, whose candidacy for the republican presidential nomination is expected to be formally launched at a republican conference to be held in San Francisco today, was one of the founders of the progressive party and was its candidate for the vice presidency in the national campaign of 1912. Four years later he advised a merger of the progressives with the republicans and gave his support to Mr. Hughes for the presidency. A native of Sacramento, who studied at the University of California, and a lawyer by profession, Mr. Johnson first came into prominence by casting in his lot with critics of corporation domination of the politics of California and especially of San Francisco. Elected governor of the state in 1911 as a "reform" executive, he so conducted his office that in 1915 he was re-elected for a second term of four years. In 1917 he resigned the governorship to accept election to the United States senate.

What Do These Men Want?

BY NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS

The newspapers of our land carry full accounts of a meeting of ten thousand people in Madison Square garden to listen to a defense of Bolshevism and radical socialism by four of our prominent citizens of New York. Dr. Holmes described Bolshevism as the greatest social experiment of modern times, and defended the movement as the hope of the future. Rabbi Menzes criticised President Wilson for his antagonism to the great Russian movement. The names of our leaders in Washington were jeered. Every reference to a coming revolution was cheered to the echo. Plainly there are multitudes of people in our city who have lost faith in our republic and want to see our free institutions overthrown and the socialistic plans of Russian Bolshevism substituted. Many patriots are alarmed. They thing that Bolshevism is a cancer, slowly eating into the vitals of the republic. But these four speakers, at least, and their ten thousand listeners, believe that our present form of government is a body politic that is now death-struck and dying, and they think that its funeral cannot come too soon.

Dr. Hillis.

These speakers have not only asked the question as to just what it is that they want, but they have also answered that question. They tell us that Trotzky and Lenine should be praised for starting a state socialism. They defend their crimes by saying that the lands of Russia were in the hands of rich farmers, who were unwilling to give up their state, and therefore had to be killed, and that the factories were controlled by inventors and business men, who were not willing to surrender their property and, therefore, had to be shot, and that men who live on dividends of their factories have no right to vote, nor have any who live upon the interest of their investments. The one-talent man, who is illiterate, thriftless and without any property, has a right to the suffrage, but an industrious man, who has worked hard for thirty years to save up a little money for his old age, and now lives upon his savings, has no right to vote. For the first time in history, industry and thrift are punished. For the first time an inventor is scorned. For the first time the struggle for individual excellence and personal worth is discouraged. The estimates now are that over one hundred thousand convicts, who were imprisoned for counterfeiting, forgery, housebreaking and murder, have been turned loose. The proof is overwhelming that these convicts have been placed at the head of the red army. Of the three hundred and eighty-four officials of the Bolshevik government in Russia, two are negroes, thirteen are Russians, fifteen are Chinamen, twenty-two are Americans and three hundred are Jews. Of these three hundred, two hundred and sixty-four are Hebrews who used to live in New York. It seems that Russia today is being controlled and governed by ex-citizens of Manhattan. Plainly this number of two hundred and sixty-four Bolshevist officials should be increased by the addition of at least four men who have announced that the Bolshevist experiment by Trotzky and Lenine is the greatest experiment that the world has ever seen. Where a man's treasure is, there his heart will be also. Men who hate this country and who love Trotzky more than Washington, and Lenine above Lincoln, should shake the dust of New York from their feet and go to the land of Bolshevism, and there rebuild the towers of Petrograd.

Sea Food and Geography

Now that the seas are open to the pursuits of peace, and the world is sorely in need of food, many problems of ocean geography are likely to be solved in the course of the quest for deep sea rations, according to a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

"The ocean literally teems with food," says the bulletin. The man who declared that humanity is a race of herring-catchers might have overstated the case, but that the sea abounds in food-fishes and fishes fit for food is well known. As soon as we begin to study the subject of ocean fisheries, however, we come up short against the fact that what we really know about the inhabitants of the sea is startlingly limited.

"It was not so long ago that the fishermen of the North sea believed that whales brought the herring in toward shallow water—a conclusion they reached from the observation that schools of herring are frequently found in the vicinity of spouting whales. In 1906 there was a failure of the herring fisheries, and the fishermen blamed the situation on the Norwegian whaling vessels operating in that region.

Percentage Caught.

"Likewise, it is still a moot question whether or not modern fishing methods tend to deplete the supply, and whether artificial propagation of sea fishes is a sufficient counter measure. A few years ago a British commission measured the intensity of fishing operations in the North sea. Trailing bottles were set adrift, and it was found that more than half of them were recaptured. In certain localities they were captured at a rate that indicated 90 per cent retaken each season. Marked fish yielded largely similar results. A food-fish of adult size had at least three to one odds against its getting through the year uncaught.

"And yet there is so little race suicide in the ocean that even such intensive fishing probably has no effect upon the available adult supply. For instance, the female turbot lays 8,500,000 eggs a year, and the cod has 4,500,000 to her credit. The female flounder lays 1,400,000, the sole 570,000, the haddock 450,000 and the plaice 300,000. The poor herring must be content with a meager 31,000.

Unsolved Questions.

"Much remains to be learned about the migration habits of the world's food-fishes. Where do the salmon go after they leave the rivers? Why does the eel, as discovered some time since by the Danes, go far out to sea, far to the south and west of the Irish coast, to spawn, and how do the countless hordes of delicate elvers find their way around the British Isles and into the continental rivers? Innumerable are the questions like these that the future will reveal to the oceanographers of a new day.

"The problem of life in the ocean is one full of interest and pregnant with valuable lessons for mankind. Even at the bottom of the deepest trench in the abysmal region of the sea's bottom, where no ray of the sun ever penetrated, where Stygian night is perpetual, where freezing temperatures never cease and where inconceivable pressures prevail, the miracle of life still goes on.

"Eerie creatures exist in these uttermost depths. Here is a fish swimming by with light-giving organs ranged in rows from nose to tail, on port and starboard sides, a fantastic miniature of an ocean liner, alight from stem to stern, gliding noiselessly through the perpetual night. There is another, with a well-defined searchlight with which to explore the blackness around. Here is a breathing caricature of a mermaid with binoculars, and there a creature whose eyes are upon the ends of long stalks reaching out from the head like sunflowers from the ground."

FOR RECOGNITION OF SOVIET RUSSIA

Resolution Demanding Such Action by United States Before Labor Federation—Irish Independence and Espionage Repeal Also Asked.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 13.—Resolutions urging recognition of the soviet government of Russia and the lifting of the blockade against that part of the country under its control, were among 200 submitted by delegates attending the convention of the American Federation of Labor here, texts of which were made public today. The resolution concerning soviet Russia aroused intense interest among the delegates.

Irish Independence Asked.

The independence of Ireland, a six hour working day, immediate repeal of the espionage law, the electoral franchise for the citizens of Washington, D. C., regulation of the meat packing industry, action by congress to lower the cost of living, condemnation of introduction into their plants by steel companies and other big industries of the "Rockefeller plan" of collective bargaining, and a severe condemnation of the "Prussianistic, imperialistic" postmaster general, are suggested in some of the other important resolutions.

The soviet resolution, submitted by James A. Duncan by instruction of the Central Labor council, of Seattle, by the Seattle organization, calls upon congress immediately to order troops out of Russia and recognize the soviet government. It would require the American Federation of Labor to conduct a ballot of all local unions "to ascertain the sentiment" of the membership upon the question of recognition of the Bolshevists. The result, it is declared, "would serve as a guide to the conduct of all labor officials and unionists generally."

Restriction of Immigration.

Restriction of immigration, further action by organized labor to assist in securing the release from jail of Thomas Mooney, government ownership of railroads, according to the plan fostered by the railroad brotherhoods, proper enforcement of the seaman's act, increase in the salary of President Gompers to $10,000 a year, approval of Secretary Lane's project to furnish land for soldiers and sailors, a protest against the emergency fleet corporation charging excessive rents for housing facilities furnished by it, also were submitted as deserving the approval of organized labor as a body.

Several resolutions propose the changing of labor day to May 1, one of them asserting that employers of the country fixed the September date as means of preventing organized labor in the United States from making the same occasion of the day as European workmen.

A resolution severely condemning the American Tobacco Co., for alleged practices affecting cigar makers was adopted.

PALMER ASKS $500,000 TO FIGHT RADICALISM

Washington, June 13.—Attorney General Palmer, before the House Appropriations committee today in support of his request for a half million dollars to combat radicalism said the government must continue relentlessly its efforts to run down the radicals in light of the recent violence in several cities.

Although refraining from comment on the government plans for pushing the hunt, the attorney general's statement gave the impression to committeemen that he believed that a firm-hand policy alone would tend to stop future depredations. Mr. Palmer made no comment on the progress of the department's work since the recent violence.

In addition to the special fund, the attorney general asked that the committee grant $1,500,000 for use during the next year in detecting and punishing crime, this amount being the same as granted in recent years.

COFFEE DEALERS URGE NEW STEAMER SERVICE

New York, June 13.—The joint coffee trade committee, representing the green coffee merchants and roasters of the United States, today sent to more than 500 wholesale dealers throughout the country copies of a letter to Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the United States shipping board, urging prompt establishment of the proposed new government steamship service between North and South America. Better shipping facilities, it was stated, would contribute toward bringing about a reduction in coffee prices.

The letter pointed out that coffee constituted the greater part of the tonnage from Brazil and Colombia to this country, the imports for twelve months ending June 1 totaling 1,091,000,000 pounds.

League Required To Avert World Ruin, Says Percy

English Lord, Member of Executive Committee of League, Pleads for New World Order.

(The Constitution—London Times—PhMadelphia Public Ledger Service.—Copyright, 1919.)

London, June 12.—Lord Eustace Perry, member of the executive committee of the league of nations, in a statement for The Constitution-London Times-Public Ledger Service, says:

"The league of nations during these last months has come down to earth from the clouds. We have had to realize that there is today on the political earth at any rate no royal road to peace. We can only avert from our children the crushing burdens of future war by laying both upon ourselves and upon them in the years immediately to come, the hard and prosaic labor of preparing and conforming peace.

"The league is the first joint council in which we are pledged to take an active part for watching international relations harmonizing international discords, working out the compromises or in the last resort giving judgments in international disputes, which threaten peace. This council is not to be got from a machine descending into the fifth act of a drama and settling matters with a wave of the hand. It is to be a permanent watch tower, where the more sober and advanced nations especially must watch every movement of trouble in the world. Great Britain has never watched before. She has left a few diplomatists dotted about the world to watch in her name and then she has forgotten them. She is now caled upon to change all her traditions of aloofness and to assume direct responsibility in foreign affairs.

Secondly, the league is a network of joint conferences charged with the duty of a systematically developing those great departments of economic and social work which no one nation can cope with alone. The most important of these is the labor conference, but many others must be created. Public health, migration of peoples, control of international ports, rivers and railways, preservation or safety of life at sea, good government and progressive civilization of native races—all these are highly technical subjects which can only be dealt with by systematic organization and expert administration. In all such matters hitherto Great Britain has too often been content to go on her way, leaving others to conform to her example, but taking no trouble to lead them after her or to adapt her progress to larger needs than to those of her own people alone.

"Are the people behind the league? If not, it will indeed be only a new peace of bureaucracy, rather slower and more cumberous than national bureaucracies because the deliberations will be longer and decisions more difficult. Only diplomatists, perhaps with a new name but still the same, will stand on the watch tower. But then people will be to blame. The time for talk is past and the time for action is here. Even from her present half-built watch-tower Great Britain can see something of the world in ruins. The body of Europe is torn and tortured, peace has been half proclaimed, but it has still to be made whole. The four-fold judgment of the sword and the famine and the noisome beast and the pestilence is still upon the earth. To Great Britain above all appeal is being made from every quarter to allay discords by her judgment, to restore order by her power and build up economic life again by her wealth and her organizing ability. It is vital that the world should know surely and without delay, whether sober opinion in Great Britain is loyally resolved to make the league a reality and a success."

STRIKE IS SETTLED ON N. & W. SYSTEM

Washington, June 13.—Railway administration officials announced late today that the strike of the shopmen of the Norfolk and Western railroad had been ended as a result of the conference with American Federation of Labor officials at Bluefield, West Virginia. The men voted to return to work Monday, it was stated.

Portsmouth, Ohio, June 13.—According to a statement by local Norfolk and Western officials here this afternoon, the strike on the N. & W. railroad, involving 10,000 men, has been settled.

Senator Lodge Told No Fiume Residents Want Jugo-Slav Rule

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service, Copyright, 1919)

Washington, June 13.—The petition to give Fiume to the Jugo-Slavs which was recently presented to the peace conference at Versailles, was signed only by non-residents of that port, the plenipotentiary for Fiume at the peace conference, Andressoinack, told Senator Lodge, chairman for the senate committee on foreign relations, in a cablegram today. Andressoinack thanked Senator Lodge for taking steps to place the Fiume dispute before the American senate, which he requested the foreign relations chairman to do in a cable message a week ago. His message today was as follows:

"Please accept in the name of the national council and the town of Fiume our grateful thanks for having brought up the matter of Fiume in the senate, thus making it known to all Americans, in whom Fiume has the greatest faith and is sure that it will not allow that in its name injustice should be done. For your information the Jugo-Slavs, to mislead opinion in the peace conference, have sent in a petition signed by many persons not residing in Fiume, stating that they want Fiume to be under Jugo-Slavia. The whole petition is valueless, because only citizens of Fiume are entitled to express a wish on the subject and not people only temporarily residing there or outsiders. It would be the same if, say, seven hundred thousand Italians in New York without citizenship rights were to speak in the name of the city."

HE ADMITS ROBBERY AND DOUBLE MURDER

New York, June 13.—Confession to double murder and robbery of the East Brooklyn Savings bank last December has been made to District Attorney Lewis by a prisoner brought yesterday from Tacoma, Wash., it was announced at the district attorney's office today. The man gave the name of Gordon Fawcett Hamby, J. Allen and Browning Bird, but says that none of these is his real name. He also stated, according to the district attorney, that he had been a bank robber and train robber for the last seven or eight years, during which time he had stolen about $450,000.

TWO BOMB SUSPECTS HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Philadelphia, June 13.—Paul Olsen and John Wintel, bomb suspects, each 27 years old, were held without bail today. Evidence against them included a bag containing 125 steel-jacketed dum-dum cartridges, maps and street guides of Philadelphia, Camden, New York, Cleveland and Pittsburg, in which bombs were exploded recently. They are unnaturalized aliens.

FRENCH SOCIALISTS ASSAIL GOVERNMENT

By G. B. Adams.

(The Constitution—London Times—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service.—Copyright, 1919.)

Paris, June 13.—Coincident with the renaissance of old political intrigues in the chamber of deputies there is being manifested formidable activity by the socialist party, which has traveled far to the left since 1914 and which seeks in every incident, whether industrial, military or naval, an opportunity of attacking the powers that be. Today they have a double-barreled gun with which to go sniping. Economic conditions thoroughly justify many of the demands made for increases in wages and nothing the government has been able to do yet has interfered with the steady increase in the cost of living. The application of the eight hours act has also led to great friction.

These two questions are the main sources of the labor discontent. They are being exploited to the full by extremists and politicians in the ranks and sometimes at the head of labor organizations and exploded in a political sense, the full meaning and aim of which is shown by the decision to hold an international meeting June 14 to consider joint action upon several matters, including the Russian policy of the allies. The socialists, who early in the week gave their whole-hearted support to the customary capitalist enemy, The Matin in its attack on the government over the Schoeller case hace continued the attack in connection with incidents, both civil and military, which marred the withdrawal of the French forces from Odessa and Sebastopol.

There can be no question, of course, of a ministerial crisis, but people look forward to events of the next week or so with justified apprehension.

The situation, without being by any means desperate, is nevertheless extremely disquieting and the labor troubles coincide with other disturbances of a more political character which are undoubtedly deplored. There have been in one or two places recently incidents similar to those which have broken the peace of demobilization camps in Great Britain. They have not been actually as serious as they were in England, but in their political aspect they are perhaps more important, for they are being utilized as weapons in an increasingly bitter political fight against the Clemenceau government.

WHITES AND BLACKS FIGHTING IN WALES

London, June 13.—There was a renewal in Cardiff, Wales, last night of the race rioting that broke out recently between negroes who had been brought into Great Britain as laborers during the war, and the white population. One white man and one Arab were killed and several persons were injured. Many arrests were made.

The negro rioters had possession of numerous revolvers and kept up an incessant fusillade, while the whites, for the most part, according to reports, threw bottles and bricks.

REPUBLICANS WIN FIGHT ON BENNING

Army Appropriation Bill Prohibits Secretary of War From Acquiring Real Estate—Aimed at Columbus Plant.

By J. A. Hollomon.

(By Constitution Leased Wire)

Washington, June 13.—As anticipated in The Constitution this morning the republican house today under a special rule framed overnight for the purpose passed by its usual majority a proviso in the army appropriation bill prohibiting the secretary of war from acquiring real estate by straight purchase or condemnation. This proviso was designed for the purpose of destroying Fort Benning, near Columbus, Ga., where the government, through the war department, has already purchased several thousand acres of land and several thousand more, making a total of approximately 95,000 acres, is now in process of purchase.

As outlined in today's Constitution the government has built eleven miles of railroad into this property and has already spent in land purchases and improvements more than six millions of dollars. The plant is being built for a permanent small arms, infantry arms and machine gun training school.

Caught by Wright.

This provision was inserted into the army appropriation bill without the current knowledge of any one on the outside, the purpose being to pass it through without attention. Congressman Wright caught it, however, and Judge Crisp, of Georgia, in making a point of order against it, brought to the surface the real motive and its direct aim at the Georgia project. In sustaining Judge Crisp's point of order adjournment was forced by the republicans in order to give the rules committee the opportunity to frame up a rule to railroad the proviso through.

This was done and precipitated a stormy partisan debate in the house today engaged in by Wright and Crisp, of Georgia; Lever, of South Carolina; Garrett, and, others contending for the continuance of a project that the war department regarded as essential, and in which so much money had already been invested. The Fort Benning school however, was bitterly attacked by Madden, Mondell, McKennie and other republicans, and it was clearly demonstrated at the opening that it was a party line-up with no hope of getting the proviso stricken.

Judge Wright made his initial speech in the house and a good one. He presented documentary evidences of the war department's investigations and their findings, everything being ideal for such a plan. He showed that the lands already purchased in fee were not contiguous, therefore to prohibit the purchase of further lands could only be for the purpose of destroying the whole, without regard to the millions already invested. He showed further that the government was under sacred pledge to purchase thousands of acres for which the titles were now being perfected and that the farmers, accepting the government's good faith had moved away and in many instances purchased other farms.

Partisan Fight Throughout.

Argument, however, fell on deaf ears. It was a partisan, sectional fight with the program already marked out.

This action in the house today, however, must not be construed as definitely killing Fort Benning. The fight will be taken to the senate and if the proviso is permitted to remain in the bill there then Congressman Wright will appear before the house military committee and seek special legislation to protect Benning and permit the war department to carry on its contemplated training developments here. Chairman Kahn informed the Georgian stoday that in that event "if the case is meritorious it will have consideration."

NEGRO WOMAN LEAVES MILLION TO DAUGHTER

New York, June 13.—The title of "richest negro woman in the United States," which was held for many years by Jennie C. Walker, manufacturer of a hair ointment widely popular with her race, will pass to her only daughter, Leila Walker Robinson, under the terms of her will.

With the exception of two trust funds of $100,000 each for the benefit of charities, distant relations and friends, she left her entire estate to her daughter. The estate is estimated at $1,000,000. Among the charitable bequests was one for the establishment of an industrial and mission school in Africa.

COMMISSION ORDER TO A. & W. P. ROAD

Washington, June 13.—In the complaint of the San Antonio freight bureau against the Atlanta and West Point and other railroads, the interstate commerce commission today ordered the defendants to put into effect on or before September 15 freight charges on cotton packers or trampers from San Antonio to Little Rock, Memphis and Gullets, La., which are not in excess of rates on gin presses from Little Rock, Memphis and Gullets to San Antonio. It was ordered further that similar rates to Memphis and New Orleans on shipments destined to points east of the Mississippi should not be higher from San Antonio than the rates from Dallas.

Rates on the same class of shipments from San Antonio to Oklahoma and southeastern territory were held not to be unreasonable or prejudicial.

Capt. Scott Candler Visits Washington For One of His Men

By J. A. Hollomon.

(By Constitution Leased Wire)

Washington, June 13.—Captain Scott Candler, of Atlanta, who is stationed at Camp Gordon, was in Washington today in connection with a court-martial sentence imposed upon one of his men. He saw the judge advocate general in company with Senator Harris who asked that he remain in Washington a few days longer in order to go more fully into the details of the case. This Captain Candler could not do without leave as the leave granted him would require his leaving for Atlanta tonight. Thereupon Senator Harris took him to the adjutant general where a special five-day extension was granted. Captain Candler is a son of Chairman Murphey Candler of the Georgia Railroad commission.

FOUR CARS OF HOGS ARE SOLD FOR $8,250

Americus, Ga., June 13.—(Special.—Four carloads of hogs just sold at a co-operative farmers' sale at Plains, near here, brought a total of $8,250. George O. Marshall, county farm demonstration agent, who conducted the sale, stated yesterday that with the cost of transportation, feeding en route and other expenses considered, the hogs sold her eprobably brought a cent a pound more than they would have commanded in Chicago on the same day. Of the 309 head sold, 66 graded No. 1, bringing $17.56 a hundred, while 122 graded No. 2, and 121 graded No. 3. Summer hog sales in the south are somewhat unusual, but Sumter farmers are now feeding out large numbers of hogs and plans have been completed for holding another sale at Plains on July 9, when about 300 additional head will be offered.

HEIGHT OF 15,700 FEET FOR FRENCH AVIATOR

Paris, June 13.—Announcement is made that Baroness de la Roche, a widely-known French aviatrix, driving the small biplane in which the late Jules Vedrines landed on the roof of a department store here last January, has reached an altitude of 15,700 feet. She is given the record for height attained by women flyers. The level she reached is over a thousand feet higher than the best record made by Ruth Law, who has heretofore held the woman's altitude title.

RAY ROBERTS TIES 23-INNING BATTLE

Edited By Leslie Rawlings

Handsome Atlantan Duels Rube Marshall For Season's Record

Two Hurlers Fought Until the Shades of Night Brought Heart-Breaking Contest to Close, With Both Pitchers Still Going Strong.

DYKES SHOWS CLASS.

Handling eleven assists and eleven putouts in one game without an error may not be a record, but it comes so near to it that hats are off in the Southern league to Second Baseman John Dykes, of the Cracker team. Some of them scorching hot, the grounders that Dykes successfully turned into assists in Friday's game placed his playing in the star class with a large margin.

Chattanooga, June 13.—(Special.) Rube Marshall and Ray Roberts shared honors today in the most sensational game in the history of the Southern league, Lookouts and Crackers battling twenty-three innings with the score 2 and 2 before Umpire Johnson, called it off on account of darkness.

Although the battle raged from the eighth to the twenty-third without a run, there was little of the one-two-three both frequently had runners on the bases and the game abounded in thrilling situations, fast fielding cutting off apparently sure runs.

Marshall's Bad Bone.

In the nineteenth inning Marshall robbed himself and his team of a victory by repetition of the famous Merkle "bone" that cost the New York Giants a championship in 1908. With the bases full, Marshall on first, and two out, Griffith sailed a long single to right center. The crowd arose with a mighty shout and started for the gates. All of the players made a rush for the benches, as Lacey trotted across the plate and Higgins to third. But alas, the Rube himself did not take the trouble to run to second and beat it for the club house with the rest. Herndon brought the ball in and tossed it to Galloway. Umpire Johnson ruled it a force-out and ordered the game to continue.

Roberts was favored with steadier support than Marshall, though both teams made many great plays. Herndon and the two keystone guardians did the stellar work for Atlanta, while Anderson shone at the first for the home club. Dykes handled twenty-one chances without a misplay, and Griffin took care of twenty-six.

It was a wonderful exhibition of fielding for the Crackers, who went twenty-three innings with a single error and killed off many hits. Four Lookout double plays also choked off the Crackers.

The Lookouts scored their two runs early. In the second Bates reached third on Moore's wild throw and scored on Anderson's sacrifice fly. In the third, Higgins walked, stole second while Roberts was winding up, and went to third when the pitch was wild. Marshall's single scrode his catcher. Griffith then bumped to Galloway for a double killing. The Crackers scored in the fourth on Galloway's beat-out bunt, his force out by Herndon, Griffin's single and Style's double. In the fifth Moore hit and Roberts sacrificed, but Moore was doubled at third on Dykes' out, a beautiful throw by Anderson bringing the bacon.

Score Tied in Eighth.

The score was tied in the eighth. Moore was safe on Anderson's error, took second on Roberts' single and scored on Herndon's long double. This was the last run of the game. The Lookouts came near winning in the ninth. Kelly bunted safely, Bates forced him and Demoe's safety sent Bates to third. Anderson attempted the squeeze and Roberts got Bates at the plate by a fast play.

In the extra innings, Marshall was touched up much less frequently than Roberts, but the great infielding of the Crackers kept the plate from being violated. A magnificent catch by Herndon in the sixteenth, following Bates' hit and Demoe's sacrifice robbed Lacey of a double and saved the game for the Crackers. In the nineteenth, Demoe hit a high one back of third and when Bratch attempted a shoestring catch the ball carrooned off his mitts for a two-sacker. Anderson popped out. Styles had a short pass ball and Demoe made third by a daring dash, only to go out on Lacey's tap to Moore, another brilliant Cracker fielding play. Again, Roberts passed Higgins purposely, after Lacey stole second. Marshall crossed up the pitcher with a hit over second and Galloway saved the game by knocking it down. Thoeing Griffith's long hit to right and Marshall's failure to touch second.

Marshall finished the game in great style; bat out bunts by Dykes and Galloway, being the only Cracker hits after the fourteenth. After Galloway's bunt and an error had placed the Crackers in position to win in the nineteenth, Demoe killed a hit for Styles with a great stop. After the nineteenth both Rob-

Teams Fight Hard And Race Is Close In Southern Show

When Club Jumps From Cellar to Fifth Place in One Game, as Crackers Did, Pace Is Hot.

That the Crackers jumped from the cellar to fifth place, in just one game, and maintained that position with tieing the Chattanooga Lookouts in Chattanooga Friday, shows what a tight race is being run between the Southern league teams. It also shows conclusively that with a series of wins and steady, consistent playing, the locals could be in first division, pushing the leaders, which leaves the Atlanta situation with regard to the league, not so bad, after all.

There is one thing certain, and that much was intimated by Manger Frank in the interview had with him over long-distance telephone Friday night—that he is going to turn every possible stone to bring about a different combination and one that will win and place this city up with the favorites for first place.

Atlanta fans know Charley Frank well enough to know that hs is a good baseball man. There are few better in the league, and if he says a thing, he will do it, therefore there is good reason for supporters of the Atlanta combination to take heart and believe in the team, because it is going to repay the confidence before the season draws to a close.

There never has been a more popular captain of the Atlanta crowd than Sammy Mayer, and there never has been a player on the Cracker team who has fought harder or put up a better game, taking everyhing into consideration, than the center fielder.

The Southern league season for 1919 is not nearing a close, nor have the teams made a division which is going to be a lasting one. Clubs which were for a while tail-enders have been going like houses afire, and there is many a contradiction of dope when a bunch is having as successful a season as is being played in the south this year.

Will Not Defend Title.

Boston, June 13.—Francis Ouimet said today that he would not defend his title as western amateur golf champion. Inability to make connections for the tournament, which opens at St. Louis next Monday and a desire to take part in the Jaques Memorial Cup tournament at the Country club in Brookline, were the reasons, he said.

Boston Breaks Even.

Boston, June 13.—Boston got an even break from Chicago in their four-game series by winning, 6 to 1, today. In the fifth Shellenback issued four bases on balls. With two out, McInnis' single scored one run. Schang's double scored three more, and after Russell had relieved Shellenback, Scott's single scored Schang. Russell filled the bases by passing Jones and Kerr, relieved Russell, finishing the game and holding Boston hitless.

Senators Even Series.

Washington, June 13.—Johnson had the better of Morton in a pitching duel today and Washington broke even in the series with cleveland by taking the final game, 1 to 0. The single score was in the eighth, when Shanks singled, stole second and scored on a hit by Judge. Second Baseman Grover, obtained from the Philadelphia Americans, appeared for the first time in the Washington line-up.

St. Louis Beats Athletics.

Philadelphia, June 13.—St. Louis batted Seibold for a single, double and triple in the third inning today and with Gedeon's sacrifice scored four runs, enough to defeat Philadelphia. The final score was 4 to 2. The Athletics bunched two of their hits in the seventh and with a pass scored their two runs. They did not get a hit in the first five innings.

Tigers Win, 6 to 5.

New York, June 13.—Detroit won an up-hill game from New York here today by a score of 6 to 5, defeating the Yankees for the first time this season. New York obtaine da four-run lead early, but four pitchers were unable to save it. Quinn, called to Mogridge's relief in the ninth inning, sent Heilman home with the winning run on a wild pitch. Flagstead hit a double and three singles and walked in five times up.

Pirates Sweep Series.

Pittsburg, June 13.—Pittsburg made a clean sweep of the Brooklyn series by winning today's game, 3 to 0. Cooper's effective pitching and Stengel's hitting had much to do with the home team's victory. Southworth failed to get a hit after batting safely in eighteen consecutive games. The game was called at the end of the first half of the eighth inning to enable the Brooklyn team to catch a train for St. Louis.

So Long, Sam

BY GEORGE J. MORIARTY

So long, Sam, your toil is ended underneath the big league top. To your hits and catches splendid, Father Time has called a stop. From the grandstand and the bleacher, nevermore you'll hear them shout (lawyer, newsboy, doctor, preacher) "Oh, you Samuel! Hit 'er out!" So long, Sam, each rooter's grieving while you tread the beaten track. When the time came for your leaving—thousands vainly held you back. He who says your clouts were puny please refer that stupid dub to the countless pitchers looney, made so by your mighty club. So long, Sam, another star done, some recruit flits in your place; right field's not the same old garden when we look and miss your face. How did Detroit win those pennants back in 'seven, 'eight and 'nine? Ask those noisy bleacher tenants down along the right field line. What a breath of deep elation just to dream without a fear, you are on a short vacation, coming back again next year. So long, Sam, you've doffed the spangles; how the box scores miss your name while your spotless record dangles in the baseball hall of fame.

Atlanta Boys Have Starred Together For Seven Seasons

Hancock-Cody Combination Started Working Together in Grammar School Baseball and Is Still Going Strong.

Two well-known and popular young Atlantans were prominent and successful members of the University of Georgia baseball team recently, contesting in the pennant race for the southern college baseball premiership title and these two young men have been playing on the same teams or opposing each for the past seven years, something rather unusual in baseball annals.

Welborn Butts Cody, Jr., son of Atlanta's Fire Chief Cody, and Richard Hancock, son of Dr. Hancock, of the Atlanta hospital, 30 Crew street, covered respectively first and second base for the University of Georgia team and each up to the close of the season has been putting up a magnicent game both at bat and in the field. Both Hancock and Cody began their baseball careers when they were attending the Williams street public school, back in 1912, before Woodrow Wilson had come into the national presidential chair and either one of them may in time succeed the man who is now trying to make universal peach forever possible. At the Williams street school Cody and Hancock formed an invincible battery. Cody being the catcher and Hancock the pitcher.

After Cody left Williams street school he entered the Boys' High school, where he continued in the game, keeping up his excellent record as a good ball player and showing unusual versatility by working equally well behind the bat, on the infield and in the outfield. The same year Cody entered the Boys' High Hancock went to Peacock's school where his good playing was called into service by his mates. At Peacock's Hancock covered short like a veteran and was captain of his team, a team which won the prep pennant, though there were only twelve men on the team that season. The trophy awarded Hancock's team was a silver cup presented by Spalding Brothers.

Reports from Athens indicate that Cody's first base play and that of Hancock was equal to the best ever shown at the old school and far better than the majority of workers on those bags.

Charley Frank Says Friday's Long Game Breaks All Records

Cracker Pilot Was Interviewed Over Long-Distance Telephone—Mayer Back in Game Monday. More Changes Coming. Double Bill Sunday.

That Friday's game breaks all Southern league records for longevtity, Ray Roberts pitched the finest game of his career, and the duel between Roberts and Rube Marshall, of Chattanooga, was without doubt one of the finest he has ever seen, were the statements made by Manager Frank, of the Crackers, when interviewed over long distance telephone by the sporting editor of The Constitution Friday night.

Manager Frank was caught at his hotel immediately following the 3-inning tie which the Crackers played against Strang Nicklin's Lookouts, and although the Crackers did not win the extra inning battle, they had done the next best thing to winning it and the portly pilot of the Cracker crew was in an excellent humor.

"This afternoon's game breaks all records of the Southern League," said Manager Frank. "The other longest game on record was played several years ago and went only 21 innings. I can't remember the teams which played, but it was not near the game that Friday's battle was.

"Roberts pitched an excellent game, the best of his career, and his hurling was not seconded by Rube Marshall, because the Chattanooga boy did just as well as Roberts. They were both splendid, and duel was one of the best I have ever had the pleasure of witnessing in any league."

Manager Frank, in continuing the interview stated that he was confident the Crackers are going to come home and put up a good record on their home diamond. The manager intimated that there are to be still further changes in the roster of the club and changes which are going to work for the betterment of the club and its chances as a first division team.

Captain Sammy Mayer, the redoubtable little Cracker outfielder, is going to be back in the fray in Monday's game, according to Manager Frank, who further stated that the little captain had been missed very much during his injury.

Bill Adams is going to pitch in today's encounter against the Lookouts, and although it is not known who will do the hurling in Sunday's double-header, it is pretty certain that Big Boone will work in one of the games.

The line-up is going to be shifted again when the Crackers reach here Monday and Frank expects to start the home series with some of the best hunches which he has had so far in the season

Champion Willard Fears Face Scars More Than Defeat

By Johnny Eckhardt.
Fistic Referee and Writer.

There's a world of difference in men. Some men care more for their personal appearance than they do for whatever of this world's goods they may have within their grasp. Champion Jess Willard, who will risk his crown against Jack Dempsey at Toledo, July 4, is one of that kind. Willard is not worrying over his chance to beat Dempsey. He thinks it will be a clean cut easy victory; he's chock full of confidence. But Willard is worrying about his face.

It seems funny that a man in the fight game should worry about his physiognomy, but I know after a talk with the champion that he would almost prefer to lose his crown than have his facial expression changed one whit by a tell-tale bump or "shanty."

Willard realizes that Dempsey is a rough customer. Accordingly he knows that the rough and free-for-all style made famous by Dempsey might be able to put a punch through to his face. He actually broods over the possibility of a cauliflower ear, "paper" lips or eye "shanty" and silently he plans a mode of defense that will save his face, even though it may be at the cost of his laurels, via a solar plexus or stomach punch.

The champion does not openly admit his concern for his facial arrangement, but his manner and his inquiries unfold his thoughts in this respect. "I doubt very much if Dempsey can reach my face," he said after his second workout at Toledo. "I know Jack is planning great things for his punches at my stomach to accomplish, but when I prove to him that he will not be able to touch any part of my jaw, I think I will be able to thoroughly upset all of his plans and win in a walk with my trusty left," said Jess. Dempsey is distinctly a jaw puncher. Practically all of his victories were won through his ability to reach the jaw, and there is no good reason to figure he will not reach the champ's jaw.

TWENTY-FOOT RING FOR TOLEDO BOUT

Willard Strips and Shows Roll of Fat Which He Stated Would Come Off in Next Three Weeks.

Toledo, Ohio, June 13.—Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey will meet in their world's heavyweight championship contest here July Fourth in a twenty-foot ring instead of the regulation twenty-four-foot inclosure. This announcement was made by Tex Rickard, promoter of the contest, tonight after he had obtained the consent of both men. Rickard said that reducing the size of the ring will enable him to save 400 square feet at the ringside to install additional press seats, the demand for which has exceeded all expectations.

"You can make it fifteen feet square for all I care," was Dempsey's reply to Rickard's proposal.

When Willard heard of the challenger's remarks, he said:

"It doesn't make any difference to me what size you make the ring. The smaller it is the harder it will be for Dempsey to get away from me."

Willard did his boxing for the first time today attired in fighting trunks instead of the full length tights he has worn heretofore and there was a murmur of admiration from the crowd of 1,500 persons when he climbed through the ropes. When Willard started tugging at the weights, the crowd surged toward the ring to carefully inspect his waistline, which has been concealed from public eye for three years. There was a slight roll of fat just above the kidneys, but Willard explained that he can easily remove this poundage in the remaining three weeks of his training period.

It was revealed today that the champion is close to his fighting weight and that he expects to enter the ring weighing about 245 pounds, which will make him four and a half pounds lighter than when he fought Jack Johnson at Havana. Willard scaled 252 pounds after the work-out yesterday. He has reduced about 15 pounds since his arrival here two weeks ago.

Walter Monahan and Jack Hempel went three rounds each, and Bill Ketchel, the new addition to the sparring staff, went two rounds. Willard dug a left hook into Ketchel's stomach in the first round and he folded up like a jack-knife. Jess walked away to give him a minute's rest. Dempsey did not don the gloves again today, but went through his paces before a big crowd. His damaged eye may be sufficiently healed to permit boxing Sunday.

PARROTT DEFEATED BY ALBANY TEAM IN HOT CONTEST

By William Pryse.

Albany, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—Albany defeated Parrott, in Parrott, this afternoon, 2 to 1, being the first game Parrott has played this season. Duncan, of Camp Benning, pitched for Parrott, and Slappery for Albany, the latter having the better of a splendid pitchers' battle.

Slappery gave up two hits, and was the master of the game all the way. Wiggings' work at short for Albany featured. The game was witnessed by a large crowd from Parrott, Dawson and other nearby towns.

LESSON NO. 18.

BUNTS TOWARD THIRD.

Handling bunts has become the most important part of the work of the third baseman. The requisites for successful handling of bunts and slow rollers are watchfulness, alertness and agility.

The third baseman, more than any man on a team, is in position to catch signals and to judge by mere observation of batters what the plan of attack is to be. Many times this may be judged by the score and the situation but in modern baseball outguessing the foe is the greatest part of generalship.

The position of the third baseman gives him advantage in watching the position of batters. He must, of course, know his men and their ability to bunt. Against a speedy man he must move forward and be prepared to leap toward the plate to field the bunt. He must watch the position of the batter's hands, and the instant the batter starts to "choke" his bat and shorten his grip on it, he shold advance still further.

Nerve is essential, because the batter who is engaged with him in the guessing match, has every chance to change tactics and rap the ball sharply straight at the baseman who, nine times out of ten cannot field it if rushing forward at top speed. Being on top of the ball is the secret of successful handling of bunts. Bunted balls are harder to handle than any other kind excepting a "topped" spit ball. The ball which is bunted takes an odd twisting English which reverses when the ball hits the dirt.

Quick judgment always is necessary. Perhaps once a game on an average during a season the third baseman is called upon to decide whether a ball will roll foul or remain on fair ground. A dozen times or more a season every third baseman guesses wrong. The queer rotation of a bunted ball may change its course two or three times in rolling ten yards. The baseman who is on top of the ball from the first must exercise judgment as to whether to try to throw out the runner or let the ball go in hopes that it will roll foul. He should grab the ball the instant he can reach it and snap it underhand to first, but if caught asleep he must be in position to seize the ball the instant it wabbles onto foul territory.

After a batter has made two vain efforts to bunt the third baseman ordinarily is safe in retiring to his natural fielding position for few batters have the nerve to make a third effort to bunt. It is better, however, to watch batters, especially weak hitting pitchers, for the manager may decide that a third effort to sacrifice is less costly than a probably double play and force the batter to bunt again.

Daniels Gets Homer.

Mobile, June 13.—Daniel's home run with Fielder on base in the fifth gave New Orleans enough runs to beat Mobile in the first game of the series this afternoon, but bunched hitting scored three more in the ninth for the visitors, who won by a score of 5 to 1. Score:

Barons Beat Vols.

Nashville, Tenn, June 13.—Burke's muff of Bernsen's long fly in the fifth inning followed by Ellis' sacrifice and a single by Hairston gave the Barons the only run of the game today and Birmingham took the second game of the series. Jackson, pitching his first game of league ball, pitched sensationally, and allowed the Barons only 4 hits. Nashville twice had the bases loaded, but the splendid work of the infield kept them from scoring.

The discharged soldier had tramped all day long looking for a job, always receiving the same answer: "Sorry, my boy, but we can't use you." He limped wearily over to a bench and sat down and there in front of him were screaming posters with a "Welcome to Our Returned Heroes" staring him in the face. "It's all wrong, Woodrow, its all wrong," he murmured as he remembered the speech of the politician and city mayor who had greeted his battalion upon its return from France.

SPORTOGRAPHY

By Gravy.

Hank Gowdy has not yet recovered his batting eye, which seems to have been dimmed by eighteen months' service overseas with the Rainbow division.

A little over a month ago, while the Washington Senators were in New York for a series with the Yankees at the Polo grounds, Outfielder Clyde Milan left the team and underwent an operation for appendicitis. Three weeks later, when the Yankees finished up a series with the Senators on the home grounds of the latter team, Milan appeared on the coaching line in uniform. He had left the hospital after a two-weeks' rest following his operation, and during the first four games of the Yankee series at Washington he sat on the bench in street attire. He will be ready to take his place in the regular line-up within a few days. Milan has almost certainly broken a record for speedy recovery from the dread malady.

This Speaker and Chick Gandil have been in the game long enough to know that unbecoming conduct on the part of players will not be tolerated, and richly deserved their recent suspension by President Ban Johnson, of the American league. Speaker and Gandil engaged in a rough and tumble fight on the diamond in Chicago and were suspended indefinitely pending an investigation. Gandil, convinced that Speaker had deliberately attempted to spike him at first base in the course of a recent game between the White Sox and the Indians, took a punch at the Cleveland star, who retaliated in kind. The players were mixing matters at a lively clip when they were dragged apart by their teammates and the umpires.

73 YEARS SINCE FIRST REAL BASEBALL CLASH.

Seventy-three years ago today the first regular baseball game was played in Hoboken, N. J. The game had been played before by impromptu clubs on vacant lots, but it was on June 14, 1846, that two regular and organized teams with names clashed on the diamond. The contesting clubs were the New York Knickerbockers, the pioneer outfit of baseball, and the New Yorks, a rival bunch formed a little later than the "Knicks." Having no grounds of their own, the players crossed the river to Jersey and "crossed bats" on what was then known as the Elysian fields. The championship of New York was involved, and, while the affair didn't arouse much enthusiasm, quite a sprinkling of fans gathered about the fields.

Under the rules drafted by Alexander G. Cartwright and adopted by the Knickerbockers late in 1845, and accepted by the New Yorks in this historic encounter, a game was "to consist of twenty-one counts or aces, but at the conclusion an equal number of hands must be played." In modern baseball language, this meant that victory perched on the banner of the club which first scored twenty-one runs.

Although the newspapers paid no attention to this historic conflict, the names of the players have been preserved. Monakers of Hibernian origin didn't figure a sluminously as in latter days, although one Murphy played an important part in winning the contest for the New Yorks. The New Yorks won the game in four innings by a score of 21 to 1. The victorious nine consisted of Ransom, Davis, Case, Murphy, Thompson, Trenchard, Lalor, Winslow, and Johnson. The defeated Knickerbockers' roll of players was Adams, Avery, Turney, Birney, Tucker, Paulding, Tryon, and two brothers named Anthony.

Nearly five years passed before another regular ball game was played. The Knickers were reorganized in 1851 and met another New York club called the Washingtons, afterward called the Gothams. The first game on Manhattan island was played on the Red House grounds of the latter club, located at what is now the corner of Second avenue and One Hundred and Sixth street.

AMERICUS IS WORKING TO KEEP U. S. OFFICER

Americus, Ga., June 13.—(Special.) Americus residents are engaged in an effort to have Dr. B. F. Bond, federal zone health officer, retained in office here after July 1, when the appointment under which he is now working expires. Dr. Bond, who is also county health officer, has executed his duties most efficiently during his stay in Americus and the Americus and Sumter County Chamber of Commerce is backing the effort to have him retained. Congressman Charles R. Crisp telegraphed yesterday from Washington saying he hoped congress would provide funds for maintenance of public health service before July 1 and that he would urge upon the surgeon general that Dr. Bond be retained in office here.

CINCINNATI REDS MOURN LOSSES NOW WHICH HELPS THEM

Has Manager Pat Moran succeeded in teaching the players of the Cincinnati team to mourn the loss of a ball game? If he has, is the success of the Redlegs this season due to that teaching? This is the line of questioning that is being applied to the phenomenal play of the Cincinnati bunch this season.

Garry Herrmann's club has always been good on the getaway. They have always looked like championship contenders in May, but they have always slid back to the dub class early in June—never to rise out of the second division. But under the direction of Pat Moran the Reds are up there in the thick of the battle and they are holding their own in remarkable style.

Chief Bender, former star Athletic hurled, supplies the answer. He says Moran played ball himself in the days when players were taught to truly mourn the loss of a contest. He declares the Cincinnati team needed just this sort of teaching, because in past years there has always been a feeling that the Reds had to slide out of the race early in June.

"Moran is one of the brainiest leaders baseball ever had," said the Indian, "but he has never been given the credit he deserved because Pat would not seek publicity. Moran's the best man Garry Herrmann could possibly have landed for Pat has an ideal way of routing the indifference with which the Reds seemed to have been afflicted. Pat will keep the players on their toes, but he will do it without offending them. Herzog and Tinker made the mistake of fighting their charges, and this resulted in dissension and the fans and the club owners were the losers."

Bender declares the Cincinnati team is no better today than it ever was, as far as playing material is concerned, but it is being handled to better advantage. "They never needed material as much as they needed some person to handle what they had. Look out for the Reds, that's my tip," said Bender.

EXCESSIVE RAINS DECREASE CROPS OF EARLY PEACHES

Fort Valley, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—Although heavy rains have decreased the crops of the early varieties of peaches, a splendid crop of Georgia Belles and a satisfactory crop of Elbertas are expected.

This section will soon be in the midst of the peach season and every train is bringing in numbers of workers. The Belles will begin to move in ten days or two weeks and every preparation is being made for the great rush of the season.

More than 1,200 cars of early fruit have been shipped and orchardists believe that fully 500 cars of Carmens will be sent out of the state.

The grading machines which have been installed by many of the growers are proving a great help in the preparation of the fruit for shipment.

Many Bequests Made To Catholic Church By Mrs. Anna Sheehan

Macon, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—Several bequests to Catholic institions in Macon and other parts of the state are made in the will of Mrs. Anna Dunn Sheehan, who died at Mount Sales academy last Saturday. The bequests include $1,000 to St. Joseph's Catholic church; $1,000 to Miss Minnie Rice; $500 to the Roman Catholic seminary for boys at Sharon, Ga.; $500 to St. Joseph Roman Catholic orphanage at Washington, Ga.; $500 to St. Stanislaus college, Macon, to be used for the education of young men for the priesthood; $200 to be applied to the foundership fund for Thad E. Sheehan, son, and D. G. Sheehan, husband, of the deceased; $250 sor the Altar Society of St. Joseph's church. After all bequests and legacies have been paid the residue of the estate is to be divided equally between Miss Rice, St. Joseph's church, Catholic orphanage, Catholic Boys' seminary and St. Stanislaus college.

FLAG DAY CLOSES BOY SCOUT DRIVE

A double celebration will be held in Georgia, Saturday, June 18, to commemorate Flag day. In addition to the exercises commemorating the birth of our flag, flag day this year will mark the closing of the campaign for the Boy Scouts.

The public schools throughout Georgia will have special exercises of a combination nature, and in addition to explaining what our flag stands for, the teachers will discuss the merits of the Boy Scout organization, and urge the pupils to enlist the services of their fathers and mothers to secure associate members to the greatest of all boy movements.

As much work will have to be done on the final day of the campaign as during the entire week, if Georgia is to go over the top in this first big boy campaign.

Ely R. Callaway, chairman of the campaign in Georgia, makes a final appeal to have the fathers and mothers do everything in their power to secure at least ten thousand associate memberships in this state before midnight of Saturday night.

"The Boy Scout movement is not a drive for funds," said Mr. Callaway. "It is a campaign for associate membership, and I trust that the fathers and mothers of future America will not lay down in this drive and discourage their boys for the work that they have mapped out in this organization. They ask every co-operation and that the fathers and mothers support them. A fee of one dollar is charged to become an associate member and this one dollar will be well invested by becoming an associate member of the Boy Scouts."

William G. McAdoo, formerly secretary of the treasury, who is head of the national Boy Scout movement, has wired Mr. Callaway asking him to spur on his workers, so that Georgia may not fail in the boy movement.

The campaign in Georgia has lagged on account of the lack of workers and Mr. Callaway expects a large number of workers to take the streets from early Saturday morning until midnight.

RUSH OF CHAUFFEURS TO SECURE LICENSES

The secretary of State's office on Friday looked like the last day for paying the income fax, what with all the chauffeurs who were making application for their license which must be obtained annually.

A few days ago Charles Cook, who has charge of all automobile licenses, announced that the registration lists were 1,600 behind last year in the number of chauffeurs entered. He notified the county sheriffs to keep a lookout for chauffeurs who were minus their badge, and he instructed J. W. Beauchamp, one of the inspectors, to get to work in Fulton county. Hence the rush of taxi drivers to the office window.

According to Mr. Cook, the complete execution of the law requiring chauffeurs to have licenses will do much toward abolishing speeding, since every chauffeur must be vouched for by three owners of automobiles, who sign their names on his application, on which he has to answer the question of whether or not he has been arrested for violation of the automobile laws. Some have not been able to secure their badges, because they could not get the necessary references.

SIX MACON SLEUTHS APPLYING FOR BAIL

Macon, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—Arguments on the application for bail of the six Macon city detectives held in the Bibb county jail, three for murder and three as accessory before the fact to murder, were completed this evening and Judge H. A. Mathews, in the Bibb superior court, announced he would make known his decision tomorrow. The detectives have been in jail several weeks, following their indictment by the grand jury for the killing of Philip Lamar and J. B. Kimbrell, two young men, who are alleged to have attempted to hold up Ralph Bobo in his store in South Macon. It is the contention of the state that the whole affair was a "frame up" and the two men were killed without justification.

Bombshells Exploded.

Several bombshells were exploded in the camp of the detectives during the hearing. Probably the worst of these was the evidence given by Emmett Finney, the taxicab driver, who carried Lamar and Kimbrell to Bobo's store on the night of the attempted hold-up and the killing of Lamar and the fatal wounding of Kimbrell. Finney had refused to make a statement since the shooting, but it was generally believed his testimony would favor the detectives. This, however, did not prove to be the case.

Finney testified the detectives knew two weeks before the hold-up the names of the two men and he denied he had ever mentioned to the detectives that the boys who were to attempt the hold-up were the ones who had assaulted and robbed Dr. W. O. Stevens and Dr. S. B. Palmer. Finney also declared Chief McLendon loaned him the detectives' car in which to take Lamar and Kimbrell to the scene of the attempted robbery.

Finney tesctified he had been cautioned by Chief McLendon not to ever mention the chief's name or that he had let him have the car. Finney swore that Detectives McLendon, Evans, Allen and Bunch saw him crank up the car and drive away in it, and that they followed him in another car to Bobo's store.

Testifies Against Sleuths.

Ralph Bobo, also proved a strong witness against the detectives and denied testimony which had been attributed to him at the coroner's inquest, especially that part which had him saying that "Kimbrell and Lamar fired at the detectives with a pistol." Bobo declared he did not know who shot. He admitted Lamar was standing only two feet from him and had him covered with his pistol and that it would have been almost impossible for the pistol to have been discharged without the bullet striking him.

J. H. Roberts, who lives near the Bobo store testified he heard shots fired, and all of them appeared to be from the discharge of shot guns. He said he did not hear any pistol shots.

The detectives sought to show that the two alleged hold-up men fired on them first, and that they shot them in self-defense. An affidavit by Officer A. J. Allen was to the effect that the first two shots fired were pistol shots, and that the gun of Kimbrell, which he said he examined, smelled of gun powder. The detectives themselves claim they were fired on first. Detectives Swift, Stripling, Evans and Stevens disavowed any knowledge of the alleged frame-up against Lamar and Kimbrel, and claimed they were only acting under orders. They named Chief McLendon and Detective Bunch as the "fixers."

WORK AT BENNING TO BE CONTINUED, SAYS COMMANDER

Columbus, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—Work on Fort Benning will not be stopped or interfered with in the least, is the opinion of General Farnsworth, the commanding officer, notwithstanding the efforts of republicans in congress to hamper the project. General Farnsworth thinks that Fort Benning will not be affected unless the government abandons its military training project throughout the country, which he deems improbable.

Amusement has been created locally by the republican claim that the government is buying 500,000 acres in this vicinity. As a matter of fact, the reservation will consist of 98,000 acres, most of which the government has already bought and paid for. The fort is well under construction, with several thousand laborers busily engaged. Hundreds of buildings have been erected, and waterworks, sewerage and street work is well under way. Several hundred additional laborers have just arrived from New Orleans to work at Fort Benning.

Nearly Electrocuted.

Fitzgerald, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—Robert Maffit, the thirteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Maffit, narrowly escaped being electcuted, when he grasped an electric wire, while standing on a cable of the Bowen Telephone company, in the rear of his resident. The child hung until the current could be cut off at the power house. His wounds, though painful, are not thought to be fatal.

COTTON NEAR FAILURE IN MIDDLE GEORGIA

Macon, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—Failure is threatening the cotton crop in Middle Georgia, according to W. G. Middlebrooks, Bibb county farm demonstrator, who has investigated conditions resulting from the continuous rains of the last few weeks.

According to Mr. Middlebrooks many farmers in this part of the state are plowing up their cotton and planting other crops. The grass has become so thick in some sections of middle Georgia it is almost impossible to weed it out and the farmers are finding it less expensive to plow up the fields. There has not been as much rain in Bibb county as in Houston and some of the other adjoining counties during the last few weeks. In Houston it has rained every day for two weeks, and much concern is being felt there for the peaches. With prospects never better for a bumper peach crop three weeks ago, the heavy rains set in and the crop has received a setback which it can hardly recover from entirely. Hot, dry weather, is what is needed now to mature the peaches and unless it comes pretty soon peach growers are going to sustain a serious loss.

Five years of experimenting in a Wisconsin cutlery manufacturing plant have produced satisfactory grindstones made of concrete composed of cement and quartz.

Don't Experiment with Catarrh; It Often Leads to Serious Trouble

You Will Never Be Cured by Local Treatment With Sprays

Catarrh is a condition of the blood and can not be cured by local applications of sprays and douches; this has been proven by the thousands who have vainly resorted to this method of treatment.

Catarrh should not be neglected or experimented with. The wrong treatment is valuable time lost, during which the disease is getting a firmer hold upon its victim, and making it more difficult for even the proper treatment to accomplish results.

Though Catarrh makes its first appearance in the nostrils, throat and air passages, the disease becomes more and more aggravated and finally reaches down into the lungs, and everyone recognizes the alarming condition that results when the lungs are affected. Thus Catarrh may be the forerunner of that most dreaded and hopeless of all diseases, consumption.

No local treatment affords permanent relief. Experience has taught that S. S. S. is the one remedy which attacks the disease at its source, the blood, and produces satisfactory results in even the worst cases. Catarrh sufferers are urged to give S. S. S. a thorough trial. It is sold by all druggists. You are invited to write to the Medical Department for expert advice as to how to treat your own case. New York, June 13.—The cotton market was very irregular today. October contracts sold up to 31.35 during the early trading, broke to 30.50 and closed at 30.85, with the general list closing steady, net 9 points lower to 12 points higher.

The market opened at a decline of 11 points to an advance of 2 points. There was some scattered selling on the more favorable appearance of the weather map, but the offerings were soon absorbed with the market becoming firm on covering and trade buying. July sold up to 31.80 and December to 31.00, or 37 to 45 points net higher, but above 31.25 for October offerings showed a tendency to increase and as soon as early buyers had been supplied the market weakened under realizing or liquidation.

A private report making the mid-month condition 71.7 and indicating a falling off of 3.9 points from the end-May figures seemed rather a disappointment to people who had bought on more bullish reports published earlier in the week.

This, with the prospect of good weather over the week-end and nervousness over political conditions probably accounted for selling on the decline during the middle of the day which extended to 31.05 for July and 30.22 for December, or about 38 to 40 points net lower. There was renewed trade buying around 30.50 for October and closing prices showed rallies of from 30 to 40 points from the lowest.

There was continued talk of a probable improvement in export demand as soon as the peace treaty is signed and some attention was attracted by reports that the first cotton steamer had arrived at Hamburg. General business was not active, however, and local brokers said there was more disposition to await the outcome of the peace negotiations and further news regarding new crop prospects.

Spot cotton quiet; middling 32.85.

FAIRLY GOOD TONE IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, June 13.—Unfavorable weather conditions in the belt and alarming boll weevil accounts gave the market for cotton a fairly good tone today, so that after fluctuating both above and below the level of yesterday's close, final prices showed net gains of 4 to 14 points. It was a fairly active session with considerable week-end realizing from the long side and at times fairly free offerings of short cotton.

In the early trading prices were 29 to 58 points higher as the result of the rains in the eastern and central portions of the belt. Alabama and Texas sent in accounts of the worst boll weevil visitations in years. Realizing commenced and the market sagged. Bearish traders sold on the forecast of dry weather for the western belt and prices were carried off until they were 31 to 41 points under the close of yesterday. Late in the day the large export movement encouraged new buying and a recovery came about.

For the week exports from all United States ports amounted to 138,530 bales, against only 28,602 during the same week last year. Larger shipments were accompanied by reports of easier ocean freights and more tonnage available.

Spot cotton steady and unchanged. Sales on the spot, 1,750 bales; to arrive, 1,325. Low middling, 27.13; middling, 31.88; good middling, 32.88. Receipts, 4,215; stock, 411,602.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, June 13.—(Special.)—Prices advanced about 50 points immediately after the opening on recovering of contracts and local trade demand. Offerings, however, became heavy with the result that price reacted to last night's closing. Spot houses continue to sell July against purchases of new crop months. Private weather advices are of a bullish tenor, especially so in the eastern part of the belt, where rains have made for grassy fields. We anticipate rapid changes in both directions and on any further advance from the present level we look for an increase of southern hedge selling.

J. W. JAY & CO.

New York, June 13.—(Special.)—An important private condition report issued today covering the period to June 8 showed 71.7 against 86 per cent last year. This condition is significant, as June is the month for development of the cotton plant. Almost invariably the government's report covering June has shown improvement. The crop must have bood weather or prospects will become alarming. The weakness in cotton prices at one time today was in sympathy with reactions in the stock market. The average of sentiment is bullish.

ORVIS BROTHERS & CO.

New York, June 13.—(Special.)—Liverpool was closed today, continuing their Whitsuntide holiday. Our market opened quite at about last night's closing prices, then advanced on some local and Wall street buying on the idea that further showers might occur. The south turned to free sellers, which caused a decline catching stop loss orders. Private advices from the south indicate that in many sections where the grass had been very bad hard work on the part of the planters had helped to eradicate this situation, so that generally speaking the crop appears to be improving steadily except in Arkansas, where much work needs to be done. We expect to have a quieter and somewhat lower market over Sunday unless bad weather should surdenly develop.

$25,000,000

SWEDISH GOVERNMENT

Twenty Year Six Per Cent Gold Bonds

Dated June 15, 1919. Due June 15, 1939.

Interest Payable June 15 and December 15.

Coupon Bonds in Denomination of $1,000, Registerable as to Principal Only.

Principal and interest payable in United States gold coin at the National City Bank of New York. Principal and interest exempt from present or future Swedish government, municipal or other taxes or duties levied by or within the Kingdom of Sweden. Redeemable, as a whole, on June 15, 1929, or on any interest date thereafter at 102 and interest, on 60 days' notice.

Security— These bonds will be a direct obligation of the Swedish government, whose faith and credit are pledged for the prompt payment of principal and interest.

Wealth— The wealth of Sweden, embracing private and public property, was officially estimated in 1917 at $4,690,000,000, based on pre-war prices. Total national debt, funded and unfunded, was $441,020,800, December 21, 1918. All of the funded debt has been issued for revenue-producing properties such as state-owned railroads, telegraphs, telephones, hydro-electric plants, canals, loans to aid agriculture and loans to privately-owned railroads. Per capita debt at the end of 1918 was $76.59, compared with $210 for the United States.

Financial Position— Sweden has prospered during the war. Total resources of the private commercial banks increased 148 per cent in the six years ending March 31, 1919. Bank clearings in 1918 were 5.3 times those of 1914. Foreign trade increased from $338,233,268 in 1910 to $591,234,800 in 1918 or 75 per cent. The total visible favorable trade balance from 1914 to 1918, inclusive, was $462,301,778.

Revenues and Expenditures— The revenues and expenditures of the government showed a surplus of $12,009,884 in 1913, $7,639,876 in 1914, $628,460 in 1915 and $24,565,684 in 1916. Actual expenditures for 1917 and 1918 have not been recorded, but the revenues exceeded budget estimates by $70,039,000 in 1917 and by $20,257,000 in 1918. Revenues are derived from taxation and state properties. State properties earned an average surplus of between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 annually up to 1918, but showed a deficit of $1,570,000 for 1918, owing to increased operating costs of the railroads.

Credit— Sweden enjoys very high credit. In normal times its external loans bore a low rate of interest, from 3 per cent to 4½ per cent, and sold on the London and Paris stock exchanges to yield from 3.23 per cent to 4.28 per cent. The average yield of four representative Swedish government bonds on the London exchange on May 19, 1919, was 5.31 per cent.

Interest Requirements— The national budget for the fiscal year ending December 31, 1919, provides $18,481,823 for service of the national debt, of which $16,997,587 will be required for interest and $1,484,236 for amortization. The total debt service will require but 11.1 per cent of the total revenues.

Purpose of Loan— The entire proceeds of these bonds are to be used for the purchase of commodities in the United States.

We offer these bonds for subscription if, as and when issued and received by us, subject to allotment and to the approval of the counsel,

at 99 1-2 and interest

Pending the preparation of definitive bonds, interim receipts exchangeable for definitive bonds will be issued against confirmed sales.

Friday the 13th Bad Day for Paper Profits

BY R. L. BARNUM.

(The Constitution-Philadelphia Public Ledger Service. Copyright, 1919.)

New York, June 13.—Friday, the 13th, was a bad day for traders with paper profits who have been holding on despite the higher rates for call money. Today prices went lower than the low prices established in the sharp decline of last Tuesday. From the viewpoint of the professional trader, it is a bad or good sign when prices break through the "point of resistance." For example, if the market has been advancing and say Steel common has been moving between 107 and 110 and an advance starts which carries the price higher than 110, the accepted theory is that the advance will continue. On the other hand, if the market has had a tendency to react and prices start to decline and Steel goes below 107, the professional trader takes the short side of the market on the theory that there has been a break through the "point of resistance" and hence the decline will continue.

Today's Low Showing.

| Stock— | High For 1919. | Tuesday's Low. | Today's Low. |
|---|---|---|---|
| C. & O., May 17 | 68 | 66½ | 64⅜ |
| New York Central, June 4 | 83¾ | 80¾ | 79¼ |
| Southern Pacific, June 2 | 115 | 108⅝ | 105½ |
| Union Pacific, May 27 | 138½ | 132½ | 132¼ |
| Reading, June 6 | 95⅝ | 89⅛ | 87 |
| Studebaker, June 9 | 124¾ | 106 | 101 |
| General Motors, June 6 | 243 | 220 | 211½ |
| Baldwin, June 3 | 107¾ | 98½ | 98¾ |
| American Woolen, June 3 | 130 | 113 | 110⅝ |
| Crucible, June 2 | 97½ | 91 | 84 |
| U. S. Rubber, June 7 | 120⅝ | 112¾ | 114 |
| U. S. Steel, June 6 | 111⅞ | 107½ | 105¼ |

Of the twelve stocks in the foregoing table selected at random, none made a new high record this week, and all sold lower today than in last Tuesday's break.

In connection with the high rates now being charged for call money there was much discussion today of the second installment of the federal income tax June 15. As that day falls on Sunday payments can be made on Monday. It was estimated that something like $1,000,000,000 would be paid in on this account and as there is not much of a money market on Saturday the bulk of this financing will be arranged today.

Wall Street Gossip.

Today's detailed statement of railway earnings for the month of April published by the interstate commerce commission at Washington shows an increase in gross earnings of 21 per cent compared with April, 1917, under private ownership. That means that the railroads are carrying less business than in 1917, because since then freight and passenger rates have been larger than 21 per cent. But while gross earnings show an increase of 21 per cent, operating expenses show an increase of 52 per cent for April this year, the percentage of gross earnings required to pay operating expenses was 90, whereas the operating ratio for April of 1917 was only 70 per cent. For the first four months of this year operating ratio was 90 per cent against 73 per cent for the same period of 1917 under private ownership. The sooner there is a return to private ownership the better for all parties concerned.

Everybody in Wall street is on the tiptoe to get the first copy of the monthly report of the federal reserve board at Washington. It is due around the middle of the month. Much of the declined oil shares today was attributed to the report circulated in the street because of the bringing in of many new wells recently, the supply is so great that the crude is a drug on the market. Discussing today's stock market reaction one broker expressed the following opinion:

"The very moderate reactionary movement in the market has done some good. It has cured a reckless speculation. It has finally convinced the public that had become unbalanced that the market can really move down as well as us. The people as a mass are thinking more soberly than they were a few weeks ago."

Oiling of Machine.

So skillfully has the financial machine been oiled that so far not a creak has yet been audible. As a result of the very heavy income payments there may be some temporary strain apparent at the beginning of the week, especially as the banks are increasingly loathe to discount their treasury bills at the federal reserve, in view of the inquiry by the reserve board as to the use made of the proceeds of such rediscounts. Most of Monday's payment has already been anticipated in the $729,897,000 of tax certificates sold by the government which are eligible for tax payments.

CORN PRICES SOAR TO TOPMOST LEVEL

Reactions Follow, But the Market Closes Strong. Active Trading Caused by Nervousness Over the Crop Outlook.

Chicago, June 13.—Nervousness over the crop outlook led to active trading in corn today and prices touched the topmost level yet this season. Reactions followed, but the market closed strong, ½c to 1⅜c net higher, with July $1.72⅜ to $1.72½, and September $1.65¾ to $1.66. Oats gained ⅛c to ½c. Provisions finished 12c to 77c up.

Nothwithstanding that weather conditions were better, misgivings in regard to the progress of the new crop seemed to have attained greater force. The facts that receipts were diminishing drew attention more sharply than ever to the reduced acreage, the delayed start and the smallness of the carry-over.

Besides, there was a further advance in the hog market and this was deemed especially significant by many, although seeding of corn at present is not extensive. After the market had risen to about 8 cents above the low point of several days ago, profit-taking sales took on large proportions and there were reports that rural offerings had increased. Gains were thus temporarily wiped out. Toward the last, however, upturns were again becoming rapid.

Oats bulged with corn.

New record-breaking high prices were touched by lard. Pork and ribs strengthened, too, all stimulated by jumps in hog values and in grain.

NERVOUSNESS MARKED WEEK'S COTTON TRADE

New York, June 13.—The cotton market has been nervous and irregular during the past week, with local brokers inclined to attribute much of the business to a further reduction in outstanding accounts. Uncertainty regarding the future progress of the crop, with unsettled outside conditions, is supposed to have been responsible for the tendency to even up commitments, possibly with a view to waiting the out come of the peace negotiations and a more convincing line on the probable showing of the end-June crop report.

During the earlier part of the week it was rumored that returns to one of the prominent southern authorities indicated a mid-month condition of 69, or a falling off of over 6½ points from the end-May figures. There was also nervousness over reports of continued showers in some parts of the belt, which helped the rally from 27,53, the low point of last Saturday, to 31.30 for October contracts on Tuesday. Increased offerings were encountered at this level, however, owing to the favorable weekly report of the weather bureau, and improving conditions in the belt, and fluctuations later in the week were extremely irregular.

Trade buying for both foreign and domestic account was reported on the decline, but did not seem to be as much in evidence as it was last month, although advices from the goods trade have indicated an active demand at advancing prices. Reports that the first cotton steamer had reached Hamburg attracted considerable interest today, and optimistic views of export prospects have been encouraged by reports of an easier ocean freight situation and further allocations of tonnage by the shipping board.

Anumber of foreign buying commissiones are said to be in this country preparing to operate as soon as the peace treaty is signed to the extent that credits can be obtained. It is reported that textile interests at Chemnitz have arraged credits with neutral financial interests to purchase 10,000 bales of cotton and that the mills at Lodz, Poland, are comparatively undamaged and capable of operation as soon as raw materials are available. Later in the week another private report made the conditions 71.7, compared with 75,6, the end-May figures.

Stocks Unloaded Freely As Money Rates Advance

PREMIUMS TO PRESERVE NATURAL WHEAT FLOW

New York, June 13.—To preserve a natural flow of wheat from the farm, periodical premiums covering storage charges will be added to the basic price at various guarantee markets, according to an announcement made tonight by Julius H. Barnes, United States wheat director.

These premiums will not be introduced during July, when basic prices prevailing for the last year will remain in effect. For each succeeding month, however, premiums will be announced thirty days in advance.

Mr. Barnes also announced railroad rates from inter-mountain and Pacific coast territory to Galveston and New York soon will be reduced to 56 cents per hundred, the equivalent of 33.6 cents per bushel. This reduction, Mr. Barnes explained, is intended as a relief to the producers in those sections as the grain corporation cannot pursue its practice of making effective a $2 blanket minimum price for all wheat at inter-mountain points, but will be obliged to confine itself to paying $2 at Pocatello, Great Falls and Salt Lake City, leaving the rest of the western territory to base on the commercial market most redily reached by it.

To assure a large flow of wheat to the gulf ports, Mr. Barnes said he had decided to seek an executive order increasing the number one base price at Galveston and New Orleans from $2.28 to $2.30 per bushel. He added he expected this change would become effective July 1.

Coffee.

New York, June 13.—Yesterday's big advance was followed by rather nervous and irregular fluctuations in the market for coffee futures today. This was due to realizing by old longs, but reports from Brazil showed continued firmness in the primary markets and reactions here were followed by rallies on continued covering and trade buying. The opening was unchanged to 7 points lower and after selling up to 19.45 December broke to 19.30, but rallied again in the later trading with the close showing a net advance of 5 to 15 points. July sold as high as 20.15, while September and December also made new high records during the day. Closing bids: July, 20.10; September, 19.95; October, 19.78; December, 19.45; January, 19.35; March, 19.20; May, 19.03.

Comparatively few firm offers were received from Brazil and those reported were higher, including Santos fours at 25.05, American credits.

Early Declines Are Extended When Interest on Collateral Rises to 12 Per Cent—New High Record for Year.

New York, June 13.—This was a day of severe liquidation on the stock exchange, with trading influenced by the money situation. Declines registered early in the session were extended when in the final hour the interest rates on both mixed and industrial collateral rose to 12 per cent, a new high record for the year. This advance, illustrative of restriction of funds for stock market purposes, reflected the necessity which has arisen for making money supplies available in other directions, notably for the payment of the federal income tax installments due tomorrow, and for meeting the gold export needs.

The situation was not one to encourage pool interests to support the special stocks which were foremost on the rise of last week.

Shares of virtually all groups were unloaded freely under the activities of the bear faction, the occasional short covering not being sufficiently important to check the decline except during momentary periods.

Prices for the motor shares dropped 1 to 12 points, oils 1 to 8, shippings 2 to 5½ and rails 1 to 2½. United States Steel common declined 2⅝ to 105¼, and other steels from 2 to 3 points.

Bonds also yielded today, but Victory 3¾'s exceptionally advanced to a new high level of 100.48. Total sales, par value, aggregated $10,650,000.

Dry Goods.

New York, June 13.—Cotton goods today held steady with offers of yarn business full. Raw silk continued to advance and reached nearly a basis of $10 a pound for the better grades. Wool markets were firm. Jobbers reported a good trade in seasonable fabrics.

Sugar.

New York, June 13.—There was no change in raw sugar prices, which are quoted at 7.28 for centrifugal to the refiner. There were no sales reported by the board.

In refined the only difficulty seems to be in placing orders, as there appears to be a good demand. Refiners are so far behind on delivery that most of them are out of the market and not accepting new business. Prices are unchanged at 9 cents for fin egranulated.

COMMISSION RATES WILL BE ADVANCED

New York, June 13.—Commission rates on the New York cotton exchange will be advanced next Monday an average of about $5 per contract over the old rate, as a result of a ballot held today. The new rates will be on a sliding scale based upon the price of cotton.

Talk of Large Banks Combining In Chicago Field

One Combination Already Has Deposits of $390,000,000 — Growth of the City as Financial Center Shown.

By C. B. Evans.

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service, Copyright, 1919)

Chicago, June 12.—The many reports of bank consolidations in Chicago, most of which have some basis in fact are evidence of a strong tendency toward large units here as has been the case in other parts of the United States. There is ground for the statement that the now Consolidating Merchants' Loan and Trust company and Illinois Trust and Savings bank are trying to take over the Corn Exchange National and also for the report that the Continental and Commercial wants to do the same thing. The Union Trust company was recently sought by the Merchants' Loan and Illinois Trust combination by the union, a staunch institution with a little short of $40,000,000 deposits, has refused to go in and there is no present indication that it will change its mind.

A combination of the Merchants' Loan, Illinois Trust and Corn Exchange would mass in one combination capital, surplus and undivided profits of $31,300,000, but the Continental interests, including the National bank and the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings bank, already aggregate in these two items $47,800,000. The deposits of the Merchants' Loan and Illinois Trust, plus those of the Corn Exchange National, would be well above $300,000,000, but the Continental combination already has $390,000,000.

To Broaden Business.

At a casual glance it would seem perhaps that an ambition to be the "biggest thing" as a bank unit is the dominating motive, but this is not altogether correct. In order to make the business as broad as possible, the Merchants and the Illinois, both state banks, naturally desire the commercial element that naturally belongs to a national institution. It has been found more and more necessary for banks in this city to diversify their business. One exclusive line in a way segregates an institution from the grand swim. Hence, it is that state banks established commercial lines and national banks have set up savings departments, while all find it necessary to have a bond department. The Continental is accounted distinctively an Armour institution and both that and the Corn Exchange have larger relations with the movement of agricultural products than others. Some of the larger banks of this city are the products of not merely their natural growth, but of absorption of other institutions. This is notably true of the First National, Continental and Corn Exchange, but it is not true of the Merchants' Loan or the Illinois Trust.

The tendency to consolidate is an expression of the growth of this city as a financial center, which is distinctive as compared with its gain industrially. The concentration of capital and ability in these big units works to the exclusion of persons desiring to start new banks. This, however, refers to the downtown district, particularly in the residence districts and the suburbs, the increase in the number of banks in the past few years has been great and nearly all appear to be doing well.

Huge Profits Made.

One is impressed all the way along with the profits of banks. It is not uncommon for the larger institutions to earn 50 per cent on the capital stock. In part, the federal reserve system, which allows 6 per cent to the twelve central banks, till a 100 per cent surplus is accumulated and then 90 per cent of the earnings, 10 per cent going to the banks, was an attempt to make a more general distribution of banking profits among the people. By as much as the government gets the income from the federal reserve banks, by so much does the taxpayer gain theoretically through the banking business. It does not appear, however, that the profits of the individual banks have been curtailed. Meanwhile, that infant of four years, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, earned 62 per cent on its capital stock last year.

DUN'S REVIEW

New York, June 13.—Dun's tomorrow will say:

Neither labor controversies nor foreign political uncertainties have caused deviation from the forward trend of business and the constructive elements in the situation, which have undergone no essential weakening, foreshadow sustained expansion. Where seasonal influences, such as preparations for mid-year inventorying, impose restraint on operations, the markets are now rather quieter, but nothing suggests lasting abatement of activities and many more points of gain than of loss are still apparent. The commercial recovery in fact has been recently more rapid and far-reaching than seems to be generally realized, and the lifting of the embargo on gold exports from this country, followed immediately by shipments of the metal to South America, is another step in the elimination of artificial restrictions and is significant of the movement toward to restoration of normal economic conditons. While the vexing delay in the actual adoption of the peace treaty remains an obstacle to a full measure of progress, less is heard of the deferring of important commitments on this account as consumers' needs develop more urgency and buyers see more clearly that further price recessions are unlikely and the disposition to anticipate future requirements is spreading in many quarters.

Weekly bank clearings $7,231,044,523.

Metals.

New York, June 13.—Copper, quiet but firm; electrolytic spot, June and July, 17¾; August, 17¾@18.

Iron unchanged. Metal exchange quotes lead easy; spot and July offered at 5.40. Spelter easy; spot, 6.25 bid; July 6.30 bid.

JOBS AS MECHANICS FOR DISABLED YANKS

Twenty-five positions are open to disabled soldiers who are first-class auto mechanics at the placement section of the federal board for vocational education, according to announcement made yesterday by Assistant Placement Supervisor Andy McElroy. The places pay the best of wages, and any disabled soldier who is qualified should communicate with the board at 818 Forsyth building.

Mr. McElroy also states that the board wishes to obtain employment in some clerical employment for a disabled soldier with seven years' office experience. Anyone in position to furnish employment in this case should call at the board, or phone Ivy 547.

Reserve Board Probe Into Loans Is On in Chicago

Results So Far Are Said to Demonstrate Conspicuously the Soundness of Finance in the Western Metropolis.

By C. B. Evans.

(The Constitution—London Times—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service.—Copyright, 1919.)

Chicago, June 13.—The investigation ordered b ythe feedral reserve board to determine the amount of loans at the member banks for speculative purposes, is now in progress in Chicago. Never was there a time when such an inquiry would result so conspicuously as a demonstration of the soundness of the situation here. One can recall periods during the past generation in which the conclusions of the investigators would have been unfavorable with respect to a number of our banks. In the days of the Hutchinson Harper and Leiter performances on the Chicago board of trade, and of many similar operations, some of the banks were supposed to overweighed with loans, although those loans were based on grain, which, in a way, is a world currency. We are out of the swim this time, not ever the cotton speculation having made any considerable draft on local resources.

New York Money Used.

Loans on stocks bought in New York are made with New York money in the main. Local securities have advanced much, but mainly through full pyament by the purchasers of moderate assistance by the banks. The reaction in prices in New York is likely to affect the quotations of some of our local stocks, but that is all the distinctive mark on Chicago that this investigation will make. Bankers in this city testify to a great recent increase in deposits. This comes not only from individuals in the city, but from corresponding banks within a radius of 500 miles. It is not merely that the number of depositors is increasing. The average deposit is growing. The danger of high rates for money here is therefore extremely small, though it is to be presumed that the market will be strong for an indefinite period on account of the active demand for all sorts of purposes. The bank clearings testify to the gain in financial activity the past six business days showing an increase of $94,000,000, or nearly 20 per cent. This compares with a rather laggard pace of this city in the earlier part of the year.

While the weakness of the stock market in the past two or three days is attributed to the menace of the government and the banks, and the tendency of call loans toward higher prices, local reports indicate a disposition to capitalize profits into safer forms, that is, into issues of assured permanent value, based on income or bonds, though the latter class of investments has not yet felt this change to any great extent. Even the most sanguine men have recognized that a great deal of froth has been created on the country's markets, partly through the expectation of big business, but also through the oil craze and similar sentiments.

Speculators Hit.

They do not believe in permanently high prices on stocks which before the war were regarded with contempt. They are getting a little tired of the "last equity," which came so prominently into fashion during the munitions boom, and are looking for something of a more staple qualiy. For this reason it is believed by bond men that their trade, now hardly up to par, will have a lift in the near future.

The federal reserve investigation may solve the enigma of great stock transactions and small loans in brokers' offices in New York, but there is no enigma here. It is believed that in this respect Chicago is typical of the whole country outside of the metropolis. Of course all these western banking centers keep considerable deposits in New York, out of which loans are made from time to time on Wall street, but there is a better guard on that line of operations than ever before during a period of inlation.

At Bordeaux, the other day, marines assembled and dispatched congratulations to the mutinous marinesof the Black sea, this disquieting act of solidarity producing a strong impression. The Journal Bon Soir says:

"M. Clemenceau himself has to acknowledge the unfortunate part played by his own policy in these happenings, when he promised a delegation of the labor federation that impending amnesty would extend to a meeting of this collective character."

These deplorable facts, together with the inseparable consequences, are among the causes of the anxiety felt by the authorities; the people feel that between a plenary indulgence, for collective mutiny, as promised, and Russian military soviets, the distance is short and easily traversed.

For the present, however I am being taught a lesson that American journalists should confine their reports of international crises to official communiques but I am a poor pupil. Before I ever learn that lesson our honored ally will have learned all public acts are proper newspaper facts and that American friendship cannot be kept on the basis of a muzzled press.

I am taking steps to assure the transmission of this message despite the censorship assuming that the full list of newspapers will demand an explanation of the outrage.

An interesting phase of my detention in Cario, which already has lasted eighteen days, is the apparent inability of Vice Consul Gotlieb to appreciate the constitutional guarantees of an American citizen. He smiles blandly and says he is acting on Washington's orders, overlooking the fact that Washington is dependent on him and those associated with him for facts here, that an American newspaper correspondent, representing leading newspapers, is practically made a prisoner for no other reason that that he told both sides of an important international situation to the American public and has a right to demand an uncensored appeal to his own government.

The habitual subserviency of minor American officials has put Washington in a position where it is answerable to the American public.

The military is saying that the only reason they refuse me permits to leave Cairo is the specific request of American officials. Nevertheless, the incident will reach congress and parliament before it is ended.

Anglophile functionaries may cause Washington to flout Egypt's trust in America, but not even they can take away the elementary rights of an American citizen whose only offense is loyalty to the American public and principles.

Practically Held a Prisoner.

Cairo, June 4.—(Delayed.)—It may seem incredible that an American newspaper correspondent is detained practically a prisoner n Cairosince May 16, only because he saw and told both sides of the Egyptian insurrection. His reports, already published in America, have been more than confirmed by the debate in parliament. There has been no criticism or bias or inaccuracy by him. This is done to punish a man for what America deems merit and loyalty to the primary principles of journalism. This may appear unbelievably stupid, but stupidity is the essence of censorship. Petty officials here are in possession of St. Peter's keys and power.

Feeling above all the obligations of truth, justice and honor, I am trying to forget how small they are in the world's scheme of things, and that eventually they are answerable to public opinion and the standard of civilization.

I may be kept here a few weeks more, but America and Great Britain will both know the reason why. Freedom of the press and enlightenment of America concerning conditions affecting her national future are more important than the unruffled equanimity of any allied officials.

Like Paul the Apostle.

Cairo, June 4.—Delayed.—Since filing three dispatches concerning my detention in Cairo, I have received a note from the consulate saying my passports will be vised for Turkey. Other vises are withheld.

No reasons were given for this outrage, and there were no explanations of the violations of my simplest rights.

Until such are forthcoming I will remain here.

Meanwhile, I am writing important material. See Acts, xvi, 35-37:

"35—And when it was day, the magistrates sent sergeants, saying, let those men go.

"36—And the keeper of the prison took this, saying to Paul, 'the magistrates have sent to let you go; now therefore, depart, and go in peace.'

"37—But Paul said unto them, 'They have beaten us openly, uncondemned, being Romans, and have cast us into prison; and now do they thrust us out privately, nay, verily; but let them come themselves and fetch us out.'"

GERMAN TREATY BEING REWRITTEN

made public Monday, according to present plans. It is expected that the text of the German counter proposals which has never been given out, also will be made public shortly.

The council of four today devoted both of its sessions to the revision of the text of the treaty. When the forenoon session ended, the council had sent to the revision commission nine out of eighteen reports before it. Among those remaining to be passed are several dealing with important subjects.

The subjects include the Sarre valley, Alsace-Lorraine and the league of nations.

Some Changes Highly Important.

Many of the divergencies from the old text in the new treaty are of a minor nature, but some are highly important. This is notably true of the second paragraph of article 232, where the English text of the old document limited compensation Germany was to make to damage done the civilian population of the allied and associated powers and to their property "during the period of the belligerency of each as an allied or associated power against Germany."

This wording excluded American losses during the period of the neutrality of the United States and Italian losses during the time when Italy was at war with Austria, but not with Germany. The French text, however, contained no such limit clause.

The drafting committee elsewhere had used the words "may" and "shall" interchangeably in translating the same French expression, apparently without noticing the important difference involved.

Aside from the divergencies here noted, the reparations clauses will go into the new treaty virtually unchanged. Other sections of the treaty, however, will be re-written.

A new text is required to cover the changes in the Polish frontier and the plebiscite in Silesia. The intimation was made today for the first time that a revised draft on the Danish frontiers is expected, indicating that the conference leaders had decided to take into consideration the objections of both Germany and Denmark to a plebiscite in the southernmost section of Schleswig. Denmark declined to receive this section because it is predominantly German.

It was the finding of such errors as that in article 232 that furnished an additional reason for presenting an entirely new draft of the treaty. Errors and inconsistencies in the draft first presented were continually being discovered, and these would have had to be corrected before the document was signed. This was particularly the case because the text of the treaty is in both French and English, both versions being specified as "authentic" or binding.

Eleventh-Hour Change by British.

The British have made an eleventh-hour attempt to reopen the question of reparations. They have submitted proposals introducing into the functions of the permanent reparations commissions the principle of control of raw materials, etc., furnished Germany, enabling the commission to control Germany's economic development during the period it operates.

The British effort has not met with a sympathetic reception by the reparations commission, to which it was referred. It seems improbable that the proposals will be accepted, but they constitute one of the causes of the delay of the reply to the Germans, which it was rumored today probably would not be presented until Monday.

PREMIER ORLANDO RETURNS TO ITALY.

Paris, June 13.—Premier Orlando of Italy left for Rome last night, intending to confer with the parliamentary leaders relative to the work of the peace conference and to settle certain urgent questions, notably those concerning military precautions contemplated on the Carinthian frontier. General Diaz, commander-in-chief of the Italian armies, accompanied Premier Orlando and will be in personal control on the frontier.

ANGLO-FRENCH GOODS REACHING GERMANY.

Paris, June 13.—The question of large amounts of British and French goods finding their way into Germany from the occupied regions has been raised in the supreme economic council of the peace conference. The proposal has been made that some form of control be instituted to prevent one nation trading without the knowledge or consent of the others.

SOCIALISTS SCORE TERMS OF PEACE.

Weimar, June 13.—Resolutions expressing indignation at the "peace of violence" which makes Germany's future "impossible" were adopted by the majority socialist party at its convention. The resolutions declare that the peace terms are not in conformity with President Wilson's fourteen points or built upon the basis set forth by the international socialist conferences at Berne and Amsterdam.

International socialists are called upon by the party to protest against what is characterized as "the most unheard-of peace of modern history." It is likewise demanded that the German republic be admitted immediately to the league of nations as a member with full rights.

Of its home government, the party demands that it make a relentless investigation of all who were responsible for the outbreak and conduct of the war.

TURKS TO DEMAND CONSTANTINOPLE.

Paris, June 13.—There has been no communication as yet between officials of the peace conference and the Turkish delegates which is at Vaucreson under French supervision. The restrictions about the Turks are the same as those at St. Germain and Versailles.

The Turks, it is understood, stand firmly for the retention of the Ottoman government in Constantinople. They are divided about equally as to whether France or Great Britain should have the mandate for Turkey. There has been no mention of the United States in this connection, it is understood.

Fifth Ward Women Planning Increase In Registration

At an enthusiastic community meeting held at the English Avenue school Friday afternoon it was decided to arrange for a delegation to go from the fifth ward every Monday afternoon to the registration offices and qualify as voters. Twenty women went last Monday, and fifteen others promised to go in a party next Monday.

Co-chairmen for the ward to act as the local representatives of the Atlanta League of Women Voters were elected, and plans made for district chairmen to aid in registration.

Miss Sally Fanny Gleaton, national organizer, was one of the speakers and Mrs. Haynes McFadden, vice president of the league, another. Their talks were well received and the women present agreed to interest their neighbors in registering before August 5. Owing to the size of the Fifth ward and the interest in school affairs which has been manifested by the women of that section, it is expected that a strong showing will be made from there.

Kuhns Street Will Change of Name Soon To Euclid Terrace

The street committee of council Friday afternoon approved a resolution by Councilman J. L. Carpenter to change the name of Kuhns street, in the ninth ward, to Euclid terrace. The resolution was accompanied by a petition signed by a number of residents.

Councilman Al Martin introduced a resolution to pave with asphalt two blocks on the extreme end of Washington street, which, it is said, has become almost impassable at this point. With these two blocks paved Mr. Martin said another thoroughfare besides the Pryor street route will be opened to Lakewood and the section adjacent. Asphalt capping on the present Belgian blocks will be the material used, provided the county commissioners will furnish the asphalt, which, it is said, they have already virtually agreed to do. The committee approved the resolution and also one asking the county commissioners for the asphalt.

The committee approved other resolutions to request the county commissioners to pave Campbellton road from Lee street to the city limits; to change the slope of an excavation adjacent to the Georgia School of Technology; to repair Hampton street between Marietta and Tenth streets; to repair Curran street, between Marietta and Tenth streets; to appropriate $500 additional to shape and roll McMillan street, from Marietta street to Hemphill avenue; condemning old sidewalk on Simpson street between Hull and Marietta streets.

Favorable action was taken on an ordinance to pave Juniper street between North avenue and Twelfth street. Twice recently ordinances to pave this street have been repealed to meet some technical objection.

LOCAL COMPANY BUYS THOMAS COUNTY BONDS

Thomasville, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—Two hundred thousand dollars of the permanent road bonds of Thomas county have been disposed of at a premium of four thousand dollars, the successful bidder for the bonds being the Trust Company of Georgia, in Atlanta. The bid made by the Trust company was approximately 102 for the batch of bonds offered.

The city of Thomasville has also disposed of forty-five thousand dollars of the city bonds remaining from the issue for local improvements to J. H. Hillsman & Co. The entire issue was bought at par, but it was necessary to pay a commission of eighteen hundred dollars for the transaction.

The county bonds bear 5 per cent interest and the city bonds 4½ per cent.

Notice to Contractors. Nurses Home, Georgia State Sanitarium, Milledgeville, Ga.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Trustees of the Georgia State Sanitarium, Milledgeville, Ga., until 10 o'clock July 1, 1919, for the construction of a Nurses' Home on the grounds of the said institution.

Plans and specifications may be seen at the office of T. H. DeSaussure, Georgia State Sanitarium, Milledgeville, Ga., or upon application to Mr. A. Ten Eyck Brown, Forsyth Building, Atlanta, Ga.

Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check in the sum of 2 per cent of the amount of such bid, made payable to the Board of Trustees of the Georgia State Sanitarium; said check to be forfeited as and for liquidated damages in case the bidder fails to enter into contract, should the work be awarded to him, and should he not make bond in the sum of 50 per cent of the contract price, with an approved surety company, as surety for the faithful performance of the contract.

All proposals shall be sealed and marked "PROPOSAL FOR NURSES' HOME" and addressed to

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES,
Georgia State Sanitarium, Milledgeville, Ga.

WORK TO START SOON ON PAVING PROJECTS

Work on three important street paving projects for which awards have been made by city council to contractors will begin before the end of next week. The Pittman Construction company, which has the contract to pave Marietta street from North avenue to the Howell Mill road, has already begun work.

The city will also begin paving Luckie street, starting at Bartow street and going northward. The McDougald Construction company will start at Mitchell street on the Whitehall street project. This company will pave Whitehall street from Alabama street to Mitchell street with granite blocks from curb to curb. It is expected that the paving of Juniper street from North avenue to Twelfth street will be gotten under way.

Just as soon as Whitehall street is finished work will start on South Pryor street from the W. & A. railroad to Mitchell street, the McDougald company having this contract.

Chief of Construction H. L. Collier said Friday that with these four streets torn up at the same time the public would necessarily experience some inconvenience in the matter of vehicle traffic, but that their patience, if they will exercise it, will be rewarded with some fine streets.

Non-Union Man Fined On Charge of Hitting Pretty Girl Striker

Eddie Perry, a non-union employee of the telephone company, was arraigned in police court Friday on the charge of assaulting Miss Mattie Dodd, a pretty young girl, living at 282 Hemphill avenue, who quit work when the strike was first called.

Judge Johnson held that Perry was guilty of disorderly conduct and fined him $5 and costs. Carl Lancaster, attorney for Miss Dodd, announced that he was going to take out a state warrant against Perry, charging him with assault.

Miss Dodd told the court that she was talking to Miss Beulah Ivy, of 323 Richardson street, a nonunion employee of the telephone company, when Perry rushed from behind and hit her a hard blow in the face with a magazine. Several witnesses also swore they saw Perry strike the young woman.

Perry denied the charges, claiming that he had only asked Miss Ivy to walk down the street with him. Miss Ivy also asserted she did not see him strike Miss Dodd. Perry was represented by Attorney James A. Branch.

TEACHERS OF BIBB PROMISED INCREASE

Macon, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—Bibb county public schools closed for the summer vacation period and more than 12,000 children were released from their studies to do their own bidding for the next three months.

The schools close this summer with the assurance that the Bibb county teachers will receive a substantial increase in pay next year, the Bibb county commissioners having granted the request of the board of education for $192,000 for running the schools next year. While this sum is approximately the same as last year, several thousand dollars of last year's appropriations went for building improvements. This year the surplus will go for increased salaries and whatever improvement work must be done will be paid for out of the $400,000 bond money which was recently voted for new school buildings. Whether the salaries will be continued as they now stand for the eleven month period instead of nine months or whether the amount per month will be increased will be decided by the committee on teachers next Monday.

DARE OF CUMMINGS REJECTED BY HAYS

G. O. P. Chairman Says His Party Will Not Make Partisan Issue of League of Nations. Calls It American Question.

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 13.—Will H. Hays, chairman of the national committee of the republican party, in an address tonight rejected the challenge of Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the national democratic committee, recently made in Chicago, that the republicans make a partisan issue of the league of nations. Mr. Hays without naming the league, nevertheless, said:

"The conclusion of the treaty of peace, including all its provisions —when we know what they are—is in no sense a partisan question. It is an American question. In the same spirit in which republicans during the recent war measured their every act by how they could contribute most to effective action, so now they are determined to meet this new phase of the war problem in that revived spirit of fervent Americanism which is the glorified result of our experience of fire and blood, moving with a full appreciation of this country's duty as a responsible factor in the world of today and tomorrow with the earnest determination to do all that can possibly be done toward the maintenance of peace without sacrificing our own supreme nationalism, the preservation of which in its integrity is the greatest safeguard for the future, not only for the citizens of this country, but for all peoples everywhere."

Speaking of his party, which now controls both branches of congress, Mr. Hays declared. "We shall bring this government back to the limitations of the constitution in times of peace.

"There must be strong federal regulation, but not federal ownership."

"We are against paternalism in government, and we are against that form of pedagogic paternalism that has developed recently in this country."

"We will not forget that while we fight to make certain the rights of free government in the world, we have a republic to preserve in this country; that we are a representative government, not a Bolshevik syncopation."

"We have insisted and now insist, that we are as unprepared for peace as we were for war. We slipped along under this democratic administration, without any adequate thought of the problems that would confront us just as we did before we entered the war. 'Watchful waiting' was as fallacious in this as it was as to Mexico or as to the failure to prepare for war when war was at our gates, or as to Russia."

Mr. Hays mentioned the passing of the suffrage amendment and said the republican vote for the measure spoke for itself.

The party had a great duty ahead in "taking hold of the situation in Washington," he said, "in the interests of economy." The war bills would be paid and willingly, "but we do not propose to permit the use of the war as an alibi for everything."

FRIDAY, THE 13TH, HAS NO TERRORS FOR GIRLS' HIGH

Regardless of the day and date, Friday, the 13th, the junior class of Girls' High school entertained in honor of the seniors at noon Friday. The farewell banquet was prepared and served entirely by the entertaining class.

Among those who took part in the program were Misses Elizabeth McCarrick, Memory Tucker, Janet Millis, Gussie Rogers, Josephine Joel, Nancy Tripp, Frances Fort, Kathleen Clements, Ethel Niall, Margaret Parker, Elise Shover, Emma Goodrich, Carrie Foy Yarbrough, Arcadia Near, Elizabeth Branch, Catherine Abbott.

Prizes Are Awarded To Leading Central Night School Pupils

One of the largest seventh grades in the history of the school, and one of the largest ever completing the grade in Atlanta was graduated at the commencement exercises of the Central High school Friday evening. Besides the 45 in this class, there were 49 to receive certificates in special subjects.

Superintendent W. F. Dykes presided over the meeting, and Dr. J. Sprole Lyons, of the First Presbyterian church, delivered the principal address. His subject was "What it Means to Be An American." He talked of the winning of America, its development and the future which is now opening for young Americans as they come out of school.

There were musical numbers by Mrs. Grace Lee Townsend and Miss Arlene Thrasher.

The certificates were delivered to the students by Fred Winburn, vice-president of the board of education, taking the place of President Paul Fleming, who was unable to be present. Medals were presented to the following pupils: For excellence in typewriting, Arthur Holt; in stenography, Miss Ruth Dayton; for the best essay on the subject, "What the Night School Means to Me," R. Haralson.

Honorable mention was made of the following: Miss Katie King, for typewriting; Robert Black, for stenography. Certificates in special subjects were divided as follows: Thirty-seven stenography and typewriting; eight in typewriting; three in bookkeeping, and one in stenography.

ROBBERS ARE BALKED BY BANK MESSENGER

New York, June 13.—The alertness of an elderly bank messeger who pursued six hold-up men down the stairway of an uptown Manhattan elevated station and felled one of them with a revolver shot, frustrated a daring attempt at daylight robbery here today. The robber, who was shot, was fleeing with a bag said to have contained $100,000 in securities taken from David Ryan, the messenger who did the shooting, and Henry Boylan, employes of the Colonial bank, who were taking the funds to the federal reserve bank.

The robbers had rendered Boylan unconscious by pressing a wad of cotton saturated with chloroform to his face, while Ryan was stunned with a blow from a blackjack. However, as the thugs ran toward the street Ryan followed them and fired four shots at the group. The man with the bag collapsed, releasing his hold on it and while his companions were carrying him to a waiting automobile, Ryan retrieved the valuables.

The hold-up occurred at 81st street and Columbus avenue and the robbers, of whom the police have a fairly accurate description, made off in a green touring car from which the license plate had been removed.

The pastor, Rev. Horace Williams, and members are entertaining the Allen Endeavor League convention of the Atlanta conference this week.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS ASKED TO FIGHT DRY LAW REPEAL

Dr. Charles O. Jones, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Georgia, who has just returned from Washington, last night issued an appeal to every Sunday school and church in the state to pass resolutions at their Sunday services petitioning congress not to repeal the war prohibition law which goes into effect July 1.

"We want the churches and Sunday schools to wire their resolutions at once to the Georgia senators and congressmen," Dr. Jones added. "The matter will be up before a subcommittee of congress Monday, and appeals will be heard on both sides. We feel that petitions from churches and Sunday schools will have particular weight at that time."

Dr. Jones while in Washington attended the great convention at which was organized the Anti-Saloon League of the World, with delegates from twenty foreign countries. A crusade will be started at once, he stated, to make the entire world bone dry by 1930, and the convention felt gratification at the fact that Scotland votes on local option this year.

FAIR WEATHER TODAY, SAYS THE FORECASTER

Fair weather is promised Atlantans for Saturday and Sunday by the weather men. The rainy area has passed over this section after a few scattering showers, and real summer weather now is indicated, officials say.

Higher temperatures will set in Saturday. The local bureau predicts fair and moderately warm weather for Saturday. Official Washington says Saturday will be fair in this section and that Sunday probably will find the mercury higher.

RABBI BORVICK WILL SPEAK TWICE TODAY

The Atlanta Jewish community will have a chance to hear Rabbi Abraham Borvick, of Elmira, N. Y., a well-known Talmudical scholar and a leader of the American Mizrachi Zionist organization, when he speaks today at 5 o'clock at the Gilmer Street synagogue, and Sunday at 7 o'clock.

WAGGONER HOME AFTER TRIP TO NORTH

Detective Sergeant "Bob" Waggoner, who for the last two weeks has been on an extended tour of the cities of the north and east, Friday night had returned to the city and was back on his job at the police station. In company with Sergeant Waggoner on the trip was John Thompson, dispatcher for the Georgia Railway and Power company. Both visited Washington, New York, Buf-

REPORT DEFENDS PHONE COMPANY

Workers Not Discharged for Union Affiliation, It Is Stated — Big Labor Demonstration for This Afternoon.

The principal developments in the local strike situation Friday were the preliminary report of Postal Inspector J. W. Cole to the effect that the employees of the Southern Bell Telephone company were not dismissed for union affiliation; the claims of strakers that a refusal of railroad telegraphers to handle commercial business this morning will seriously interfere with the handling of Georgia watermelons and peaches, and the announcement of the detailed plans for a big labor demonstration to be held this afternoon, when 1,000 union operators and their sympathizers will parade through the business districts.

The information was given out by the strikers that the nation-wide walkout of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which is scheduled to take place Monday morning, and which is expected to affect 250 men in Atlanta, would be directed against the Western Union, the Postal and the Southern Bell companies, not interfering with the members of the I. B. E. W., who are working for the Georgia Railway and Power company, or private commercial concerns employing electrical workers.

Situation Little Changed.

The situation with reference to the strike Friday shows but little change from the first days, both telegraph companies and the telephone company reporting their business about normal. The strikers claim, however, that many more of the operators who did not join the strike at first are coming out, and it was reported at the afternoon meeting of strikers that the intensive picket campaign that has been inaugurated has brought at least twenty new recruits from the ranks of the company workers.

The report of Postal Inspector Cole, which was sent to Washington Friday, declares that the operators dismissed by the telephone company were taken off the company's pay rolls for "good and sufficient" reasons, and not for union affiliations and activities. The claim of the strikers that members of the C. T. U. A. in Atlanta had been dismissed by the Southern Bell for belonging to the union was the issue upon which the present nation-wide strike against the telephone company and the two big commercial telegraph companies was predicated. The report which was wired to Atlanta from Washington Friday afternoon follows:

"Dismissed For Reason."

Employees of the Southern Bell Telephone company at Atlanta were dismissed "for good and sufficient" reasons, and not because of union affiliations, Postal Inspector Cole reported to Postmaster General Burleson today.

A preliminary report made public by the postmaster general said:

"Investigation of the telephone case concluded today. The company (Southern Bell) has shown good and sufficient reasons for all dismissals or other changes in force and, after painstaking and exhaustive inquiry, no evidence is found to support the charge that employees have been discharged or otherwise discriminated against on account of union membership or other activity. Full report will go forward as soon as it can be prepared, and should reach Washington not later than Monday."

The postmaster general will await the arrival of the full report, it was announced at the department, and will then go over it in detail.

Made Long Investigation.

The report of Inspector Cole was rendered after an investigation covering several days in Atlanta, during which much testimony was heard from both sides of the controversy. A former report upon the matter was sent to the postmaster general, in which it was then said that unless additional evidence tending to show that employees had been dismissed for union affiliation could be obtained that the strikers' claims could not be substantiated.

It is understood from union leaders that the report of the postal inspectors will have but little, if any, effect upon the struggle, which has spread from the Southern Bell to the Western Union and Postal telegraph companies, and now involves a nation-wide struggle. It is also stated that the contention of the men striking now includes seven points of demand involving such principles as collective bargaining, better wages, better working conditions, etc., and that the strike will continue until a victory comes for the union.

The order that was issued forbidding the members of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers from handling Western Union and other commercial business in joint railroad and commercial offices, is declared by the strikers to carry with it a severe potential blow at the fruit growers and shippers of Georgia, who are now gathering and moving the fine peach and watermelon crops from various Georgia points.

"Without communication with markets and being unable to receive orders and quotations," said a prominent union man, "the points where the joint offices are located will find themselves badly hampered in handling watermelons and peaches. The names of Byron, Andersonville, Reynolds and Montezuma were given by the strikers where joint offices are located and where O. R. T. men, it is claimed, will refuse to handle commercial messages today.

Will Not Be Badly Hurt.

The Georgia Fruit Exchange, which has offices in the Walton building, and which claims to handle 85 per cent of the watermelons and peaches, gave out the statement last night that its business would not be seriously interfered with, as communications would be kept up with the majority of its shipping points. It was pointed out, however, that in some of the small points where there are joint offices a number of independent shippers, that some losses might accrue from the failure to get into wire communication with markets.

The Western Union, with many joint offices in the fruit belt, is understood to be taking every precaution to save shippers from suffering losses because of interrupted communications.

Inquiries at the United States railway administration offices developed the information that no complaint of refusals on the part of railroad operators to handle Western Union messages had been received, and that no action could be taken in the matter until a case in point was brought up to the administration. Asked as to the proceedure in case instances of refusal were brought before the administration, no reply was given.

It is understood that the railroads, which almost universally lease wires for operating trains from the Western Union, have contracts as a part of the lease consideration to have the operators of the railroad handle the commercial business of the telegraph company in places where the business done would not justify the maintenance of a commercial office. It is also understood that the O. R. T. operators are under contract to handle this business, but it is further claimed that the union operators have a clause in the contract that gives them the right to refuse the handling of commercial business in case of a strike by allied crafts.

Situation With O. R. T.

Whether or not the railroad administration will undertake to enforce demands upon O. R. T. operators, should any of them refuse commercial business today, could not be learned.

With many of the strikers who have left the keys of the Postal and Western Union companies in other cities gathering in Atlanta, and with the ranks of the union people being augmented each day, announcements have been made for a big demonstration that will be featured this afternoon at 3 o'clock by a parade that will traverse the business section of the city, with 1,000 or more strikers in line. The parade will begin at the state capitol, march down Mitchell street to Forsyth, down Forsyth to Auburn, to Ivy thence to Edgewood and back through Pryor street to the Temple of Labor.

A brass band will be in the lead of the line, and strikers' organizations will carry banners.

The strike of the electrical workers, which goes into effect, according to announcement, on Monday morning, will affect 250 workers in Atlanta, and will not involve the men employed by the electric light and other Atlanta concerns employing electrical workers.

Statement by Sitton.

The following statement was made by Chairman W. E. Sitton, of the division committee of the Association of Western Union Employees, with reference to a campaign of publicity that will be put on by that organization:

The Association of Western Union Employees is paying for a half-page advertisement which appears in this issue of The Constitution. The cost of this advertisement is pro-rated between the three Atlanta locals, Commercial, Traffic and Plant, according to membership. We anticipate that the C. T. U. A., now on a strike, which organization is making such strenuous efforts to convince the public that the association of Western Union Employees is company controlled, will also seek to convince the public that our advertisement is paid for by the company.

The first paragraph of the advertisement sets forth plainly its object and it is desired to emphasize the fact that this advertisement is paid for by the association of Western Union Employees and is in defense of its members, who are in no sense of the word strikebreakers, but bona fide members of a fully organized labor union performing all the functions of a labor union and just as determined that our well-matured and scientifically worked-out plans for the welfare of our profession shall be carried out, as it seems that the C. T. U. A. is to tear them down.

We of the Association of Western Union Employees realize that a peculiar situation is presented to those on the outside—one labor union, representing 90 per cent of the industry concerned, being so bitterly fought by a rival union composed of a comparatively insignificant minority; and this little minority whose organized defection has not even crippled the telegraph service of the country, clamoring for the support of organized labor, and aspersing the Association of Western Union Employees, a labor union which in Atlanta has a paid-up membership of 585 of the 777 individuals on the Western Union payroll in this city (and, be it understood, this 777 comprises everyone from the division general manager down), 125 of whom are ineligible for membership. No one with authority to employ or discharge is a member of the Association of Western Union Employees. It is also in order that the public may know something of the real condition existing in the ranks of the telegraph fraternity, that our campaign of publicity is begun with today's advertisement in The Constitution.

As to what the Association of Western Union Employees has already accomplished, we refer to the advertisement in this issue of The Constitution, and with pride we point to the fact that the Atlanta grievance committee has already handled 22 grievances, 21 of which were decided favorably to the employee and one was returned as without merit; a 100 per cent record in our dealings with the company and almost a perfect score in the integrity and fairness of our membership.

RAILWAY KEYMEN QUIT TRADE MESSAGES

erators, and that reports from other cities showed many men coming back to work. The report that officials of the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America had submitted to the Postal Telegraph company conditions upon which an agreement could be based was attributed by Mr. Reynolds to the fact that "Postal operators in the union are bringing pressure to bear on the union leaders to call off the strike."

"No principle is involved in this strike," he continued, "and the men are becoming restless. We are informed that they are coming back even at strike strongholds like Birmingham, Ala., and we received a report this afternoon that the local at Detroit had voted to call the strike off.

"While we have had no negotiations with the men and are not urging them to come back, we are willing to take them back without prejudice and without considering their continuity of service interrupted, if they return within a reasonable time."

BOYS OF THE 326TH REACH CAMP GORDON

One hundred men and officers of the 326th infantry regiment, Eighty-second division, arrived at Camp Gordon early last night in a special troop train from Camp Merritt, and were immediately detrained, put through the receiving station of the cantonment and assigned to quarters.

This shipment is said to be the last of the southern members of the 326th who will come to Camp Gordon, a larger detachment of the regiment having arrived at Gordon over a week ago. The fact that the regiment was quarantined for some time overseas by medical authorities of the expeditionary forces accounts for the delay of its members in reaching the camp.

Friday night's arrivals were in charge of Lieutenants Few and Chapman, and they were largely made up of Georgians and Alabamans. They left Camp Merritt for Camp Gordon on June 11, and, as has been the case with the other Eighty-second troops who have been discharged at Gordon, are expected to be demobilized within forty-eight hours.

The union army in the civil war lost 186,216 men by deaths from diseases and 93,368 killed. In the Spanish-American war the number of Americans killed was 454, while 5,277 died from disease.
